FRONT VIEW OF DAMAGED AUTO

By WALTER S. CLARK
Traffic accidents claimed the lives of a Marlboro man and an upstate woman, who were killed when hit by a car on Route 28 in the Town of Ulster Saturday night, and the life of a 25-year-old Saugerties postal employee who was fatally hurt Sunday night when run over by a car on the Thruway near Nyack.

Victims of the double-death mishap were George L. Brooks, 54, of Western Avenue, Marlboro, and Julia M. Smith, 51, of Merchants Road, Jefferson.

Killed in the Thruway accident was Rolf L. Stark, of RD 3, Box 105, Saugerties.

County Toll Now Nine
The deaths of Brooks and the upstate woman boosted the Ulster County highway death toll for 1968 to nine. Four deaths have resulted on area roads this month. The ninth fatality in 1967 occurred on April 9 on Route 32 near Quarryville.

According to Kingston State Police, Brooks and the woman were walking across Route 28 about 1½ miles north of Route 209 in the direction of a diner at 8 p.m. Saturday, when they reportedly stepped between parked cars and barely escaped being hit by an eastbound car. As they again started across the road they were struck by a westbound car driven by Michael J. Vente, 19, of Box 35, Shokan.

Doctors Ambulance took the victims to Kingston Hospital. Brooks died of lacerated lungs and a crushed chest, troopers said. The Jefferson woman's death resulted from shattered skull and brain lacerations.

Ulster County Coroner Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties ruled both deaths accidental.

No Charges Lodged
Troopers said Vente was treated at Kingston Hospital for shock. The accident was investigated by BCI Investigator W. E. Wiedemann, Sergeant Joseph Ellsworth and Troopers David Wachtel and E. A. Zeboris. No charges were lodged by the investigators.

Thruway State Police reported Stark's car became disabled at the west end of the Tappan Zee Bridge at about 7:35 p.m. Sunday. Stark saw a service car in the vicinity of the Nyack Service area nearby and he started to walk across the Thruway to get assistance.

As Stark attempted to make his way through traffic he was hit and instantly killed by a car operated by Joseph Tota, 56-year-old resident of New City.

Thomas Grossi, 41, of Pine Bush, sustained injuries of the right elbow Saturday, when his car was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Jerome Plaza, 21, of Pine Bush. The mishap occurred on the Church Road north of Walker Valley in the Town of Shawangunk, according to Ellenville troopers who cited Grossi for failure to keep right.

Another on 209
A two-car collision on Route 209 south of Accord on Saturday resulted in no injuries. Troopers said the vehicles were driven by Gilbert Avery, 32 and Sidney Solberg, 49, both of Accord.

Two U. S. Marines returning from their upstate homes to a base in Virginia at 1:30 a.m. today were injured when their car went out of control and down an embankment off the Thruway about nine miles south of Kingston. Trooper P. J. Morrissey said the car was operated by William Eggleston, 23, of 810 Federal Street, Troy, who sustained a possible broken right leg.

A passenger, John Hines, 21, of Albany, received lacerations of the left ear and neck, and contusions of the chest. Both were taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance. Eggleston told troopers he was driving south and swerved the car to avoid a deer when he lost control.

Loses Control on Curve
At 1:30 a.m. today, Wayne Myrick, 18, of Bellrose, was driving his car north on Springtown Road, New Paltz, when he lost control on a curve. The vehicle veered off the road and hit a utility pole. Myrick sustained lacerations of the forehead and left hand. A passenger, Joseph McCutcheon, 18, of Box 409, Saugerties, received cuts of the right ear. Both were treated at the New Paltz Medical Center. Trooper P. A. Koenig investigated.

Sampan Fleet Demolished by American Planes

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — American helicopter gunships and fighter-bombers have smashed 245 sampans carrying weapons and food to Viet Cong troops in the Mekong Delta in the last three days, the U.S. Command said today.

Gunships destroyed 114 sampans and damaged another 50 Sunday at an enemy base camp near the Cambodian border, he said. Pilots spotted the flotilla while flying support missions for South Vietnamese civilian irregulars and their U.S. Special Forces advisers fighting the Viet Cong 116 miles southwest of Saigon.

Earlier Sunday, South Vietnamese infantrymen spotted a force estimated as a battalion moving in sampans near the delta city of Sa Dec, 80 miles southwest of Saigon, and called in air strikes, U.S. pilots reported, sinking 36 sampans and said the enemy fled into nearby woods.

Numerous secondary explosions have been reported after the recent attacks on the sampans, indicating they were carrying ammunition or fuel.

U.S. officials said the volume of war supplies, presumably coming from Cambodia along many rivers and canals, has increased considerably in recent days.

This indicates the Viet Cong may be replenishing supplies depleted during their lunar new year offensive for possible fresh

Panama Troubles Continue
PANAMA (AP)—National Guard troops smashed the headquarters of opponents of President Marco A. Robles today and arrested an opposition leader after the National Assembly swore in a new president—an action Robles ignored.

The troops moved in two hours after twice-deposed ex-President Arnulfo Arias called for nationwide civil resistance—understood to mean a general strike—in support of the assembly's decision to convict Robles of unconstitutional political activity and suspend him from office.

Dam Burst Tragedy
LEE, Mass. (AP)—An earthen dam built to control spring flooding gave way Sunday, letting loose a wall of water that killed one man, wrecked homes and dumped mud in a building four miles away.

Rescuers searched for the body of a woman believed trapped when water from man-made Lake Lee poured through a 40-foot hole in the dam.

Police said the water gushed into East Lee Brook—normally a placid trout stream—overflowed its banks and swept away everything in its path.

Sheep Deaths . . . and Nerve Gas
SKULL VALLEY, Utah (AP)—An investigation to determine what killed some 6,400 sheep in this desolate, semiarid western Utah valley continued today as ranchers moved into the pastures to shoot other suffering sheep.

In the past 10 days sheep began dying by the thousands and several qualified veterinarians have linked their deaths to nerve gas testing at the Army's Dugway Proving Ground adjacent to the rangeland.

Iwo Flag Comes Down
TOKYO (AP)—The Stars and Stripes no longer flies over Mount Suribachi on the island battlefield of Iwo Jima, a spokesman in the U. S. Embassy in Tokyo reported today.

Last week a small group of Marines from Honolulu lowered the flag on Suribachi "quietly and without much ceremony." A bronze replica of the flag was placed at the site. Iwo is one of the Volcano islands which along with the Bonins are to be restored to Japanese rule later this year.

Swirling Waters Flood Lowlands With Spring Runoff

After a weekend of rain, snow and high winds, streams in many Ulster County areas were running full. In some lowlands, such as this section of the Esopus Creek terrain near the old Ulster and Delaware Railroad Bridge off Hurley Avenue, minor flooding occurred. A .48 inch rainfall accumulation was recorded in Kingston over the weekend but no major flooding was reported either in the city or by the county highway department. Warmer weather is forecast for most of the week with pre-April showers expected toward the end of the week. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Massive Air, Sea Search Resumes For Irish Airliner Carrying 61

By RONALD THOMSON
FISGUARD, Wales (AP) — Bodies and bits of wreckage were found today near where an Irish airliner plunged spinning into the Irish Sea Sunday with 61 persons aboard. Hope has almost been abandoned for finding any survivors.

Two Bodies Picked Up
The British Air-Sea Rescue Center, directing the search, said a frigate had picked up two bodies and sighted a third. Wreckage was found, too, about eight miles off Rosslare Point, Wexford, Ireland.

The last cryptic message from the pilot said "...at least 1,000 feet...spinning rapidly."

Lifeboats from Kilmore and Dunmore on the Irish coast put to sea and an Irish Army helicopter joined the search for more bodies and wreckage.

On shore, squads of police from Wexford and Rosslare patrolled the beaches, should anything be washed up there.

The British navy frigate HMS Hardy reported she would put into Rosslare harbor tonight with three bodies and some wreckage.

The finding of the bodies, closer to the Irish coast than expected, drew an armada of vessels which had been concentrating the search nearer the British mainland.

Complete Mystery
Royal Air Force Shackleton aircraft also moved in to help. Investigators urgently needed wreckage from the Aer Lingus British-built Viscount airliner to provide clues as to the reason for the crash.

Capt. Gordon Black, air safety officer for Aer Lingus, said earlier, "The thing is a complete mystery."

No Americans were known to have been aboard the plane, which was on a scheduled flight from Cork to London. The passengers included nine Swiss citizens who had been on a fishing vacation in southern Ireland.

Seconds before the crash, another Irish airliner in the area picked up a radio message apparently from the ill-fated plane that it was spinning at 1,000 feet.

'Spinning Rapidly'
The message, much of it lost in background noise, was: "We moved ... breaking up ... that's better ... Who are you talking to? 1,000 feet, spinning rapidly."

An airline spokesman said the weather at the time of the crash was normal and "nothing that a Viscount could not cope with."

However, rain swept in from the west later in the day and hampered search operations.

The spokesman added that the airline "never had experience of an aircraft spinning before, nor do I know of any other case."

He said the plane had been in service for about 12 years.

600 Foot Depth
St. George's Channel, a part of the Irish Sea where the search is centered, is about 600 feet deep. A Royal Navy spokesman said deep-sea sounding equipment would probably be used if no debris is found in the next day or two.

The master of the German ship Metric said a deckhand had reported seeing a column of water in the area about the time the airliner is presumed to have crashed.

The crash appeared likely to be the worst in the 37-year history of the state-owned airline and its first fatal accident in 16 years.

This indicates the Viet Cong may be replenishing supplies depleted during their lunar new year offensive for possible fresh attacks in the delta. U.S. officials said the allies have begun a major effort to stop the sampan traffic.

Copters Downed

On South Vietnam's northern frontier, North Vietnamese gunners shot down two U.S. Marine helicopters near Khe Sanh. One, a gunship, was attacking an enemy bunker complex two miles northwest of the Marine fortress. Its four crewmen were rescued but suffered burns when the chopper crashed.

A Marine patrol had called for gunships and artillery support after clashing briefly with the enemy platoon. It reported 31 North Vietnamese soldiers and five Marines were killed and four Marines wounded.

Enemy groundfire also hit a big CH-46 Sea Knight helicopter landing with cargo five miles southwest of Camp Carroll, the artillery base to the east that supports Khe Sanh. Although moderately damaged, the helicopter landed safely and the crew was uninjured, spokesmen said.

About 100 shells hit the Khe Sanh base Sunday, a sharp drop from the more than 600 rounds fired into the fortress on each of the two previous days. Casualties were reported light.

B-52 Raids

In reply to the earlier heavy shelling, U.S. B-52 bombers had dropped as much as 1,000 tons of explosives Saturday night and Sunday on suspected positions of the estimated 16,000 enemy troops believed encircling Khe Sanh. The eight-engine Starfortresses flew six more raids Sunday night and today.

Enemy strength around Khe Sanh had been reported as 20,000. Military sources said the new figure represented a refinement of intelligence estimates and did not signify enemy withdrawals or losses. More than 6,000 allied troops, mostly U. S. Marines, defend the base.

Elsewhere in the northern provinces, headquarters took the security wraps off Operation Worth, a sweep launched March 13 about 15 miles southwest of Da Nang. In light scattered action so far, spokesmen said, 120 enemy troops and 24 Americans have been killed and 68 Americans wounded.

3 Actions

South Korean infantrymen killed 42 enemy soldiers in three actions in the Qui Nhon area Sunday, Korean headquarters said.

Around Saigon, allied troops killed 44 Viet Cong soldiers in two clashes, bringing the enemy death toll from Operation Quyet Thang, the biggest allied operation of the war, to 1,262 in two weeks, spokesmen said. They said 11 Americans were killed and 70 wounded, bringing the total for the operation to 41 killed and 463 wounded.

Near Kontum in the central highlands units of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division reported killing 18 enemy soldiers Sunday. They said one American was killed and eight were wounded.

A 27-YEAR-OLD upstate truck driver was injured at 4:15 a. m. today when this tractor-trailer owned by the Chemical Leaman Tank Lines, Inc., of Albany, went out of control and careened across Route 28 near West Hurley. The vehicle continued on for about 342 feet through the woods before it came to a stop against large trees, according to Kingston State Police. Robert E. Sellick, of RD 2, Schoharie, was taken to Benedictine Hospital suffering multiple lacerations of the head and face. Investigating Trooper A. J. GOP Moderates Set U.S.-Wide Coalition

WASHINGTON (AP) — GOP moderates who had urged Nelson Rockefeller to seek the party's presidential nomination have formed a nationwide "Coalition for a Republican Alternative." And Sen. Jacob K. Javits says he will push for a Rockefeller favorite-son candidacy in New York State, a move he predicted would stir up national interest in Rockefeller for the nomination.

Rockefeller announced last week he won't be an active candidate but left the door open for a possible draft.

Word of the coalition came Sunday from Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., who denied it was a move to stop Richard M. Nixon from getting the nomination. The aim, Morton said, is to generate debate among Republicans on Vietnam and other issues.

Morton reportedly had been in line to manage any Rockefeller campaign.

The coalition was disclosed by Morton in a television interview and formally announced in New York by Stewart R. Mott.

Mott, son of multimillionaire philanthropist Charles Stewart Mott, had previously pledged his readiness to help finance Rockefeller's campaign if he ran.

Javits, Morton and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said Nixon does not have the nomination sewed up.

Javits said he will nominate Rockefeller to be New York's favorite son at the Republican state committee meeting in Albany, N.Y., Wednesday.

"He'll go to the convention with a very strong bloc of votes which will put him before the convention," Javits said.

"This will stir the pot," Javits said of the favorite-son action, adding that efforts will continue in recruiting Rockefeller support nationally.

Hatfield also discussed the favorite-son approach, tagging Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois as Republicans with alternatives to the Vietnam policy.

Hatfield, who opposes the administration's war course, also said he would support for president Sens. Robert F. Kennedy or Eugene J. McCarthy, both seeking the Democratic nomination, if Nixon's Vietnam position were not modified.

Country First

"I would support what would be the best for America in solving this dilemma of peace and war," Hatfield said. "I don't think my party comes first—my country comes first."

Morton and Javits appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press;" Hatfield was on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

In other political developments: —Republican governors are abandoning efforts to line up support for a moderate to oppose Nixon, said Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee. He will concentrate instead on pressing for what he called progressive planks in the party platform.

Newsweek magazine said a survey of Democratic convention delegates shows President Johnson is "in real danger of being dumped" if he makes his expected bid for renomination.

Newsweek said its survey showed Johnson has a possible total of 1,530 delegate votes, but only 363 were "hard" and the others were leaning toward him out of courtesy. "Leaning" toward Kennedy are 507, and "leaning" toward McCarthy are 235 with 350 uncommitted. Newsweek said. Needed for nomination: 1,312 votes.

A New York Times survey of Democratic state leaders indicated Johnson could win more than 65 per cent of delegate votes if the convention were held today. The Times said Johnson was judged to control 1,725 votes, with a combined total of 790 for Kennedy and McCarthy. But several leaders indicated increased Kennedy activity in their states could force a revision in their estimates.

Kennedy's brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver, said he will not campaign for the senator. But his wife, Eunice, said she expected to in the time she has before Shriver assumes his post as ambassador to France. Shriver said he thinks Kennedy "has the finest intentions" and "I wish him well."

A 27-YEAR-OLD upstate truck driver was injured at 4:15 a. m. today when this tractor-trailer owned by the Chemical Leaman Tank Lines, Inc., of Albany, went out of control and careened across Route 28 near West Hurley. The vehicle continued on for about 342 feet through the woods before it came to a stop against large trees, according to Kingston State Police. Robert E. Sellick, of RD 2, Schoharie, was taken to Benedictine Hospital suffering multiple lacerations of the head and face. Investigating Trooper A. J. Scarselli summoned Sellick to appear before a local justice to face a charge of driving to the left of the pavement marker. Sellick said he fell asleep. (Freeman photo by Glenn Fitzgerald).

GOP Moderates Set U.S.-Wide Coalition

WASHINGTON (AP) — GOP moderates who had urged Nelson A. Rockefeller to seek the party's presidential nomination have formed a nationwide "Coalition for a Republican Alternative."

he will push for a Rockefeller favorite-son candidacy in New York State, a move he predicted would stir up national interest in Rockefeller for the nomination.

Rockefeller announced last week he won't be an active candidate but left the door open for a possible draft.

Word of the coalition came Sunday from Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., who denied it was a move to stop Richard M. Nixon from getting the nomination. The aim, Morton said, is to generate debate among Republicans on Vietnam and other issues.

Morton reportedly had been in line to manage any Rockefeller campaign.

The coalition was disclosed by Morton in a television interview and formally announced in New York by Stewart R. Mott.

Mott, son of multimillionaire philanthropist Charles Stewart Mott, had previously pledged his readiness to help finance Rockefeller's campaign if he ran.

Javits, Morton and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said Nixon does not have the nomination sewed up.

Javits said he will nominate Rockefeller to be New York's favorite son at the Republican state committee meeting in Albany, N.Y., Wednesday.

"He'll go to the convention with a very strong bloc of votes which will put him before the convention" in opposition to Nixon, Javits said.

"This will stir the pot," Javits said of the favorite-son action, adding that efforts will continue in recruiting Rockefeller support nationally.

Hatfield also discussed the favorite-son approach, tagging Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois as Republicans with alternatives to the Vietnam policy.

Hatfield, who opposes the administration's war course, also said he would support for president Sens. Robert F. Kennedy or Eugene J. McCarthy, both seeking the Democratic nomination, if Nixon's Vietnam position were not modified.

Country First

"I would support what would be the best for America in solving this dilemma of peace and war," Hatfield said. "I don't think my party comes first—my country comes first."

Morton and Javits appeared on NBC's "Meet the Press;" Hatfield was on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

In other political developments

Republican governors are abandoning efforts to line up support for a moderate to oppose Nixon, said Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee. He will concentrate instead on pressing for what he called progressive planks in the party platform.

Newsweek magazine said a survey of Democratic convention delegates shows President Johnson is "in real danger of being dumped" if he makes his expected bid for renomination.

Newsweek said its survey showed Johnson has a possible total of 1,530 delegate votes, but only 363 were "hard" and the others were leaning toward him out of courtesy. "Leaning" toward Kennedy are 507, and "leaning" toward McCarthy are 235 with 350 uncommitted. Newsweek said. Needed for nomination: 1,312 votes.

A New York Times survey of Democratic state leaders indicated Johnson could win more than 65 per cent of delegate votes if the convention were held today. The Times said Johnson was judged to control 1,725 votes, with a combined total of 790 for Kennedy and McCarthy. But several leaders indicated increased Kennedy activity in their states could force a revision in their estimates.

Kennedy's brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver, said he will not campaign for the senator. But his wife, Eunice, said she expected to in the time she has before Shriver assumes his post as ambassador to France. Shriver said he thinks Kennedy "has the finest intentions" and "I wish him well."

Apartments Okayed, Garrahan Will Sign

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan said today he will sign legislation passed by the Common Council at a special meeting Saturday night to allow multiple housing in the 12th ward.

10-2 Council Vote

The Council voted 10-2 on a rezoning petition that will permit the building of 152 units of garden-type apartments in the Fairview Avenue section of the 12th Ward by Louis J. Hess of New Jersey. Work on the $1,500,000 project is expected to begin in early May. It is a three-stage project and Hess is expected to construct 50 units, initially.

The project was strongly opposed by residents of the Fairview Avenue, Merritt Avenue area who voiced fears of inadequate sewage and water facilities and increased traffic. There were four public hearings on the issue, one of which, the Jan. 30 hearing, was ruled illegal due to lack of planning board action on the issue.

The Saturday night Council meeting was a short one. Alderman Joseph Epstein (D-Sixth Ward) was excused because of illness. Two aldermen voted against the measure, Robert Schantz (R-Second Ward) and John Machione (R-12th Ward). Schantz voted without comment, however, Machione charged that the calling of the meeting by the mayor was improper, action by the planning board was improper and the "petition wasn't worth the paper it was written on." Said Machione, "I've got news for you, gentlemen. You got sucked in again (referring to the city's fight on a proposed apartment project on Linderman Avenue which the city lost in court). Take it to court and you'll lose and it'll cost plenty."

While Machione blasted the Council's action, several other aldermen spoke in high praise of the new project which is expected to bring upwards of $25,000 in tax revenue to the city.

John Naccarato (R-Third Ward) said he voted against the Chestnut Street Apartments because the ward's alderman didn't want it. He said the contractor then changed his initial plans for eight-story buildings and came in with plans for five-story apartments which he voted for. He said his predecessors voted apartments down "for years" and "that is probably why the city is now in such a sick state of financial affairs." Naccarato said he would vote for any housing project in Kingston regardless of what ward it was in.

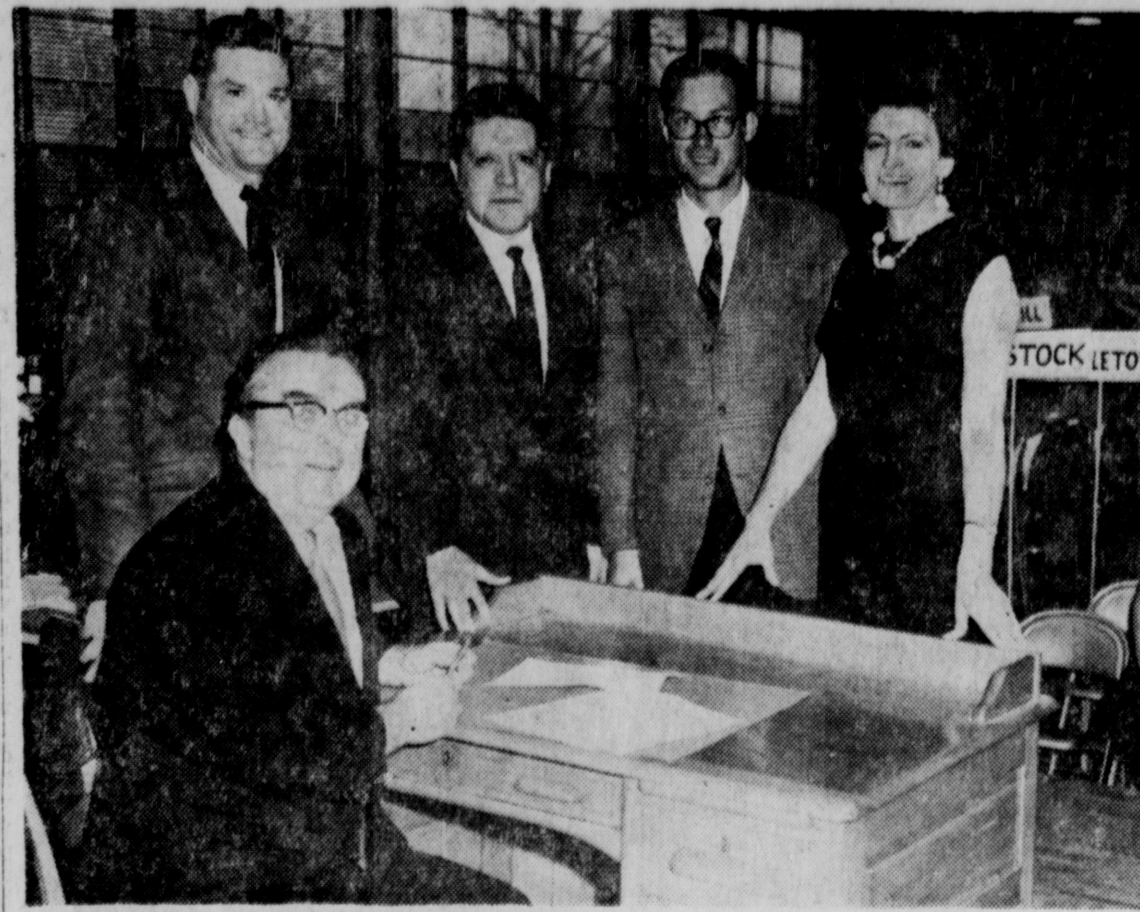

Other Comments

Peter Mancuso (D-Eighth Ward) said he heard all the complaints aired over the Hess Apartments when the West Chestnut Street Apartments were under Council review and said, "To date I've yet to receive one complaint on traffic, noise, sewage or water. If any problem should arise with the Hess project the Common Council should pass legislation to correct them."

Peter Fisher (R-10th Ward) said, "I don't believe any alderman has had the pressure put on him as I have had in the past ten days. I've investigated this issue thoroughly and believe the Hess Apartments will be a valuable addition to the city."

Alderman William Davis (L-13th Ward) was the last speaker and said, "I have only one regret concerning this project. I wish I could have the apartments in my ward."

Shock and Criticism: Aftermath of Dem Parley

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

A smooth-running Ulster County Democratic nominating convention was marred Saturday when New Paltz delegates were blocked from nominating a two-man pro-peace slate for the national convention.

Holds Over on Sunday

The action came at the very end of the convention held at the John F. Kennedy School in Kingston and the waves of shock and criticism directed against Democratic chairman Dr. Gerald P. Gorman and the peace people were felt and heard at the season's first county-wide dinner and fund-raising event put on at Ellenville's Fallsview Hotel Sunday.

Significantly, the drama unfolded at the Kennedy School after Dr. Frieda Martens of Ruby was chosen as one of two state committeemen following a speech by outgoing committeeman Irma Coty who declared, "We need every bit of unity we can get."

Indication of potential trouble were in the air at the very start of the convention, however, when John Stuart Dyson of Millbrook was being proposed as Ulster County's Democratic choice to be the party's nominee for the 28th district's congressional post now held by Representative Joseph Y. Resnick.

A member of the New Paltz group, dominated by the well-organized Coalition for a Democratic Alternative supporting the Presidential candidacy of Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.), requested that Dyson explain his views on the Vietnam war.

Ruled Out of Order

Dr. Gorman, presiding over the convention, ruled the motion out of order. After one vote was cast for Dyson, indicating convention unanimity, the 25-year-old newspaper publisher said, "These are times of trial for Americans. This year especially, every voter has the right to know exactly where he stands on every critical issue facing this country."

"The issues will be debated during my campaign—not in the vague generalities which plague the political arena, but in concrete, detailed proposals."

Woolley Nominated

A. E. "Al" Woolley of New Paltz was nominated for the state senate seat now held by Republican Jay P. Rolison of Poughkeepsie. Woolley, a photo-journalist and the author of 13 books, claimed that he intended to "commit myself fully. I intend to win, and my commitment is to ask you to make the same covenant with me."

Kingston's Corporation Counsel Aaron Klein nominated Sheriff William B. Martin by declaring, "I rise not to make a nomination, but a renomination of a winner, and not only a winner but the finest public servant this county has ever had."

Martin's renomination was by acclamation. John Bonilla of Woodstock, who had nominated Gorman for county chairman last year, made the nomination speech for the Kingston surgeon for the post of assemblyman. Bonilla said, "Coming out of this convention today, I know we will have a united party behind our candidates."

There was no contest for the assembly slot and Gorman was chosen by acclamation.

James McCordle of Hurley was chosen to be a committeeman along with Dr. Martens, but it was after the Ruby educator was nominated and before she was allowed to give an acceptance speech, that Gorman called for the nomination of a three-man slate to be on the ballot for delegates to the national convention.

Pledged to Johnson

CDA Charges Rights Denied At Dems Parley

Charges were leveled today by the area Coalition for a Democratic Alternative that its delegates to the Ulster County Democratic Convention had been denied the regular democratic processes which should have been open to them.

CDA delegates, the organization said, sought only their right as duly elected representatives to present their cause and their nominations within the approved machinery of the Democratic party. Having been denied this right, the organization said it now feels it has every legal and moral reason to take its fight to the primary—and will do so.

CDA said that Dr. Gerald Gorman, Ulster County Democratic chairman, who served as permanent chairman of the county convention, had used "devious and unethical" procedures to deny CDA delegates the opportunity of espousing their cause. By his actions, they said, "he is guilty of creating was recognized that the three men would be pledged to President Johnson.

Gorman was then alleged to have asked if there were any more nominations, although some observers claimed that he kept his hand over the microphone and turned his head away when he made the reported proposal. Suddenly, calls came from the floor to move that nominations be closed. The New Paltz people rose to their feet as a body, but the nominations were closed and Dr. Gorman declared that the three-man slate was the unanimous recommendation of the convention. The Gorman action became the subject of criticism of many, including Legislator Roger Mabie of Esopus, Jedd Reischer of New Paltz and congressional nominee Dyson.

County GOPers Pick Tonight

The unofficial nominating convention for Ulster County's Republicans will be held tonight at the George Washington school in Kingston.

The event will begin at 7:30 p. m.

The well publicized contest for the state assembly seat now held by outgoing Kenneth L. Wilson will be resolved at the convention.

H. Clark Bell of Woodstock will be going into the convention with 109 announced delegate votes. Peter J. Savago of New Paltz had a strength of 112 votes according to Saturday's Freeman count.

The convention will see the nomination of Hamilton Fish Jr. of Millbrook for Congress; Jay P. Rolison Jr. of Poughkeepsie for the state senate, and the nomination for Ulster County sheriff will, because of the lack of a contest, go to Thomas R. Mayone, special investigator for the district attorney's office.

There will be nominees for the Republican national convention and the third judicial district convention.

Desegregation in North

Government civil rights forces are moving to bar segregation of schools in the North as well as the South.

Stating that discriminatory zoning patterns and discriminatory expenditure patterns in the North are no less illegal than the old dual school system in the South, the Johnson Administration has laid down guidelines to remove both. Compliance visits will be made to schools in the North to identify violations and build cases for litigation.

The policy was enunciated by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It says that Northern school districts must end segregation caused by factors other than housing patterns and must take steps to assure Negro children the same educational advantages as white children.

Such unequal treatment as overcrowded classes and activities, inadequate equipment, fewer qualified teachers, poorer facilities and instructional materials, and lower per pupil expenditures must be eliminated. Forfeiture for violations will be withholding of federal aid.

Also, the new guidelines prohibit the redrawing of neighborhood boundary lines to preserve school segregation, assignment procedures that increase racial concentration in individual schools and "feeder patterns" that send children from integrated elementary schools in segregated high schools.

However, school districts will not be required to take corrective action—such as busing students from one school to another—to overcome racial imbalance resulting from private housing patterns. That is known as de facto segregation. It is de jure segregation, attributed to official government policy on state and local level, that is prohibited.

At least, the guidelines spell out legal and illegal segregation. To that extent, they should help to settle feelings in the country.

The Freight Bill

It is frequently said that a major item in the cost of living is the expense of distribution. The earnings of all federally regulated freight carriers last year totaled $22.4 billion, about 2.5 per cent of the gross national product, not a huge item considering that it includes the total revenues of rail, truck, air, pipeline and water freight carriers.

What is interesting is the growth of motor carriers to top all others for the fifth year, accounting for $11.1 billion of the total freight revenue, or 48.5 per cent. Rails were second with $9.8 billion, or 43.58 per cent; oil pipelines $941.1 million or 4.21 per cent; Airways $502.6 million or 2.25 per cent; and waterways $328.2 million or 1.47 per cent.

However, a three-day conference at the Transportation Center of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., predicted improvement in revenues both for rails and airlines. Agricultural freight movement and military business is pushing rail freight ahead. Airlines see air cargo multiplying sevenfold by 1980, when passenger traffic will triple. The minimum growth for air freight lift projected is about double for passengers.

For the individual, this means faster and fresher transportation for his needs in the years to come, with the cost of distribution still a modicum of the overall cost of his necessities.

Man's Greatest War

The effect of man's conflict with his own environment might dwarf those of any war fought on earth. With that statement, Rep. Emilio Q. Daddario, Connecticut Democrat, chairman of the House subcommittee on Science, Research and Development, called for federal support of the five-year International Program which some scientists think may offer modern civilization one of its last chances for survival.

The purpose is to find out, perhaps before it is too late, just what man and technology are doing to life on earth, what changes are bad and unpredictable and what may be reversible. It is to pinpoint the immediate or near potential of man to damage, perhaps beyond repair, the ecological system of the planet on which all life depends.

Many effects of man might jeopardize the kind of world we live in. The defoliation and clearing of jungles, diversion of rivers and lakes to irrigate deserts, pollution of waters and atmosphere, and the generation of large amounts of heat by cities and industrial complexes are some of these crucial actions. Increasing numbers of animal and plant species are becoming extinct—with unknown effects on the balance of biology in general.

Americans are not sufficiently concerned about this war with the environment, though its lasting effect may be greater than any other conflict. The cost is minimal $3 million to $5 million a year. It is a war we can all heartily support, in the hope it will help preserve life as we know it.

David Lawrence Says

Rockefeller to Appeal Directly to People

WASHINGTON—Governor Nelson Rockefeller has launched an extraordinary experiment. He will be glad to be awarded the Republican presidential nomination even though he will not have participated in any primary. He will rely instead on the development of public opinion between now and August 5, when the Republican National Convention meets. He will make a series of speeches on "national and international issues."

Governor Rockefeller was asked at his news conference if he now was saying that he does not "want to be president of the United States." He answered: "No, I did not say that—I think any citizen would like to (be president) if he feels he can be of service."

Mr. Rockefeller concedes that Richard Nixon is ahead "at this time." The New York Governor says, therefore, he will not divide the party by seeking delegates in the various primaries still to be held. He openly asserts, however, that, if the convention itself calls him "to serve it and the nation," he stands ready to accept the nomination.

The governor promises to do everything in his power to maintain harmony within the party and to coordinate its efforts. He declares that he will spend most of his time on "the issues and the platform positions of the Republican party, speaking on those and working with the party on those."

Mr. Rockefeller expresses the hope that the Republican platform will "reflect the realities of the world in which we live" and give "constructive alternatives to the present administration." This is broad enough to cover almost everything. But it indicates an intention to voice his own convictions and assumes that, if the country agrees with his views, the Republican party may decide to "draft" him as the man who could best carry out the policies proposed in the platform.

Mr. Rockefeller will make a number of speeches in the next four months. He will not have to travel any great distance in order to reveal his views. In fact, he could make all his addresses in his own state, and they would be read by the people of the country, particularly if he presents persuasively a dissent from the Johnson administration.

Mr. Nixon may or may not agree with some of the points made by Mr. Rockefeller, but certainly the constructive debate between these two leading Republicans will be in sharp contrast to that which has been going on among the adversaries inside the Democratic party.

The purpose of the Rockefeller effort is to win public opinion not only inside the Republican Party but among voters generally. This kind of tactics means that, if by chance he is drafted at the Republican convention, he will have attracted substantial support also in the independent group which will have a decisive voice on election day.

The Rockefeller strategy gives every evidence of having been carefully thought out. It received beforehand the unanimous approval of his advisers. Richard Nixon obviously had the lead among the state delegations and could not be displaced merely by a victory obtained by the New York governor here and there in the primaries. It became necessary, therefore, to address the whole country—Republicans and Democrats and independents.

Under the American system of government, the processes of public opinion are considered to be vital in shaping national and international policies. Unfortunately, the convention system is not necessarily responsive to public opinion. Delegations are often controlled by party bosses. Presidential preference primaries are held in only 11 states. So governor Rockefeller is trying the other course now—an appeal directly to the American people in the belief that, if they agree with his ideas, Republican delegations will be urged to "draft Rockefeller."

Veteran politicians are skeptical about the success of such a course. They believe that the delegate system will still dominate and that the party platform will be written by a few influential Republicans in Congress and some of the governors. If this happens in his first days as a presidential campaigner Sen. Robert Kennedy has added immeasurable to his already stiff handicaps.

He stunned this town by identifying himself with a proposal which is widely viewed as a suggestion to usurp the President's powers as commander-in-chief—a study commission whose aim, in fact, would have been to tell Lyndon Johnson how to conduct Vietnam policy to better effect.

Aside from the serious question of judgment involved in this somewhat cavalier appraisal of the nature of the presidency, Kennedy made matters worse by linking this proposal with his decision of whether to enter the presidential race.

This gave to the "commission idea" the flavor of an ultimatum which has freshly underscored the image of the ruthless young man which the senator has been at pains to erase for the past four years.

But this is only the most dramatic in what many potential voters see as a veritable catalogue of Kennedy errors since he first declared on March 13 that he was reconsidering a 1968 race.

Few seasoned Democrats were impressed with his offer

Drew Pearson Says Real Estate Lobby Scores Big Victory Over Open Housing

WASHINGTON—It was done so neatly that the public scarcely knew it happened, but the real estate lobby has scored a tremendous victory in blocking the civil rights bill previously OK'd by the Senate after eight long weeks of debate. The real estate lobby probably means no civil rights bill passed this year, with race riots in the big cities almost certain this summer as a result.

Here is the inside story of what happened:

When the Senate passed the civil rights bill containing the historic "open housing" provision, the real estate lobby was taken completely by surprise. The National Association of Real Estate Boards had never expected Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., to back open housing. So its sudden back home to apply pressure in the House of Representatives in Washington.

Simultaneously, civil rights leaders knew their only real chance of getting a bill passed through both houses of Congress was to have the House of Representatives adopt the Senate bill intact and do so quickly. If the House and the Senate got into a conference debate over differing details of the bill, the whole question of civil rights and open housing would go back to the Senate for another deadening filibuster. This would kill the bill.

To secure speedy passage, civil rights leaders appealed to both Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Richard Nixon, who agreed to help. Governor Rockefeller contacted Rep. Jerry Ford of Michigan, GOP Leader, and Rep. David Martin of Nebraska, a conservative Republican, who was a classmate of Rockefeller's at Dartmouth. Nixon worked through Charlie McWhorter, his former staff member, and ex-Rep. Robert Ellsworth of Kansas, in approaching Rep. Ford.

Clarence Mitchell, head of the NAACP in Maryland, also talked to Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, the Republican power in the House; and appealed to John Williamson, lobbyist for the National Association of Real Estate Boards, pointing out the effect on the Negro big-city population if the House, after the difficult victory in the Senate, now sabotaged the open housing provision.

Martin Luther King's March

However, other members of the real estate lobby were not sympathetic, especially Fred C. Tucker, chairman of the Realtors' Washington committee. He and others went all out to bombard the Republican leaders in the House. They also began a campaign to get thousands of letters from local realtors in each Congressional district to their Congressmen in Washington.

The campaign worked. For when the House Rules Committee voted on whether to clear a resolution permitting the House to adopt the Senate bill, the vote was 8 to 7 for delay. The delay was to give the real estate lobby time to increase its flood of mail to Congressmen.

Furthermore, the delay was until April 9, just before the Easter recess, which meant the bill would come up for debate after Easter, when Dr. Martin Luther King's Poor Peoples' March is scheduled to arrive in Washington. King's march is already striking a sour note with many Congressmen. And the real estate lobby predicts anti-Negro sentiment will deepen when King's cohorts arrive.

The tip-off as to whether Jerry Ford paid attention to Nixon and Rockefeller was the vote inside the Rules Committee. Every Congressman on the Republican side voted with the real estate lobby. They were H. Allen Smith, Calif.; John B. Anderson, Ill.; James H. Quillen, Tenn.; Delbert L. Latta, Ohio, and finally David Martin of Nebraska, Governor Rockefeller's classmate. He had professed to be for the bill; nevertheless, voted for a sabotaging delay.

Conflict of Interest

One Republican vote was especially significant, that of H. Allen Smith of Glendale, Calif., who not only is in the real estate business but has been prominent about trying to promote deals through his position in Congress. When Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., was trying to limit the power of tax-exempt foundations, Rep. Smith voted against him and for the foundations. Then, seeking reward, he wrote to Mrs. Thurmond Clarke, connected with the fabulously rich Irvine Foundation, asking her to help promote a real estate deal.

"For the past year or two," the Congressman said, "I have been trying to get started at Irvine, maybe build an office building, apartments or other facilities . . . and he went on to ask the help of the lady close to the Irvine Foundation in swinging a real estate project.

If Congress enforced its ethical conduct rules, Smith would be barred from voting on any issue dealing with real estate, including open housing. Yet he lined up with the solid Republican phalanx to help the real estate lobby delay consideration of the current bill.

Equally significant was the Democratic vote. Chairman Bill Colmer of Mississippi, a staunch Dixiecrat, surprised no one by voting no.

But the surprising vote was that of Rep. James J. Delaney of Long Island City. For three years Delaney blocked federal aid to public schools at the dictate of the late Cardinal Spellman, conservative archbishop of New York. But this week Delaney did not go along with the cardinal's liberal successor, Archbishop Clarence Cooke, who urged New Yorkers in a pastoral letter to follow the lead of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders. Delaney voted against the advice of the new archbishop and in favor of sabotaging civil rights. Delaney's vote was vital. With the margin 8-7, had he voted the other way the real estate lobby would have been defeated.

Delaney was called in by Speaker McCormack and other Democratic leaders, and told how crucial his vote was. They failed to budge him. The power of the real estate interests in Long Island City where he lives was too great. Delaney reaffirmed his stand against the new liberal archbishop of New York and against his own Democratic leaders in Congress.

Had GOP Leader Ford switched one Republican vote, however, the Rules Committee would have given the green light to immediate consideration of the Senate version of the civil rights bill without change. But he refused. He too chose to stand with the real estate lobby rather than with the top leaders of his party—Rockefeller and Nixon.

Bobby Off on Wrong Foot In First Days of Campaign

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)

The feeling grows, in this politically oriented capital and along the Democratic party network in the nation, that in his first days as a presidential campaigner Sen. Robert Kennedy has added immeasurable to his already stiff handicaps.

He stunned this town by identifying himself with a proposal which is widely viewed as a suggestion to usurp the President's powers as commander-in-chief—a study commission whose aim, in fact, would have been to tell Lyndon Johnson how to conduct Vietnam policy to better effect.

Aside from the serious question of judgment involved in this somewhat cavalier appraisal of the nature of the presidency, Kennedy made matters worse by linking this proposal with his decision of whether to enter the presidential race.

This gave to the "commission idea" the flavor of an ultimatum which has freshly underscored the image of the ruthless young man which the senator has been at pains to erase for the past four years.

But this is only the most dramatic in what many potential voters see as a veritable catalogue of Kennedy errors since he first declared on March 13 that he was reconsidering a 1968 race.

Few seasoned Democrats were impressed with his offer

of a rather withered olive branch to Johnson's rival, Sen. Eugene McCarthy. The general view is that Kennedy's muscle and money will be used inevitably to bulldoze McCarthy in the key California, Oregon and South Dakota primaries.

McCarthy's men themselves feel that Kennedy's repeated reference to the April 23 primary, which the New Yorker generously is leaving to the Minnesotan, reveals the transparency of the former's "harmony" bid.

McCarthy did not enter that primary, whose deadline was Feb. 13. He plans no effort, and as yet has mounted no serious undertaking to woo Pennsylvania's 13 Democratic convention votes. They would not, in any event, be bound by a write-in result.

McCarthy aides see Kennedy's mention of Pennsylvania as a "big nothing" thrown their way to emphasize the harmony gambit. Actually, Kennedy himself will need to woo those votes quickly and heavily if he is to have any hope of dislodging the President.

In grave question, too, is Kennedy's credibility in the entire matter of when and where he chose to run.

His statements on the Kennedy-Johnson commission episode contained the flat assertion he decided to run on the night of March 14. But newsmen who have dogged him and his aides' heels in recent days have been given various earlier dates as the time of decision.

Again, Kennedy's "commission" statement indicates his distress over the conduct of the war was his reason for getting in. Yet his reasons stated on March 13 were five in number, and stressed hard his judgment that McCarthy's New Hampshire primary showing proved that Democratic party divisions Kennedy feared might flow from his entry were already in existence.

The resistance which reporters' inquiries disclose among countless party regulars coast to coast suggests that the rift exhibited by New Hampshire is nothing like the bloody combat which will now ensue as result of Kennedy's full-scale campaign.

Furthermore, polls by Louis Harris and Oliver Quayle taken in New Hampshire late in the game showed that Democratic hawks accounted for roughly half of McCarthy's vote. Half the state's Democratic voters did not know McCarthy himself was a dove on Vietnam. His vote was an across-the-board anti-LBJ vote.

Thus the man who wishes to maximize opposition to the President the country over would seem to have to emphasize every aspect of his stewardship, including his style and personal trustworthiness. But this presages the very kind of bitter personality feud Kennedy said he never wanted to conduct in the campaign of 1968.

Public Housing in Suburbs

(Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON — Former Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) wants big cities to have power to lease housing for low-income families in surrounding suburbs to spread the burden of providing for the poor.

The former Democratic lawmaker from Illinois, now chairman of the Presidential Commission on Urban Problems, made the suggestion in testimony prepared for the Senate Housing Subcommittee.

Acknowledging that the problem was "complex," Douglas said state laws should be revised to permit city housing authorities to lease or build public housing on scattered sites.

"There would have to be limitations so that the central city would not merely shift its problems to some one else," Douglas said. "These might include a limit on the proportion of their public housing which could be one place, and some means of providing the localities with the funds for the additional costs for community services which accompany the building of any public or moderate income or private housing," he added.

"Central cities cannot bear the entire burden alone," Douglas said.

His testimony generally supported President Johnson's proposal to provide interest rate subsidies to lure business into ghetto housing markets.

Douglas also proposed:—Construction of more than 2,000,000 (M) housing units each year—about 600,000 more than have been built in recent times.

—Erection of 500,000 units a year for low-income and moderate-income families. Douglas warned, however, that the federal government should proceed with care in encouraging poor people to buy their own homes because of the small equity they build up in the early years of paying off a mortgage.

He also made these points:—There is far more vacant land in the cities than people realize—about 7,200,000 (M) empty lots.

—Government-owned land in all parts of the country would be used.

—Poor families with a chance to move up the income ladder could be housed in some of the 70,000 homes where government-guaranteed mortgages are foreclosed each year.

Douglas proposed a government program to finance new methods of home-building that might reduce costs. Prefabrication is one method of saving money, he said, but it must be done on a large scale to get maximum economies.

The Freight Bill

It is frequently said that a major item in the cost of living is the expense of distribution. The earnings of all federally regulated freight carriers last year totaled $22.4 billion, about 2.5 per cent of the gross national product, not a huge item considering that it includes the total revenues of rail, truck, air, pipeline and water freight carriers.

What is interesting is the growth of motor carriers to top all others for the fifth year, accounting for $11.1 billion of the total freight revenue, or 48.5 per cent. Rails were second with $9.8 billion, or 43.58 per cent; oil pipelines $941.1 million or 4.21 per cent; Airways $502.6 million or 2.25 per cent; and waterways $328.2 million or 1.47 per cent.

However, a three-day conference at the Transportation Center of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., predicted improvement in revenues both for rails and airlines. Agricultural freight movement and military business is pushing rail freight ahead. Airlines see air cargo multiplying sevenfold by 1980, when passenger traffic will triple. The minimum growth for air freight lift projected is about double for passengers.

For the individual, this means faster and fresher transportation for his needs in the years to come, with the cost of distribution still a modicum of the overall cost of his necessities.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Sixteen degrees north of the equator is a city called Khartoum. It straddles the place where the Blue Nile meets the White Nile in the Sudan. A half million blacks, tall graceful people who walk sedately, trade cotton, and coffee and hemp with Egypt and the world. The university is landscaped with avenues of royal palms. Under acacia trees, Moslems study newspapers and teach the Koran.

Except for the open winds which scour the sand, this is a place of peace. At noon, the shutters close and the ceiling fans stir an endless breeze across the skin of dozing children. The five daily calls to prayer come from the minarets, taped, through loud speakers. This is a strict sect which abhors the use of alcohol and tobacco, and severely punished adultery. The serene are isolated from a barbaric world.

Eighty years ago—historically, this is yesterday—these people became vile animals. They reached a level of barbarism unmatched in modern times. The Mahdi, who proclaimed himself the Moslem messiah, had died. The tribes warred, revolted against their khalfas, and the victors butchered the vanquished. There was no rain, no crops, no food.

The flies flew in dark clouds of their own, and men on donkeys whipped the animals hard to keep from being bitten to death. Starvation cracked the face of religion and culture. Between October of 1885 and April of 1886, Khartoum died.

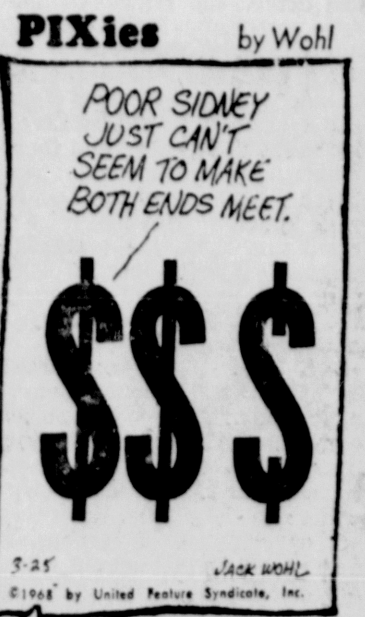

Moslem shrines burned and no one had the strength to fight the fire. When the rich slaughtered an animal, hundreds of the poor stood near with bowls trying to catch the blood. Byron Farwell in his "Prisoners of the Mahdi" (Harper & Row) claims that some fought over bits of blood-stained sand.

The facade of decency kept falling. The ruling class became harsher. The khalfas headed men in the public squares for minor disobedience. The only thing that flourished was disease. Women boiled bits of leather and fed it to children. Bones on the street were ground and baked as bread.

The dead on the quiet streets outnumbered the living. Mice lived inside bodies. Any one with a scrap of food slept on it. A dying Sudanese, says Farwell, stole a bar of soap and jammed it into his mouth. The owner choked him but the thief lapsed into unconsciousness without giving it up.

One night three naked and insane women sat beside a baby donkey, eating it while it fought for life. Women sold their daughters to the rich. Some still had the power to weep. "Save her!" they begged, as they pushed the daughters toward the rich. "Only do not let her perish."

The vultures ate the dead, and the living ate the vultures. Then the rains came.

WASHINGTON—It was done so neatly that the public scarcely knew it happened, but the real estate lobby has scored a tremendous victory in blocking the civil rights bill previously OK'd by the Senate after eight long weeks of debate. The real estate victory probably means no civil rights bill passed this year, with race riots in the big cities almost certain this summer as a result.

Here is the inside story of what happened: When the Senate passed the civil rights bill containing the historic "open housing" provision, the real estate lobby was taken completely by surprise. The National Association of Real Estate Boards had never expected Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., to back open housing. So its sudden passage hit the lobby with no time to mobilize members back home to apply pressure in the House of Representatives in Washington.

Simultaneously, civil rights leaders knew only their real chance of getting a bill passed through both houses of Congress was to have the House of Representatives adopt the Senate bill intact and do so quickly. If the House and the Senate got into a conference debate over differing details of the bill, the whole question of civil rights and open housing would go back to the Senate for another deadening filibuster. This would kill the bill.

To secure speedy passage, civil rights leaders appealed to both Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Richard Nixon, who agreed to help. Governor Rockefeller contacted Rep. Jerry Ford of Michigan, the GOP Leader, and Rep. David Martin of Nebraska, a conservative Republican, who was a classmate of Rockefeller's at Dartmouth. Nixon worked through Charlie McWhorter, his former staff member, and ex-Rep. Robert Ellsworth of Kansas, in approaching Rep. Ford.

Clarence Mitchell, head of the NAACP in Maryland, also talked to Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, the Republican power in the House; and appealed to John Williamson, lobbyist for the National Association of Real Estate Boards, pointing out the effect on the Negro big-city population if the House, after the difficult victory in the Senate, now sabotaged the open housing provision.

Martin Luther King's March

However, other members of the real estate lobby were not sympathetic, especially Fred C. Tucker, chairman of the Realtors' Washington committee. He and others went all out to bombard the Republican leaders in the House. They also began a campaign to get thousands of letters from local Realtors in each Congressional district to their Congressmen in Washington.

The campaign worked. For when the House Rules Committee voted on whether to clear a resolution permitting the House to adopt the Senate bill, the vote was 8 to 7 for delay. The delay was to give the real estate lobby time to increase its flood of mail to Congressmen.

Furthermore, the delay was until April 9, just before the Easter recess, which meant the bill would come up for debate after Easter, when Dr. Martin Luther King's Poor Peoples' March is scheduled to arrive in Washington. King's march is already striking a sour note with many Congressmen. And the real estate lobby predicts anti-Negro sentiment will deepen when King's cohorts arrive.

The tip-off as to whether Jerry Ford paid attention to Nixon and Rockefeller was the vote inside the Rules Committee. Every Congressman on the Republican side voted with the real estate lobby. They were H. Allen Smith, Calif.; John B. Anderson, Ill.; James H. Quillen, Tenn.; Delbert L. Latta, Ohio; and finally David Martin of Nebraska. Governor Rockefeller's classmate. He had professed to be for the bill; nevertheless, voted for a sabotaging delay.

Conflict of Interest

One Republican vote was especially significant, that of H. Allen Smith of Glendale, Calif., who not only is in the real estate business but has been flagrant about trying to promote deals through his position in Congress. When Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., was trying to limit the power of tax-exempt foundations, Rep. Smith voted against him and for the foundations. Then, seeking reward, he wrote to Mrs. Thurmond Clarke, connected with the fabulously rich Irvine Foundation, asking her to help promote a real estate deal.

"For the past year or two," the Congressman said, "I have been trying to get started at Irvine, maybe build an office building, apartments or other facilities. . . and he went on to ask the help of the lady close to the Irvine Foundation in swinging a real estate project.

If Congress enforced its ethical conduct rules, Smith would be barred from voting on any issue dealing with real estate, including open housing. Yet he lined up with the solid Republican phalanx to help the real estate lobby delay consideration of the current bill.

Equally significant was the Democratic vote. Chairman Bill Colmer of Mississippi, a staunch Dixiecrat, surprised no one by voting no.

But the surprising vote was that of Rep. James J. Delaney of Long Island City. For three years Delaney blocked federal aid to public schools at the dictate of the late Cardinal Spellman, conservative archbishop of New York. But this week Delaney did not go along with the cardinal's liberal successor, Archbishop Clarence Cooke, who urged New Yorkers in a pastoral letter to follow the lead of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders. Delaney voted against the advice of the new archbishop and in favor of sabotaging civil rights. Delaney's vote was vital. With the margin 8-7, had he voted the other way the real estate lobby would have been defeated.

Delaney was called in by Speaker McCormack and other Democratic leaders, and told how crucial his vote was. They failed to budge him. The power of the real estate interests in Long Island City where he lives was too great. Delaney reaffirmed his stand against the new liberal archbishop of New York and against his own Democratic leaders in Congress.

Had GOP Leader Ford switched one Republican vote, however, the Rules Committee would have given the green light to immediate consideration of the Senate version of the civil rights bill without change. But he refused. He too chose to stand with the real estate lobby rather than with the top leaders of his party—Rockefeller and Nixon.

Bobby Off on Wrong Foot In First Days of Campaign

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) The feeling grows, in this politically oriented capital and along the Democratic party network in the nation, that in his first days as a presidential campaigner Sen. Robert Kennedy has added immeasurable to his already stiff handicaps.

He stunned this town by identifying himself with a proposal which is widely viewed as a suggestion to usurp the President's powers as commander-in-chief—a study commission whose aim, in fact, would have been to tell Lyndon Johnson how to conduct Vietnam policy to better effect.

Aside from the serious question of judgment involved in this somewhat cavalier appraisal of the nature of the presidency, Kennedy made matters worse by linking this proposal with his decision of whether to enter the presidential race.

This gave to the "commission idea" the flavor of an ultimatum which has freshly underscored the image of the ruthless young man which the senator has been at pains to erase for the past four years.

But this is only the most dramatic in what many political veterans see as a veritable catalogue of Kennedy errors since he first declared on March 13 that he was reconsidering a 1968 race.

Few seasoned Democrats were impressed with his offer

of a rather withered olive branch to Johnson's rival, Sen. Eugene McCarthy. The general view is that Kennedy's muscle and money will be used inevitably to bulldoze McCarthy in the key California, Oregon and South Dakota primaries.

McCarthy's men themselves feel that Kennedy's repeated reference to the April 23 primary, which the New Yorker generously is leaving to the Minnesota, reveals the transparency of the former's "harmony" bid.

McCarthy did not enter that primary, whose deadline was Feb. 13. He plans no write-in effort, and as yet has mounted no serious undertaking to woo Pennsylvania's 13 Democratic convention votes. They would not, in any event, be bound by a write-in result.

McCarthy aides see Kennedy's mention of Pennsylvania as a "big nothing" thrown their way to emphasize the harmony emphasis. Actually, Kennedy himself will need to woo those votes quickly and heavily if he is to have any hope of dislodging the President.

In grave question, too, is Kennedy's credibility in the entire matter of when and why he chose to run.

His statements on the Kennedy-Johnson commission episode contained the flat assertion he decided to run on the night of March 14. But news-men who have dogged his and his aides' heels in recent days have been given various earlier dates as the time of decision.

Again, Kennedy's "commission" statement indicates his distress over the conduct of the war was his reason for getting in. Yet his reasons stated on March 13 were five in number, and stressed hard his judgment that McCarthy's New Hampshire primary showing proved that Democratic party divisions Kennedy feared might flow from his entry were already in existence.

The resistance which reporters' inquiries disclose among countless party regulars coast to coast suggests that the rift exhibited by New Hampshire is nothing like the bloody combat which will now ensue as result of Kennedy's full-scale campaign.

Furthermore, polls by Louis Harris and Oliver Quayle taken in New Hampshire late in the game showed that Democratic hawks accounted for roughly half of McCarthy's vote. Half the state's Democratic voters did not know McCarthy himself was a dove on Vietnam. His vote was an across-the-board anti-LBJ vote.

Thus the man who wishes to maximize opposition to the President the country over would seem to have to emphasize every aspect of his stewardship, including his style and personal trustworthiness. But this presages the very kind of bitter personality feud Kennedy said he never wanted to conduct in the campaign of 1968.

Public Housing in Suburbs

(Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON — Former Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) wants big cities to have power to lease housing for low-income families in surrounding suburbs to spread the burden of providing for the poor.

The former Democratic lawmaker from Illinois, now chairman of the Presidential Commission on Urban Problems, made the suggestion in testimony prepared for the Senate Housing Subcommittee.

Acknowledging that the problem was "complex," Douglas said state laws should be revised to permit city housing authorities to lease or build public housing on scattered sites. "There would have to be limitations so that the central city would not merely shift its problems to some one else," Douglas said. "These might include a limit on the proportion of their public housing which could be one place, and some means of providing the localities with the funds for the additional costs for community services which accompany the building of any public or moderate income or private housing," he added.

"Central cities cannot bear the entire burden alone," Douglas said.

His testimony generally supported President Johnson's proposal to provide interest rate subsidies to lure business into ghetto housing markets. Douglas also proposed:

—Construction of more than 2,000,000 (M) housing units each year about 600,000 more than have been built in recent times.

—Erection of 500,000 units a year for low-income and moderate-income families. Douglas warned, however, that the federal government should proceed with care in encouraging poor people to buy their own homes because of the small equity they build up in the early years of paying off a mortgage.

He also made these points: —There is far more vacant land in the cities than people realize—about 7,200,000 (M) empty lots.

—Government-owned land in all parts of the country would be used.

—Poor families with a chance to move up the income ladder could be housed in some of the 70,000 homes where government-guaranteed mortgages are foreclosed each year.

Douglas proposed a government program to finance new methods of home-building that might reduce costs. Prefabrication is one method of saving money, he said, but it must be done on a large scale to get maximum economies.

Vietnam Debate Gives Rise to Other Questions on U.S. Role in the World

By PETER LISAGOR
(Chicago Daily News Service)

WASHINGTON — Once during the Korean War, Secretary of State Dean Acheson dourly compared a critic of U. S. policy with a gardener who insisted upon pulling up a plant each morning to see how it was growing.

Now, another Asian war has led to a searching re-examination not only of the roots of American policy but also of the limitations and obligations of American power.

Vietnam has stoked a fiery national debate about whether the nation is overcommitted, about whether in Sen. J. W. Fulbright's phrase "we are clinging to old myths in the phase of new realities," about whether Uncle Sam can play the cop on the international beat.

Some vital statistics explain the nature of the commitment:

The United States is party to four regional defense alliances: N.A.T.O., S.E.A.T.O., ANZUS, and the Rio Treaty (it cooperates with a fifth, the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO). Its treaty commitments embrace 43 countries, and it has some 750,000 troops stationed in 30 countries.

In addition, Secretary of State Dean Rusk has stated, in an extravagantly defiant manner that has marked the Johnson administration's rhetoric, that "no would-be aggressor should suppose that the absence of a defense treaty, Congressional declaration or U. S. military pretexts grants immunity to aggression."

Only the other day President Johnson appeared to make Vietnam an earnest of America's will and capability to rescue mankind from some undefined disaster by asserting that the "heritage of 5,000 years of human civilization hangs on our success" and "history has elected to probe the depth of our commitment to freedom."

The National Interest
The question that haunts

these who believe the United States is at least overextended, if not unwise in its overseas commitments, is how to define the national interest. Indeed, some wonder if it can be defined with any real precision.

Retired Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who commanded U. S. forces in Korea at one juncture and who opposes the Vietnam effort, has challenged whether U. S. objectives in Southeast Asia "really harmonize with out national interests."

Ridgway asserted that "we should ask ourselves now if we are not, in this open-ended conflict, so impairing our strength through overdraining on our resources—political, economic, military—as to find ourselves unduly weakened when we need to meet new challenges in other more vital areas of the world."

"For there surely will be threats that bear more closely on our true national interests."

While Fulbright speaks of America's "arrogance of power," another Vietnam critic, Prof. Edwin Reischauer, former ambassador to Japan, says that despite the nation's great power "we have shown extraordinarily little arrogance . . . we might more correctly be accused of snowing naïveté in the use of power."

"Our well-intentioned aid or military presence can, without our realizing it, greatly alter the balance of forces within a country. All too often this influence can, in the name of stability, prop up an unsatisfactory status quo and thus inhibit desirable change . . . when we do this, we condemn ourselves to what in the long run must be the losing side."

Other critics believe the United States has placed itself at the mercy of small client states, which can draw this country into parochial conflict inimical to the national interest. "It is a paradox that our power tends to hurt the alliance system," says retired Gen. Alfred Gruenther, former NATO commander. "The U.S. seems so mighty that our smaller allies stand aside and say, 'Let the U.S. do it.'"

Against the argument that the United States is becoming an "imperial power," stands the contention of Ronald Steel, a former foreign service officer and author of "Pax Americana," that Americans were not meant to "maintain foreign garrisons, administer distant colonies, and conduct imperial wars for influence and prestige."

This runs "against the grain of the American character and American institutions," Steel says. "America was not meant to maintain a shabby empire with marines, napalm and foreign aid bribes, and the American people become increasingly uneasy over the global interventions that have been carried out in their name."

Endless Arguments

The arguments are endless — is America too big and powerful to hide? Is a timid resort to power worse than withholding power altogether, as John F. Kennedy learned at the Bay of Pigs? Can we withdraw into a fortress America and let the remainder of a restless, surging, demand world shift for itself, or yield to the blandishments of the Communists? Is it our duty to keep the global peace or must the U. S. be sufficiently strengthened to do the job — and is that possible?

Every citizen can, in a way be his own secretary of state. But for the moment, Rusk's answer to the critics rests on the belief that power has its obligations as well as its limitations.

"Our security," he says, "depends upon a generally peaceful world. And a generally peaceful world cannot be achieved merely by wishing for it and talking about it and carrying placards calling for peace."

"It has to be organized and maintained by hard work, determination and, at times, sacrifice by those who want a peace that is safe for free institutions."

Reds Wooing Moslems

DACCA, PAKISTAN (NEA) — Because the U.S. government does not understand the significance of religion in Moslem nations, Moscow is winning important psychological victories in Pakistan, the Middle East, Indonesia and in some parts of Africa.

Though the Russians persecute religions at home, a Moscow-approved Soviet Moslem presided at the crucial closing session of a conference just held here in Moscow.

Under the leadership of this Soviet grand mufti, these Moslems, called for united efforts by Moslem states throughout the world for the "liberation" of Kashmir, Palestine and Cyprus, and appealed to Moslems to unite against the "imperialists who have divided the Moslems of the world in their attempt to rule over them."

This Moslem approach is important in Pakistan, Indonesia and a dozen other Asian, Middle East and African states which consider the Moslem religion as the correct cornerstone of government.

Pakistan considers itself a government of the Moslems. The country was split from India on the basis of religion. A Moslem political party is the largest political group in Indonesia. The Moslem religion is a strong force helping to tie a number of lands to Egypt's Nasser.

U.S. foreign policymakers, however, have been slow to recognize the deep effects Moslem emotional bonds have on the national policies of the Middle East, Asia and Africa.

There also exists among Moslem cohesion and sensing these feelings of persecution, pose as protectors of the Moslem peoples. These Moslem "Moslems" picture the Western powers as the guiding force behind Moslem "persecution" in the past and

It is not clear how successful there are strong Western bonds in most Moslem countries. It is difficult for some Moslems to believe Moscow's atheistic government has much in common with a people who believe in God.

But a sense of persecution is a strong handle which clever Russian psychologists can use.

What is needed is a positive effort by the United States to understand the Moslems' strong emotions and to do more to show our respect for their past and present achievements.

U.S. Seems to Be Building Up Big 'Hate Sweden' Campaign

(Undated)—We seem to be building up to a big "Hate Sweden" campaign. It would be Washington's answer to the impertinent Swedes, who dare to bait us on Vietnam.

A large part of Sweden, apparently, believes that our Vietnam war is disgusting. They show this by marching in parades, by making anti-Viet war statements, by harassing American diplomats, by welcoming American defectors.

A couple dozen Americans who have defected from the armed forces on the Vietnam issue have to Sweden, one or two have returned to their units tired of being defectors in a country where they don't know the language.

Being against the American war in Vietnam is a nonpartisan position in Sweden. First Olof Palme, the education minister and his apparent leadership of the ruling social democratic party, showed how he felt. He marched alongside the North Vietnamese Ambassador to Moscow in a Stockholm torchlight parade. When this was criticized, Prime Minister Tage Erlander went on television to say that he thought Palme had the right idea. Palme's march was "fine," Erlander said. Thereupon the major opposition parties took the same anti-U. S. side on Vietnam.

Last year Sweden permitted its capital to be used for the anti-American Vietnam war "Tribunal," which blasted away at such U. S. "war crimes" as bombing with napalm and cannisters full of deadly anti-people pellets.

The Tribunal moved to Sweden after being barred from convening in France. This certainly wasn't because the French approve of our Vietnam policy. More likely, President Charles De Gaulle was distressed at the thought of playing host to a propaganda show under the sponsorship of a British philosopher, Lord Russell.

Denmark Also Criticized

Sweden, which holds to a neutral but generally pro-western policy in world politics, has kept out of the North Atlantic treaty organization. But even Denmark, a fellow Scandinavian nation and a NATO member, has been critical of the United States in Vietnam. The other day, the Danish ambassador in Peking made a trip to Hanoi to pay his respects.

The Swedes pointedly refuse to sell weapons to the United States while the Vietnam war continues. They have downgraded their embassy in Saigon to the status of consulate and have established diplomatic contact with Hanoi. Harassing our diplomats, Swedish youths broke windows in the American Embassy in Stockholm, smeared paint on the American trade center, destroyed the landscaping of U. S. officials' homes, threw eggs at them and sent them threatening letters.

The state department decided to call home Ambassador William W. Heath and let it be known the post will remain open "for a long, long time."

(Undated)—We seem to be building up to a big "Hate Sweden" campaign. It would be Washington's answer to the impertinent Swedes, who dare to bait us on Vietnam.

A large part of Sweden, apparently, believes that our Vietnam war is disgusting. They show this by marching in parades, by making anti-Vietnam statements, by harassing American diplomats, by welcoming American defectors.

A couple-dozen Americans who have defected from the armed forces on the Vietnam issue have to Sweden, one or two have returned to their units tired of being defectors in a country where they don't know the language.

Being against the American war in Vietnam is a non-partisan position in Sweden. First Olof Palme, the education social democratic party, the education minister and their apparent to leadership of the ruling social democratic party, showed how he felt. He marched alongside the North Vietnamese Ambassador to Moscow in a Stockholm torchlight parade. When this was criticized, Prime Minister Tage Erlander went on television to say that he thought Palme had the right idea. Palme's march was "fine," Erlander said. Thereupon the major opposition parties took the same anti-U. S. side on Vietnam.

Last year Sweden permitted its capital to be used for the anti-American Vietnam war "Tribunal," which blasted away at such U. S. "war crimes" as bombing with napalm and cannisters full of deadly anti-people pellets.

The Tribunal moved to Sweden after being barred from convening in France. This certainly wasn't because the French approve of our Vietnam policy. More likely, President Charles De Gaulle was distressed at the thought of playing host to a propaganda show under the sponsorship of a British philosopher, Lord Russell.

Denmark Also Criticized

Sweden, which holds to a neutral but generally pro-western policy in world politics, has kept out of the North Atlantic treaty organization. But even Denmark, a fellow Scandinavian nation and a NATO member, has been critical of the United States in Vietnam. The other day, the Danish ambassador in Peking made a trip to Hanoi to pay his respects.

The Swedes pointedly refuse to sell weapons to the United States while the Vietnam war continues. They have downgraded their embassy in Saigon to the status of consulate and have established diplomatic contact with Hanoi.

Harassing our diplomats, Swedish youths broke windows in the American Embassy in Stockholm, smeared paint on the American trade center, destroyed the landscaping of U. S. officials' homes, threw eggs at them and sent them threatening letters.

The state department decided to call home Ambassador William W. Heath and let it be known the post will remain open "for a long, long time."

Postal Officials Set Meeting With Business Leaders

The first meeting of a new regional organization of businessmen and others interested in mail service is set for 1:30 p. m., Thursday, March 28, 1968 at the Kingston Post Office, 90 Cornell Street.

Improving postal service is the aim of the new Kingston, Catskill Mt. Area Users Council, which is expected to have representation from Ellenville, Kingston, Woodstock, Catskill and Oak Hill, N. Y.

"Mail service is a vital part of the operation of almost every business or organization in Kingston, Catskill Mt. Area," Kingston Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk said. "These organizations owe it to themselves to find out how they can get the most out of the postage they pay, and how they can get the best possible service."

"Sometimes, a businessman can get better mail service simply by coming in and talking about transportation dispatch times, or use of proper packaging materials or other matter," Newkirk said.

He explained, also, that the Mail Users Council program achieves better postal service through several cooperative programs. Among these he listed:

Cycled mailing: businesses avoid the peak mailing time near the first of the month, thus averting pile ups in the local post office.

Vertical Improved Mail Service: provision of mail rooms or other arrangements in business buildings to provide early in-the-day mail service for building tenants.

Early Warning: mailers alert the post office to impending large volume shipments, allowing the postmaster to schedule adequate manpower and take other precautions to make certain the shipment is handled efficiently.

Local Death Record

William H. Foss, 84, a native and life-long resident of Kingston, died at Benedictine Hospital Sunday morning. He was the son of the late Henry and Minnie Koester Foss. Mr. Foss is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Simon C. (Evelyn) DuBois of Kingston and a son, Elmer Foss of Elyria, O.; two grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Mr. Foss was a member of Immanuel Lutheran Church. The funeral will be held at the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home, Inc., 15 Downs Street, Wednesday at 2 p. m. where the Rev. Carl J. Goette, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church, will officiate. Pastor Goette will also conduct a prayer service at the funeral home Tuesday at 7 p. m. Burial will be in Montrose Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Joseph McCann, 62 formerly of Kingston, died suddenly at his home in New Paltz, Saturday. He was born in Ireland, the son of the late Patrick and Kathryn Lennon McCann, and came to Kingston as a young man. His wife, the former Dorothy Gallagher, died March 6, 1961. Mr. McCann was employed as a maintenance man at the state college at New Paltz. Surviving are a daughter, Maureen, wife of Frank M. Naccarato of Kingston, two sisters, Mrs. Kathleen Valley, Mrs. Mary McKenna and a brother, Patrick McCann, all of Ireland. Also surviving are three grandchildren, Michael, Frank and Mary Naccarato of Kingston. Testimonial Set On Thursday Night

A testimonial dinner Thursday 6:30 p. m. at Gov. Clinton Hotel will honor George W. Tamke, noted civic leader, who served as general manager of International Business Machines Corp., Kingston, for the past three and one-half years.

The testimonial is being tendered by a group of his associates in community enterprises in which he participated.

Tamke has been transferred by IBM to the Production Systems Department in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He came to Kingston from World Trade Corp., of IBM.

He has been succeeded as general manager at Kingston IBM by Frank H. Delaney, who was with Group Headquarters at Harrison.

Another dinner, held in his behalf, was attended Saturday night by about 230 IBM associates. It also took place in the Gov. Clinton Hotel with Johnny Knapp's group providing the dancing music.

A gift was presented Tamke and his wife, Josephine.

Greene Sales Tax Voted, Starts June 1

The Greene County Board of Supervisors met in special session in Catskill Friday night and unanimously passed a two per cent county sales tax, effective June 1.

The tax is expected to raise more than a million dollars in revenue for the county next year, with an estimated 70 per cent of that revenue coming from tourists.

It is also expected that the county's real estate tax will be cut in half from the current $18.89 to slightly more than $9 per thousand of assessed real estate. Greene County's current budget (1968) is $7,047,000 of which $2,044,000 is raised by taxation.

Mrs. Doris Parslow, clerk to the board of supervisors, told The Freeman today that the vote followed a public hearing. There were 13 of the 14 supervisors present, all approving the measure.

Kingston's two per cent sales tax went into effect March 15 and is expected to raise $325,000 in revenue for 1968. The Ulster County Legislature is currently reviewing plans for a county tax.

Released on Bail

Michael R. Mentessi, 17, of Adams Street facing two charges following a high speed chase in a stolen vehicle Wednesday was released from Kingston Hospital Saturday and taken into custody. He was arrested by Deputies Gerald Miller and Frank Carpio of the Sheriff's Office on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and grand larceny, third degree in connection with a burglary at Fallsburgh Bottling Company, Albany Avenue before Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly. Also facing charges at the same time are William Pendell, 20, of Franklin Street, Ernest C. Bodie, 21, of Hunter Street, and Frank W. Williams, 17, of DuBois Street.

UCCC to Offer Seminar on Law

As a community service, Ulster County Community College is cooperating with the Ulster County Bar Association to offer a two-session law seminar at 8 o'clock, April 1 and 15 at its Stone Ridge campus. It is open to attorneys throughout the Hudson Valley.

Making use of its television facilities, the College will show seven programs dealing with New York's revised Penal Law and will show an eighth program on the Narcotics Control Act.

For the two seminar sessions, there will be discussions of the two programs by local attorneys under the direction of Norman Kellar, chairman of the Committee on Continuing Education of the Ulster County Bar Association.

"The college is most happy to cooperate with the Bar Association in putting on this law seminar to serve as a continuing education opportunity for local attorneys," said President George B. Erbsstein. "We are pleased to consider requests from other groups or individuals interested in non-credit extension courses not presently offered by the college."

The television series on the revised Penal Law, provided by the State University of New York, is conducted by Professor Herman Schwartz, of the State University School of Law at Buffalo. Among the topics to be covered are Definitions of Crimes, Sentencing, Capability and Defenses, Anticipatory and Relational Offenses, Offenses Against the Person, Offenses Against Property, and Public Health and Morals.

The final program on the Narcotics Control Act, also to be conducted by Professor Schwartz, will focus on the drug problem, prior attempts to deal with it, and new legislation.

Red Hook Meet Set on New Park

One of the largest public gatherings in the history of Northern Dutchess will be held at the Red Hook Senior High School on Thursday, March 28, at 8 p. m. A general progress report will be presented on the accomplishments, plans, and financial structure of the Red Hook Recreational Park. Also, a prominent local citizen will be named as the honorary chairman for a Spring Fund Raising Drive to construct an Olympic-size swimming pool. Twenty-one team captains will be announced to provide the organizational leadership for the project.

Estranged Couple Reunited--in Jail

An estranged couple are back together again, in the Dutchess County Jail, after an incident that began at the 9B Bowling Alleys in Red Hook late last night.

Rhinebeck Troopers said Stephan Cusick, 25, of Red Hook and his wife, Helen, 35, were remanded to the Dutchess County Jail by Red Hook Justice Frank Martin on charges of public intoxication, unauthor-

CL Chapter To Meet Here

Kingston will host the March meeting of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the New York State Civil Liberties Union Tuesday 7:30 p. m. The meeting will be held at the State of New York National Bank, Kingston Plaza.

Law Enforcement and Civil Liberties will be the topic of guest speakers Joseph Torrance, Ulster County District Attorney; Sheriff William B. Martin; Attorneys Norman Kellar of Ulster County and Charles Pincos of Dutchess County.

Moderator will be Ira Glasser, associate director of the New York Civil Liberties Union who will describe the functions of the organization.

ized use of a motor vehicle, driving while license was revoked and driving without proper insurance. The latter three charges were lodged against Cusick.

According to troopers, Cusick and wife, who are reportedly separated, got involved in an argument at the bowling alleys late last night. Cusick left the bowling alleys and drove off in his wife's pickup truck. She called troopers and charged him with unauthorized use of her truck. Cusick was apprehended shortly after and charged with driving while his license was revoked, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and driving a motor vehicle with improper insurance.

His wife went to the barracks to sign the complaint and reportedly became abusive with arresting officers. She was then charged with public intoxication.

The pair was remanded to the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $250 bail. Their hearing is scheduled later this week.

Injured in Mishap

Henry Buser, 39, of 15 Melissa Drive, was injured at 1 a. m. today when his car went out of control on Sawkill Road and went down an embankment to the Thruway. He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors' Ambulance. His injuries were not immediately determined.

Middletown Bus Leaves March 27

The monthly bus to Middletown State Hospital, chartered by the Ulster County Association for Mental Health—a Community Chest Agency—will run this coming Wednesday, March 27.

The bus leaves from in front of The Park Diner in Kingston at 11:45 a. m. and makes stops at The Elms in Rosendale at 12 noon, and The Grand Union, North Chestnut Street in New Paltz at 12:10 p. m. The bus leaves Middletown State Hospital at 4 p. m. for the return journey, and arrives in Kingston by 5:30 p. m., stopping as requested by passengers.

A special calendar, giving the schedule for the year, is available upon request from the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, 27 East O'Reilly Street. The office is open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Persons in Saugerties may also call Mrs. Edwin C. Shultz for information, and in New Paltz, Mrs. Albert S. Kerr.

Testimonial Set On Thursday Night

A testimonial dinner Thursday 6:30 p. m. at Gov. Clinton Hotel will honor George W. Tamke, noted civic leader, who served as general manager of International Business Machines Corp., Kingston, for the past three and one-half years.

The testimonial is being tendered by a group of his associates in community enterprises in which he participated.

Tamke has been transferred by IBM to the Production Systems Department in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. He came to Kingston from World Trade Corp., of IBM.

He has been succeeded as general manager at Kingston IBM by Frank H. Delaney, who was with Group Headquarters at Harrison.

Another dinner, held in his behalf, was attended Saturday night by about 230 IBM associates. It also took place in the Gov. Clinton Hotel with Johnny Knapp's group providing the dancing music.

A gift was presented Tamke and his wife, Josephine.

Greene Sales Tax Voted, Starts June 1

The Greene County Board of Supervisors met in special session in Catskill Friday night and unanimously passed a two per cent county sales tax, effective June 1.

The tax is expected to raise more than a million dollars in revenue for the county next year, with an estimated 70 per cent of that revenue coming from tourists.

It is also expected that the county's real estate tax will be cut in half from the current $18.89 to slightly more than $9 per thousand of assessed real estate. Greene County's current budget (1968) is $7,047,000 of which $2,054,000 is raised by taxation.

Mrs. Doris Parslow, clerk to the board of supervisors, told The Freeman today that the vote followed a public hearing. There were 13 of the 14 supervisors present, all approving the measure.

Kingston's two per cent sales tax went into effect March 15 and is expected to raise $325,000 in revenue for 1968. The Ulster County Legislature is currently reviewing plans for a county tax.

Released on Bail

Michael R. Mentessi, 17, of Adams Street, facing two charges following a high speed chase in a stolen vehicle Wednesday was released from Kingston Hospital Saturday and taken into custody. He was arrested by Deputies Gerald Miller and Frank Carpio of the Sheriff's Office on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and grand larceny, third degree in connection with a burglary at Fallsburgh Bottling Company, Albany Avenue Extension. He was arraigned before Town of Kingston Justice Robert Ferrigan and released on $500 bail pending a hearing at 2 p. m. Wednesday before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly. Also facing charges at the same time are William Pendell, 20, of Franklin Street, Ernest G. Bodie, 21, of Hunter Street, and Frank W. Williams, 17, of DuBois Street, the project.

UCCC to Offer Seminar on Law

As a community service, Ulster County Community College is cooperating with the Ulster County Bar Association to offer a two-session law seminar at 8 o'clock, April 1 and 15 at its Stone Ridge campus. It is open to attorneys throughout the Hudson Valley.

Making use of its television facilities, the College will show seven programs dealing with New York's revised Penal Law and will show an eighth program on the Narcotics Control Act.

For the two seminar sessions, there will be discussions of the two programs by local attorneys under the direction of Norman Kellar, chairman of the Committee on Continuing Education of the Ulster County Bar Association.

"The college is most happy to cooperate with the Bar Association in putting on this law seminar to serve as a continuing education opportunity for local attorneys," said President George B. Erbstein. "We are pleased to consider requests from other groups or individuals interested in non-credit extension courses not presently offered by the college."

The television series on the revised Penal Law, provided by the State University of New York, is conducted by Professor Herman Schwartz, of the State University School of Law at Buffalo. Among the topics to be covered are Definitions of Crimes, Sentencing, Capability and Defenses, Anticipatory and Relational Offenses, Offenses Against the Person, Offenses Against Property, and Public Health and Morals.

The final program on the Narcotics Control Act, also to be conducted by Professor Schwartz, will focus on the drug problem, prior attempts to deal with it, and new legislation.

Red Hook Meet Set on New Park

One of the largest public gatherings in the history of Northern Dutchess will be held at the Red Hook Senior High School on Thursday, March 28, at 8 p. m. A general progress report will be presented on the accomplishments, plans, and financial structure of the Red Hook Recreational Park. Also, a prominent local citizen will be named as the honorary chairman for a Spring Fund Raising Drive to construct an Olympic-size swimming pool. Twenty-one team captains will be announced to provide the organizational leadership for the project.

Estranged Couple Reunited--in Jail

An estranged couple are back together again, in the Dutchess County Jail, after an incident that began at the 9B Bowling Alleys in Red Hook late last night.

Rhinebeck Troopers said Stephan Cussick, 25, of Red Hook and his wife, Helen, 35, were remanded to the Dutchess County Jail by Red Hook Justice Frank Martin on charges of public intoxication, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, driving while license was revoked and driving without proper insurance. The latter three charges were lodged against Cussick.

According to troopers, Cussick and wife, who are reportedly separated, got involved in an argument at the bowling alleys late last night. Cussick left the bowling alleys and drove off in his wife's pickup truck. She called troopers and charged him with unauthorized use of her truck. Cussick was apprehended shortly after and charged with driving while his license was revoked, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and driving a motor vehicle with improper insurance.

His wife went to the barracks to sign the complaint and reportedly became abusive with arresting officers. She was then charged with public intoxication.

The pair was remanded to the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $250 bail. Their hearing is scheduled later this week.

Law Enforcement and Civil Liberties will be the topic of guest speakers Joseph Torrace, Ulster County District Attorney; Sheriff William B. Martin; Attorneys Norman Kellar of Ulster County and Charles Pincos of Dutchess County.

Moderator will be Ira Glasser, associate director of the New York Civil Liberties Union. Those who will describe the functions of the organization.

Middletown Bus Leaves March 27

The monthly bus to Middletown State Hospital, chartered by the Ulster County Association for Mental Health—a Community Chest Agency—will run this coming Wednesday, March 27.

The bus leaves from in front of The Park Diner in Kingston at 11:45 a. m. and makes stops at The Elms in Rosendale at 12 noon, and The Grand Union, North Chestnut Street in New Paltz at 12:10 p. m. The bus leaves Middletown State Hospital at 4 p. m. for the return journey, and arrives in Kingston by 5:30 p. m., stopping as requested by passengers.

A special calendar, giving the schedule for the year, is available upon request from the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, 27 East O'Reilly Street. The office is open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Persons in Saugerties may also call Mrs. Edwin C. Shults for information, and in New Paltz, Mrs. Albert S. Kerr.

HARTFORD, Ky. (AP) — Dorothy Genter was visiting with a young mother whose son came home with a bad report card.

"How about your friend, Eddy," the mother asked, "he didn't make bad grades, did he?"

"No," replied the youngster, "but he's got smart parents."

Electronics Aid Gold-Silver Industry

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Electronic devices that can "sniff" the moon's soil without setting foot on it. Government agencies and mining interests in the United States, the Soviet Union, Africa and Australia are systematically surveying broad areas for precious metals with these new tools.

In the past few years two major gold strikes and a silver deposit which reportedly could rival the Comstock lode, have been found with space age techniques that enabled man to test the moon's soil without setting foot on it. Latest available reports indicate the Soviets are making more than seven million samplings a year compared with about 150,000 in the United States in 1967.

The electronic soil testers detect the presence of various kinds of metal by measuring the distinctive emissions each gives off when the rock is subjected to heat and other radiations.

Mobile laboratories—converted trailers—take the equipment to prospecting sites and make analyses on the spot.

A miniaturized soil-testing device using somewhat similar "radiation signature" techniques was carried to the moon by Surveyor spacecraft and determined the lunar surface was largely basaltic like that of the earth. The gold "sniffers" are so precise they can find particles only a few microns in diameter, scattered as widely as four parts of gold per billion parts of rock. A micron is forty-millionths of an inch.

With today's giant trucks and power shovels, gold can be re-

Government agencies and mining interests in the United States, the Soviet Union, Africa and Australia are systematically surveying broad areas for precious metals with these new tools.

The Russian effort reportedly is far greater than this country's, with a 10-year head start.

Latest available reports indicate the Soviets are making more than seven million samplings a year compared with about 150,000 in the United States in 1967.

The electronic soil testers detect the presence of various kinds of metal by measuring the distinctive emissions each gives off when the rock is subjected to heat and other radiations.

The gold "sniffers" are so precise they can find particles only a few microns in diameter, scattered as widely as four parts of gold per billion parts of rock. A micron is forty-millionths of an inch.

With today's giant trucks and power shovels, gold can be recovered profitably in open pit mines where the yield is as low as $2 a ton.

U.S. Geological Survey reports indicate two recent strikes in Nevada are averaging a third of an ounce of gold per ton. That seems a small amount, but at $35 an ounce the gold yield is well within the profit-making range.

Predict Another Step to Aid Gold Situation

By LOUIS NEVIN
LONDON (AP) — The West's central bankers, having moved closer to freeing world money from its chains of gold, may take a further step in Stockholm this week toward turning the metal over to the jewelers wholesale.

That is the belief of Britain's top economists. They see the establishment of a two-tier—a free and an official market for gold as a logical answer to the recent gold panic. Before the central bankers voted this system at Washington March 17, world currencies were related to each other by being exchangeable into gold at a fixed rate of $35 a fine ounce. This was an artificially set price for all comers, governments, jewelers, hoarders and speculators.

The bankers have reserved for themselves continuance of credit money. Its units don't all went to hoarders and speculators. The difference between $45 billion and $71 billion was financed by dollars and pounds sterling pouring out of the United States and Britain.

The two countries for years have been buying, spending and lending more abroad than they were taking in. Their foreign payments deficits were covering the increasing volume of foreign trade.

Everything went merrily until people in Europe and even in America and Britain began to get worried and started changing their dollars and pounds into gold.

Drain Brought Crash
This steady drain brought the crash of the weaker of the two reserve currencies. The pound was devalued Nov. 18 and the attack on the dollar began.

Gold was siphoned out of the vaults of the seven central bankers through the international gold pool they set up in 1960. The gold pool, operated through the Bank of England, bought up or sold whatever gold was needed to steady the market. It worked well until the run on the bank began last November.

Stops Tormenting Rectal Itch
Exclusive Formula Promptly Stops Itching, Burning and Relieves Pain of Piles in Most Cases

New York, N.Y. (Special): The embarrassing itch caused by hemorrhoids is most torturous. But science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to promptly stop the burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids. And all without narcotics or stinging astringents of any kind. The secret is Preparation H. There is no other hemorrhoid formula like it. Preparation H also lubricates, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

Lake Hill Firemen Quell Garage Blaze

Eighteen firefighters from Woodstock Co. 3 of Lake Hill and a unit of volunteers from Ontario Saturday afternoon made a good stop in checking a fire that started in a garage attached to the Kelsey residence on the Mt. Tremper-Willow Road and spread through part of the breezeway.

Firemen in command of Capt. H. Phillips Eighmey and Lieuts. Louis Kolbe and Cornelius McLeary extinguished the flames that reportedly started in a cardboard box with hot coals, a fire official said. The fire charred the interior of the building, entered the breezeway and ignited the roof near the house before the blaze was checked.

Body Identified

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A man whose body was pulled from a creek just off Lake Ontario has been identified as a St. Catharines, Ont., resident missing since last Dec. 16.

Testimonial for Van Voorhis

Hillary Schultz of the State Division of Public Safety will be the principal speaker at the annual chief's night testimonial dinner of Saugerties Fire Department Tuesday 7:30 p. m. at VFW Hall, Livingston Street, Saugerties.

The dinner will honor outgoing Fire Chief Homer Van Voorhis. Robert Muer, principal of Saugerties Junior High School will serve as toastmaster. More than 100 local volunteer firemen, chiefs of neighboring communities, officials of county, Hudson Valley and state volunteer firemen's units will attend. Members of Saugerties Town and Village Boards have also been invited.

Van Voorhis, a member of E. A. Snyder Fire Company will be succeeded April 1 by George Warringer of Washington Hook and Ladder Company. First assistant chief will be Carroll Kimble of C. A. Lynch Fire Company, and second assistant, John Woods of the Snyder Company. Saugerties Mayor Cornelius Cox and Fire Commissioner

By LOUIS NEVIN

LONDON (AP) — The West's central bankers, having moved closer to freeing world money from its chains of gold, may take a further step in Stockholm this week toward turning the metal over to the jewelers' wholesale.

That is the belief of Britain's top economists.

They see the establishment of a two-tier—a free and an official market for gold as a logical answer to the recent gold panic.

Before the central bankers voted this system at Washington March 17, world currencies were related to each other by being exchangeable into gold at a fixed rate of $35 a fine ounce.

This was an artificially set price for all comers, governments, jewelers, hoarders and speculators.

The bankers have reserved for themselves continuance of the $35 price. When the central bankers exchange gold at that price, they are exchanging pure units of account with a purely arbitrary bookkeeping value.

No Need for Gold

In that case, economists here argue, they have no need for gold at all. A simple international understanding to continue exchanging their currencies at that rate would suffice, provided safeguards against cheating could be set up.

In Stockholm next Friday, delegates of 10 wealthy nations known as the Group of 10 meet to create the purest of purely credit money. Its units don't even have a name but are known as SDRs, standing for special drawing rights. One of them wouldn't buy a cup of coffee but the United States wants $2 billion worth of these governmental units of credit to be created each year.

That amount is roughly the average annual increase of world trade. At the present time, world trade has a volume of roughly $71 billion. There is only $45 billion worth of gold to finance that trade and last year not one ounce of newly mined gold found its way into the vaults of government banks. It all went to hoarders and speculators.

The difference between $45 billion and $71 billion was financed by dollars and pounds sterling pouring out of the United States and Britain.

The two countries for years have been buying, spending and lending more abroad than they were taking in. Their foreign payments deficits were covering the increasing volume of foreign trade.

Everything went merrily until people in Europe and even in America and Britain began to get worried and started changing their dollars and pounds into gold.

Drain Brought Crash

This steady drain brought the crash of the weaker of the two reserve currencies. The pound was devalued Nov. 18 and the attack on the dollar began.

Gold was siphoned out of the vaults of the seven central bankers through the international gold pool they set up in 1960. The gold pool, operated through the Bank of England, bought up or sold whatever gold was needed to steady the market. It worked well until the run on the bank began last November.

In Washington the seven central bankers, who were eight until France had enough last June and walked out, all but closed down the gold pool for good, since they agreed to end the supply of gold to private, non-governmental buyers.

Britain's gold market, the largest in the world, was shut down on the eve of the Washington meeting until next Monday. When it reopens it will operate like the markets in Paris, Zurich or Hong Kong, buying and selling whatever free, nonmonetary gold comes on the market.

In No Hurry

The London market will presumably also handle whatever new gold South Africa sells by agreement through the Bank of England. But Johannesburg doesn't seem in any hurry to sell its gold these days, pending clarification of the intentions of the central bankers.

Thus, said Prof. Harry G. Johnson of the London School of Economics in The Times, the speculators by their panic raid on gold have hastened "the monetization of gold and its replacement by a credit money, the only rational solution to the fundamental irrationality of an international monetary system based on gold."

Speculators and hoarders have already bought up enough gold to supply the jewelry market for a long time.

The fire charred the interior of the building, entered the breezeway and ignited the roof near the house before the blaze was checked.

While the fire was in progress, Chief Duncan Wilson arrived and assisted in directing the firefighters. After the flames were quelled firemen used the smoke ejector to clear the house of smoke.

The blaze was discovered at about 5 p. m. by a resident of the Kelsey home who reportedly was awakened by smoke, a department member said.

Body Identified

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A man whose body was pulled from a creek just off Lake Ontario has been identified as a St. Catharines, Ont., resident missing since last Dec. 16.

The body of Theodore Gurski, 34, was identified Sunday by his wife, Jennie, and by a brother, Monroe County sheriff's deputies said. Foul play was not suspected in the death, they added.

Quell Area Fires

Grass and brush fires were quelled on Sunday by area fire companies. A dispatcher at the Fire Control Center reported grass fires were extinguished by firemen at Olivebridge and Rosendale, and New Paltz firemen were called out to check a brush fire. A car fire was reported in Ellenville.

Testimonial for Van Voorhis

Hillary Schultz of the State Division of Public Safety will be the principal speaker at the annual chief's night testimonial dinner of Saugerties Fire Department Tuesday 7:30 p. m. at VFW Hall, Livingston Street, Saugerties.

Saugerties Mayor Cornelius of Foreign Wars will serve the dinner.

Fire Damages Accord Motel

The ceiling was damaged in one room of a coffee shop at the Starlite Motel in Accord.

Sunday afternoon when an electrical short in wiring ignited a fire.

Accord Fire Chief Floyd Countryman Jr. and his company responded at 4 p. m., brought the blaze under control and returned within a half hour.

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Rogelio Salcido will get no medal for the night he got knocked silly in defense of his country.

There is no proper decoration for the curly-haired Texan's experience.

The 23-year-old airman first class from Odessa, in the Air Force hardly a year, handled himself like a veteran. He had to way of knowing that the slow which struck him down came from friendly hands.

In jungle fatigues and with his M16 at the ready, Salcido had just survived a rocket attack on the big base at Da Nang. As an air policeman he was at his post in the center of the field and as soon as the rockets stopped he popped out of his bunker and started checking the guard posts to see if they were okay.

It was a black 4 a.m. The only light came from the spluttering flares being dropped from a twin-engine plane lazily banking overhead.

A few fires were burning but the damage seems to have been slight as Salcido went from post to post along the runway.

"Next thing I knew I was doped on the head," Salcido drawled. "I sort of woke up, feeling shaky, and saw this long thing laying there. I thought it was the rocket that hit me."

"I know it was stupid but I ran over and picked it up and threw it over my shoulder. Why I did that I don't know. I guess I thought I could get rid of it. I blacked out again and then I got on a radio. I wanted to get an ordnance man out there to get that thing. I wanted to warn them that there was a live rocket out there."

"They said I was stuttering on the radio and they couldn't understand what I was saying. I guess I didn't make much sense."

What felled Salcido indeed have knocked an elephant silly.

They put Salcido in the hospital for 48 hours until the ringing

Warm Congratulations for Inheritance and Marriage

Q—Recently I inherited the enclosed list of stocks. I am a college student, age 21 and am planning to marry soon. I'd like some income from these stocks, but some switches are in order because at your age you should aim mainly for growth even though some income is temporarily desirable.

A—I congratulate you warmly on your forthcoming marriage and also on your inheritance. You have a good list of stocks, but some switches are in order because at your age you should aim mainly for growth even though some income is temporarily desirable.

Idaho Power, yielding 4.6 per cent, and Montana Power, yielding 5.6 per cent, are both fine stocks to hold. Ford is generally regarded as an income issue. A change to Chrysler would provide income and a faster growth rate. Columbia Gas is good but slow and I would switch it into American Hospital Supply, a fast growing issue. Tappan makes household ranges and has shown little price progress in recent years. I would exchange it for Stewart-Warner, which has tripled in price over the past decade and pays 5 1/2 per cent. Arden-Mayfair, a West Coast dairy operator, pays no dividend and has little appeal for me. This I would switch into Del Monte. Hold Thrifty Drug but transfer Northern Pacific Rwy. into Georgia-Pacific. The rails offer little apparent future growth and I would avoid them. Uniroyal (formerly U.S. Rubber) has had a reasonable price advance over the past decade and should be retained.

Q—We are a couple 60 years of age. We have 617 shares of Investors Stock Fund from investing $125 a month. Should we continue? We also own 250 Greater Iowa. Will this ever grow?—O. S.

A—Investors Stock is a fine fund and I see no reason to discontinue your plan. Greater Iowa is a holding company that's trading around 1 1/4. The firm pays no dividend and the latest report I have shows an operating deficit for the first fiscal half of 1967. At the current bid price it might be better to hold for possible recovery.

a schism and splitting his own party supporters locally. They added that, "His heavy-handed dismissal of proper parliamentary procedure at the convention has cost him the support of many Democrats in CDA who would have felt they could have voted for him as Assemblyman, and has lost the backing of CDA for those Democrats nominated for the offices of Congressman, State Senator, and other positions."

The CDA further went on record as pledging itself to "ignore the results" of the unofficial Democratic convention; said it took pride in the fact that its delegates had asked only the right to be heard, and deplored the fact that Gorman "ignored the announced agenda of the convention when the opportunity presented itself to deviously and sanctimoniously push through his own name and those of his two running mates as delegates to the Democratic National Convention." Through what amounted to subterfuge, the Coalition said, Gorman not only denied supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy their "day in court," but "julled the backers of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy at the convention into voting for delegates pledged to Lyndon Johnson."

Primary Fight

The Coalition announced that, "Despite the pious sermons delivered by Gorman at the convention in support of Lyndon Johnson and despite his explanation that he chaired the convention as he did because 'politics is a dirty business,' CDA fully intends to fight at the polls the election of the Johnson pledged slate of delegates."

This would mean, said the organization, that Dr. Gerald Gorman of Ulster County, Robert Cahill of Dutchess County, and Thomas Quinn of Columbia County will be challenged on Primary Day by a slate of delegates pledged to vote against Johnson at the national Democratic convention in Chicago under any and all circumstances and conditions. "The opportunity CDA was denied at the county convention," the group said, "will be taken into the campaign." The organization added that in this way, and in this way only, can it "repay the debt now owed to the young people who came to the convention with a belief in the democratic process and lost their faith on the floor of the auditorium of the John F. Kennedy School."

Gorman will be challenged as a national convention delegate by Tobie Geertsema of Woodstock. Cahill will face opposition from Curt Beck of LaGrange. The delegate who will enter the race against Quinn has not been announced as yet.

NEW YORK (AP) — Gains had a slight edge over losses in the stock market early Monday but many blue chips were lagging. Trading was active.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose .58 to 826.63. Among the wider gains, IBM advanced more than 2 while Penn Central Teledyne, American Export, Jones & Laughlin, Alcoa, American Smelting, Domes Mines, Eastman Kodak and Xerox tacked on a point or so each.

All Big Three motors were fractional losers but the major steelmakers edged higher.

Gold-mining issues showed a generally higher trend, as did silvers and coppers.

Most of the major oils took fractional losses, although Royal Dutch was ahead slightly.

RCA and other of the major electronics were down fractionally.

Burroughs, down about 4 points, was major loser in the computer group, but the decline was a small percentage of this stock's high price.

Opening blocks included: Glen Alden, unchanged at 13 1/2 on 66,000 shares; American Telephone, up 1/4 at 49 1/2 on 8,000; and General Motors, unchanged at 73 1/2 on 6,200.

The start of the new week on the big board was backgrounded by rising prices in most European stock markets, a moderate increase in the price of gold in European centers, continued high ordering of steel as a hedge against a possible strike this summer, and a rapid pace in new car sales in mid-March. Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Warm Congratulations for Inheritance and Marriage

Q—Recently I inherited the enclosed list of stocks. I am a college student, age 21 and am planning to marry soon. I'd like some income from these and also some capital growth. What do you suggest?—J. C.

A—I congratulate you warmly on your forthcoming marriage and also on your inheritance. You have a good list of stocks, but some switches are in order because at your age you should aim mainly for growth even though some income is temporarily desirable. Idaho Power, yielding 4.6 per cent, and Montana Power, yielding 5.6 per cent, are both fine

Fastest Since 'Dolls'
A spokesman for Bantam Books said Thursday the publishing house has just ordered 70,000 more copies printed, bringing the total to 810,000. The 720-page, $1.25 edition sold 300,000 copies in its first three days, leading some outlets to call it "the fastest seller since Valley of the Dolls."

Bantam said an enormous range of organizations, public and private, have placed bulk orders for use in a variety of projects.

At an emergency meeting of the Priest's Senate of the Brooklyn, N.Y., Roman Catholic Diocese last week, members present approved a resolution asking Archbishop Egan J. McEntegart to buy 50,000 copies and distribute them throughout the diocese in schools, churches and Catholic organizations.

"Wherever you are, it's constantly talked about," said James Hepburn, an 18-year-old Negro senior in a Brooklyn public high school. "Quite a few of the kids haven't read it, but they're all looking forward to it."

Hepburn's economics and psychology teachers assigned the book as source material for class discussions on whether teen-agers are more prejudiced now than before the riots.

College Orders Pour In
Orders are also pouring in from colleges.

In the Bushwick section of Brooklyn, a generally low income neighborhood that is racially mixed but turning Negro, young priests and ministers ordered 8,000 copies at wholesale prices, and are reselling them to community residents at the same prices—as low as 69 cents a copy.

The residents who buy them, mostly Negroes, many on welfare, are in turn urged to sell them again. Negro mothers have sold copies to policemen, to teachers leaving public schools, and to small homeowners.

Why? Because, said one man involved in the project, "A woman knows from reading the summary in the newspapers that it says what she wants to have said—that the white community's serious leaders now admit to the thing black people thought they were alone in saying, that there is a white racist society."

"She immediately wants to say to other people, will you at least consider acknowledging this so we can start from the same set of facts?"

NEW YORK (AP) — Only two weeks old, the paperback edition of the report of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders is already soaring to a million-seller status. And it's sparking a number of projects among businessmen, in churches, and in poor communities.

The United Presbyterian Church's Office of Church and Society bought 3,000 copies to send to pastors and all members working in urban affairs. Bantam said the executive vice chairman of the National Alliance of Businessmen, based in Washington, D.C., ordered copies sent to all members of his executive board.

The Chicago Board of Education put it to immediate use in four classes for in-service teachers, Bantam said.

H. LEROY GILL

Court Librarian To Retire April 1

On April 1, H. Leroy Gill, Supreme Court librarian at the county court house will retire after a 45-year career in law during which time he was associated with the most prominent judges in the county.

In his letter of retirement to Supreme Court Justices Roscoe V. Elsworth and Louis G. Bruha, Gill, who was 70 on March 3 said:

"I hereby officially submit my resignation as Supreme Court librarian at the court house, Kingston, to be effective April 1.

"I find it difficult to realize that the years have flown by so swiftly. Looking back over the years since I was admitted to the Bar in 1922, it seems a very short time indeed, but, on the other hand, back in 1922, looking forward 45 years seemed like an endless amount of time. Anyway it has been an interesting life."

"As to the future, I am keeping my plans flexible," Gill told The Freeman. "I have no engrossing hobbies, and so, in my case, I feel that just sitting around would not be my dish of tea. I plan to engage in some field of law, but, at the present time, the details have not yet been worked out. I shall miss the day to day association with the many lawyers from Kingston and other places," he concluded.

Mr. Gill attended Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and is a graduate of Albany Law School. He served for 14 years as clerk of Ulster County Surrogate Court under former Surrogate John B. Steley, and the late Surrogate Harry H. Flemming. Mr. Gill has served as Supreme Court librarian for the past 10 years.

Earlier in his law career, he practiced law in the Rondout section of Kingston and maintained offices on the Strand. This was originally the office of his father the late Judge Walter N. Gill.

Mr. Gill's grandfather, William Van Keuren was the owner and editor of the Rondout Freeman which started publishing in 1888 and was the predecessor of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Marine General Confident

Khe Sanh Will Hold

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Marine Corps commandant says the Communist North Vietnamese "can't force us out" of besieged Khe Sanh by bombarding its airstrip into uselessness and preventing its resupply.

Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr. said, "We've got ample helicopter capability which doesn't need any airstrip and we also have an air-drop capability."

The 15,000 or more Communist troops threatening the Marine-held bastion in northwest South Vietnam have intensified their bombardment of Khe Sanh in recent days.

Also, there are reports of anti-aircraft artillery which could seriously threaten American planes and helicopters supplying and protecting the base.

Chapman, who took over leadership of the 300,000-man Marine Corps Jan. 1, said in an exclusive interview that if the North Vietnamese intend to assault Khe Sanh with infantry "they are going to have to hurry because the weather is running out on them."

He said "they not only have to have the weather to assault it, but they've got to have the weather to hold it in the face of U. S. air and artillery power."

Critics have argued Khe Sanh is not worth the blood and resources being spent to hold it.

Chapman disagreed, saying the position sits astride main infiltration routes—"as long as we hold them, they can't use them."

"Of course, there is also the psychological aspect of the thing as it is now built up," the Marine chief said, meaning that Khe Sanh has taken on a symbolic quality akin to Dien Bien Phu, the French outpost overrun at the end of the French Indochina war.

On other points, Chapman also opposed any change in basic U. S. strategy in Vietnam and voiced confidence the United States can reach its goals there "if we just persevere."

Rejected the idea of pulling U. S. forces back to defending population centers and bases and leaving the countryside unprotected.

"I certainly would not favor what is called the enclave strategy," he said. "I think that is tantamount to certain defeat."

Conceded the Communist winter offensive registered shocks to the allied cause and dealt "a setback to many things, particularly the pacification program."

Forecast that in the long run the net effect of that offensive "will be favorable to us" because of Communist violence against Vietnamese civilians.

The commandant, who has been deeply involved in administration discussions over possible scope of a new buildup or whether it will necessitate a reserve callup.

He also sidestepped comment on the possible impact on the course of the war of the presidential campaigns of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., both foes of present war policy.

Here are some of the questions and answers from Chapman's interview:

Q. We've read reports that the enemy has been closing in on the Khe Sanh positions, digging tunnels and working their trench lines close to the perimeter. Why do we allow this, and why haven't the forces we have deployed in the DMZ area taken some aggressive counteraction to dislodge the North Vietnamese and relieve Khe Sanh?

A. I would have to say, first, that that's a tactical matter that Gen. (William C.) Westmoreland has to decide, together with Gen. (Marine Lt. Gen. Robert) Cushman and others. I can't really second guess them.

I will say this: We have done a lot. I make reference to the bombing and artillery fire. It has been just enormous up around there. Our support of that outpost may be compared to some of the heaviest bombardments of World War II in terms of quantity of weapons dropped and sired.

Q. And yet they do seem to be closing in on the perimeter. A. They haven't massed yet. They have to mass before they can assault. And when they mass, they are fair game.

Q. What is the current estimate of North Vietnamese strength in the area threatening Khe Sanh?

A. You see figures anywhere from 15,000 to 50,000. The larger numbers are throughout the whole DMZ area and don't directly threaten Khe Sanh. Right around Khe Sanh I've seen figures from about 15,000 to 25,000. The impression given that there are 15,000 to 25,000 people doughnutted right around Khe Sanh is simply not so. They are not massed. They are scattered in groups of 2, 3, 5 or 10 in and around those hills. If they ever do mass, as I say...

Q. How about the tunneling? Does this represent a real threat? We've had reports they come very close to the wire and to the airstrip. Do you suppose this is intended to prepare for demolition or assault?

A. If that's what they are trying to do, that's probably the reason—to tunnel under the wire and the minefields and get a big charge of explosives and blow it up—just blow a gap.

Q. What do we do as they continue to tunnel? What are we doing to counter this? It's really not clear.

A. To my knowledge, there is no definite evidence yet that they are in fact tunneling. We've got everything from divining rods to stethoscopes out there trying to determine whether or not they are tunneling.

If we did detect and were sure they were digging a tunnel in a particular location, I don't know exactly what the commanders would do about it—but I can assure you they would do something. They could counter with explosives or dig their own shaft.

Q. If it is in their battle plan to overrun Khe Sanh—why have they waited this long when the weather was in their favor? And now they are losing that advantage.

A. I don't know. Either they never really intended to do it—many of us have never believed that it was certain that that was their intention—or else the tremendous amount of bombs and artillery fire we've laid on has just delayed them. I think very likely that may be the reason. We've disrupted and delayed them.

Q. Don't you think the Communists may already have accomplished what they set out to do up there—forced us to concentrate troops in the northern provinces, and thus taken these troops away from the war further south—from the Saigon and Central Highlands areas?

A. It works two ways. It's true we've got sizable forces concentrated up there, but so have they. You know, we've got 6,000 at Khe Sanh and the least number of their troops we've heard are around Khe Sanh is 15,000. The question is: who is tying down who?

Workshop Slated On Mental Health

Advance announcements have been mailed to administrative personnel associated with public and private schools and to specialists in the field of education and child health, in the counties of Dutchess, Columbia, Orange and Ulster, concerning a Regional Workshop with duplicate sessions in Newburgh and Poughkeepsie, May 7.

Stonewall B. Stickney, MD., will direct the workshop into an examination of the opportunities existing within the regular school system for promoting good mental health. He will speak from his experience of developing and supervising the Mental Health Services for the Pittsburgh Public Schools, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Stickney maintains that if children are to receive effective early treatment for mental and emotional disorders, help will most probably come from the schools. Schools should have diagnostic screening programs and teachers should have inservice training to enable them to spot serious difficulties early. He recommends that this screening begin even before the child reaches the first grade. A forward looking State program must take this into account, so that Mental Health funds can be channeled into the schools rather than, in some instances, to increasing clinic and hospital services.

Early constructive and preventive measures in the schools can be much more effective and economic in the long run than treatment services applied later.

The afternoon Workshop will be held at Mount St. Mary College, Newburgh, from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. and the evening Workshop will be at the Poughkeepsie High School, from 8 to 10 p. m. The invitation is also being extended to members of school boards and other concerned groups.

Further program details and advance reservation blanks will be mailed later.

The Workshop is sponsored by Region Three of the New York State Association for Mental Health, comprising the mental health associations of the four cooperating counties. Information may be obtained from the Ulster County Association for Mental Health—a Community Chest Agency. The office, located at 27 East O'Reilly Street, is open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Maneuvers Protested by Two Groups

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Plans by a National Guard "Green Beret" unit to use an isolated area of nearby Grand Island for training maneuvers has prompted opposition from two conservation groups.

Leaders of the Conservation Forum of New York State and the Buffalo Audubon Society contended Sunday that a natural nesting and feeding area for waterfowl in the 40-acre tract would be endangered if the plans went through.

Permission to use the land must be secured from the Niagara Frontier State Park Commission. The Grand Island Town Board, which leases the property from the state, has raised no objection.

Town Supervisor Raymond Griffin said officers of Company E, 19th Special Forces, told him no holes would be dug on the land, no heavy vehicles would drive over it and no live ammunition would be fired.

The Green Beret outfit transferred its headquarters to Buffalo from Schenectady Feb. 1 as part of an Army National Guard reorganization.

Martorana Comments On Elmendorf Views

County Legislator Joseph Martorana, (R-Ninth Dist.), of or against a candidate are who had considered entering the people who elect him and the GOP Assembly race but instead has given his support to Peter Savago, chairman of the County Legislature, today issued the following statement concerning the reasons cited by County Legislator Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Second Dist.) in his declaration of support for H. Clark Bell.

"It was most gratifying and welcome news to hear and read the sentiments of fellow Legislator 'Bud' Elmendorf who objects to intimidation in the making-up of his mind on who to support in the Assembly race," Martorana stated. "I wholeheartedly support such an objection to threats and to retaliatory measures." However, the Ninth District Legislator pointed out, "I doubt very much that Chairman Savago would deny the right of equal representation to any Legislator who might not support him in his bid for the GOP Assembly nod."

Martorana added also that, "If by chance there exists any such threats made against Republican Legislators by either of the two forces involved in the Assembly race, then certainly Legislator Elmendorf's statement has cleared the air and for this he should be congratulated."

Supporting Legislator Elmendorf's views that the people who elect him to office should not be denied equal representation because of his refusal to yield to pressures on the Assembly race, Martorana noted, "The only ones entitled to retaliate against a Legislator for

Court Librarian To Retire April 1

On April 1, H. Leroy Gill, Supreme Court librarian at the county court house will retire after a 45-year career in law during which time he was associated with the most prominent judges in the county.

In his letter of retirement to Supreme Court Justices Roscoe V. Elsworth and Louis G. Bruha, Gill, who was 70 on March 3 said:

"I hereby officially submit my resignation as Supreme Court librarian at the court house, Kingston, to be effective April 1.

"I find it difficult to realize that the years have flown by so swiftly. Looking back over the years since I was admitted to the Bar in 1922, it seems a very short time indeed, but, on the other hand, back in 1922, looking forward 45 years seemed like an endless amount of time. Anyway it has been an interesting life."

"As to the future, I am keeping my plans flexible," Gill told The Freeman. "I have no engrossing hobbies, and so, in my case, I feel that just sitting around would not be my dish of tea. I plan to engage in some field of law, but, at the present time, the details have not yet been worked out. I shall miss the day to day association with the many lawyers from Kingston and other places," he concluded.

Mr. Gill attended Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute and is a graduate of Albany Law School. He served for 14 years as clerk of Ulster County Surrogate Court under former Surrogate John B. Steley, and the late Surrogate Harry H. Flemming. Mr. Gill has served as Supreme Court librarian for the past 10 years.

Earlier in his law career, he practiced law in the Rondout section of Kingston and maintained offices on the Strand. This was originally the office of his father the late Judge Walter N. Gill.

Mr. Gill's grandfather, William Van Keuren was the owner and editor of the Rondout Freeman which started publishing in 1888 and was the predecessor of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Marine General Confident

Khe Sanh Will Hold

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Marine Corps commandant says the Communist North Vietnamese "can't force us out" of besieged Khe Sanh by bombarding its airstrip into uselessness and preventing its resupply.

Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr. said, "We've got some helicopter capability which doesn't need any airstrip and we also have an air-drop capability."

The 15,000 or more Communist troops threatening the Marine-held bastion in northwest South Vietnam have intensified their bombardment of Khe Sanh in recent days.

Also, there are reports of anti-aircraft artillery which could seriously threaten American planes and helicopters supplying and protecting the base.

Chapman, who took over leadership of the 300,000-man Marine Corps Jan. 1, said in an exclusive interview that if the North Vietnamese intend to assault Khe Sanh with infantry "they are going to have to hurry because the weather is running out on them."

He said "they not only have to have bad weather to assault it, but they've got to have bad weather to hold it" in the face of U. S. air and artillery power.

Critics have argued Khe Sanh is not worth the blood and resources being spent to hold it.

Chapman disagreed, saying the position sits astride main infiltration routes — "as long as we hold them, they can't use them."

"Of course, there is also the psychological aspect of the thing as it is now built up," the Marine chief said, meaning that Khe Sanh has taken on a symbolic quality akin to Dien Bien Phu, the French outpost overrun at the end of the French-Indochina war.

On other points, Chapman also:

— Opposed any change in basic U. S. strategy in Vietnam and voiced confidence the United States can reach its goals there "if we just persevere."

— Rejected the idea of pulling U. S. forces back to defending population centers and bases and leaving the countryside unprotected.

"I certainly would not favor what is called the enclave strategy," he said. "I think that is tantamount to certain defeat."

Conceded the Communist winter offensive registered shocks to the allied cause and dealt "a setback to many things, particularly the pacification program."

Forecast that in the long run the net effect of that offensive "will be favorable to us" because of Communist violence against Vietnamese civilians.

The commandant, who has been deeply involved in administration discussions over policy, refused comment on the possible scope of a new buildup or whether it will necessitate a reserve callup.

He also sidestepped comment on the possible impact on the course of the war of the presidential campaigns of Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., both foes of present war policy.

Here are some of the questions and answers from Chapman's interview:

Q. We've read reports that the enemy has been closing in on the Khe Sanh positions, digging tunnels and working their trench lines close to the perimeter. Why do we allow this, and why haven't the forces we have deployed in the DMZ area taken some aggressive counteraction to dislodge the North Vietnamese and relieve Khe Sanh?

A. I would have to say, first, that that's a tactical matter that Gen. (William C.) Westmoreland has to decide, together with Gen. (Marine Lt. Gen. Robert) Cushman and others. I can't really second-guess them.

I will say this: We have done a lot. I make reference to the bombing and artillery fire. It has been just enormous up around there. Our support of that outpost may be compared to some of the heaviest bombardments of World War II in terms of quantity of weapons dropped and sired.

Q. And yet they do seem to be closing in on the perimeter.

A. They haven't massed yet. They have to mass before they can assault. And when they mass, they are fair game.

Q. What is the current estimate of North Vietnamese strength in the area threatening Khe Sanh?

A. You see figures anywhere from 15,000 to 50,000. The larger numbers are throughout the whole DMZ area and don't directly threaten Khe Sanh. Right around Khe Sanh I've seen figures from about 15,000 to 25,000. The impression given that there are 15,000 to 25,000 people doughnutted right around Khe Sanh is simply not so. They are not massed. They are scattered in groups of 2, 3, 5 or 10 in and around those hills. If they ever do mass, as I say...

Q. How about the tunneling? Does this represent a real threat? We've had reports they come very close to the wire and to the airstrip. Do you suppose this is intended to prepare for demolition or assault?

A. If that's what they are trying to do, that's probably the reason—to tunnel under the wire and the minefields and get a big charge of explosives and blow it up—just blow a gap.

Q. What do we do as they continue to tunnel? What are we doing to counter this? It's really not clear.

A. To my knowledge, there is no definite evidence yet that they are in fact tunneling. We've got everything from divining rods to stethoscopes out there trying to determine whether or not they are tunneling.

If we did detect and were sure they were digging a tunnel in a particular location, I don't know exactly what the commanders would do about it—but I can assure you they would do something. They could counter with explosives or dig their own shaft.

Q. If it is in their battle plan to overrun Khe Sanh—why have they waited this long when the weather was in their favor? And now they are losing that advantage.

A. I don't know. Either they never really intended to do it—many of us have never believed that it was certain that that was their intention—or else the tremendous amount of bombs and artillery fire we've laid on has just delayed them. I think very likely that may be the reason. We've disrupted and delayed them.

Q. Don't you think the Communists may already have accomplished what they set out to do up there—forced us to concentrate troops in the northern provinces, and thus taken these troops away from the war further south—from the Saigon and Central Highlands areas?

A. It works two ways. It's true we've got sizable forces concentrated up there, but so have they. You know, we've got 6,000 at Khe Sanh and the least number of their troops we've heard are around Khe Sanh is 15,000. The question is: who is tying down who?

Supporting Legislator Elmendorf's views that the people who elect him to office should not be denied equal representation because of his refusal to yield to pressures on the Assembly race, Martorana noted, "The only ones entitled to retaliate against a Legislator for a position he may take in favor of or against a candidate are the people who elect him and no one else."

Pointing to his own indifference to the feelings of fellow Republican Legislators during the current GOP Assembly race, Martorana stated, "Since the race got underway I have held and have attended quite a number of Legislative Committee meetings. At none of these meetings have I held or displayed any animosity towards any fellow Republican Legislator who may differ with me in my choice for the Assembly nod."

"Specifically," Martorana noted, "I am for Peter Savago and Legislator Elmendorf is for H. Clark Bell. This difference of opinion does not change my esteem for my fellow Legislator nor would it change any support which I may give him in the future for meritorious legislative programs which he may sponsor for his constituents or for the benefit of the county as a whole. If Legislator Elmendorf feels the same way towards me, then certainly our Legislative leaders should feel the same way towards all the Republican Legislators regardless of whom we may be supporting in the Assembly race," Martorana concluded.

Rev. Anderson Lives, Works in Two Worlds

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — He lives and works in two worlds, and tries to bring them closer together.

On Sundays he is the Rev. Jesse F. Anderson Jr., a minister in an all-white Episcopal church in an all-white neighborhood.

On weekdays he is "Jessie" to hordes of poor kids in a predominantly Negro neighborhood of Washington, where he runs a storefront mission called the Southeast Enrichment Center.

He is a Negro. His center, shabby outside but bright and spotless inside, will find you a part-time job to keep you in school, lend you books, give you a place to study, provide a game of pool or table tennis, help out if you get pregnant, or get in trouble with the police.

There are likely to be 75 kids there any night.

Father Anderson—the kids call him that too, if he happens to have his clerical collar on—is 30. He looks younger when bicycling to work or, clad in a sweatshirt, tossing a football with the teen-agers. He recently grew a hippie-style beard.

He heads the Neighborhood Advisory Council, directs the summer day camp program, fights for federal and city funds for his Teen Center, Odd Job Center and other causes, and teaches night classes in sociology at Southeastern University.

At the mission he assembles Negroes and whites from the opposite sides of the city for "dialogues" that run through dinner-time and evening, once a week for 15 weeks. Then a new series is begun, bringing together more strangers from his two worlds.

For St. Patrick's Episcopal church, miles away in a setting of handsome homes and shade trees, the Rev. Mr. Anderson is an answer to questions that bother many an all-white congregation: How can we help out? How do we get involved?

St. Patrick's raised $45,000 to launch and support for three years a one-man inner city mission.

It interviewed eight young white and Negro priests in 1966, then invited the Rev. Mr. Anderson to come from Philadelphia to man the mission, and to take his turn regularly in St. Patrick's pulpit.

One or two parishioners walked out the first time he appeared in the chancel. A few families canceled their pledges and left St. Patrick's. Now, says the Rev. Thomas D. Bowers, rector, some have come back, and membership and pledging have risen.

St. Patrick's members work with the Rev. Mr. Anderson, but he relies mainly on cooperation with other neighborhood agencies, including a Catholic mission.

His hardest job, the Rev. Mr. Anderson says, is explaining to well-to-do whites why the poor think and behave as they do. He says "It's hard to understand, for instance, why it makes sense to some girls to have babies and several of them—out of wedlock."

"It isn't just for the extra welfare money but almost from a sense of loneliness—of wanting to have someone or something to care for and be loved by."

Marbletown Citizens

Eye a Vermont Plan

The Citizens Organization of Marbletown, which has asked the Rondout Valley School Board to reconsider its present plans for the construction of the new Rosendale School, will look into a type of building utilized by Goddard College in Vermont at a building cost of $12 per square foot.

The estimated cost of the Rosendale School is about $21 or $22 per square foot.

At a meeting Thursday night, the citizens learned that the college buildings were designed by a New Jersey firm and the wood materials, which were termed, beautiful and easily maintained, were supplied by a Seattle, Wash., firm.

William Suefle volunteered to look into the matter further.

In other business, Dr. Charles Cullen reported on the cost of medical examinations for school children pointing out that each child is required by state law to be examined yearly. The cost to the district is two dollars per child. If a child is to be reexamined in order that he may engage in sports, an additional two dollar fee is also charged.

The citizens also suggested that a secretary be employed in place of a school nurse.

because according to law the nurse is not permitted to give any form of medical attention to a child and that her only duty is to keep medical records and inform parents if a child is ill or has had an accident. Edward Gray suggested that the group explore the possibility of finding another source other than real estate for school taxation. It was agreed that the subject would be the concern of future meetings.

M. H. Feison suggested that since the schools are only used 50 per cent of the time that split sessions might be the answer to the "endless demand" for new buildings for class rooms.

Eleven people offered their services as registrars at the request of Dr. Ted T. Grenda, superintendent of schools. All citizens of Marbletown were reminded that they must register at the school before April 30 if they wish to vote at the next school budget hearing, May 7.

Copies of the budget will be mailed to each resident and a special meeting will be called to discuss the budget before May 7.

Persons wishing transportation to the school may call Mrs. Colleen Forestiere.

Volunteers' Spring Salvage Continuing

Is it spring cleaning time around your house?

If it is, you can pitch in, help yourself and at the same time help out those less fortunate than you.

The Volunteers of America began its annual spring salvage drive March 21 and is in the process of collecting clothing, shoes, appliances, housewares, furniture or almost anything still usable.

The Volunteers, which are located at 11 Broadway, will send trucks to the homes of those persons wishing to donate items.

They ask that people dig through dressers, closets, attic, cellar and garage for any article that is only collecting dust.

How about those sweaters and coats you've outgrown? they ask. How about the skirts and dresses that are either too mini or not mini enough? How about the old radio that no one plays, the sporting gear that has been outgrown and the old bicycle with the flat tires?

Rev. Anderson Lives, Works in Two Worlds

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — He lives and works in two worlds, and tries to bring them closer together.

On Sundays he is the Rev. Jesse F. Anderson Jr., a minister in an all-white Episcopal church in an all-white neighborhood.

On weekdays he is "Jessie" to hordes of poor kids in a predominantly Negro neighborhood of Washington, where he runs a storefront mission called the Southeast Enrichment Center.

He is a Negro. His center, shabby outside but bright and spotless inside, will find you a part-time job to keep you in school, lend you books, give you a place to study, provide a game of pool or table tennis, help out if you get pregnant, or get in trouble with the police.

There are likely to be 75 kids there any night.

Father Anderson—the kids call him that too, if he happens to have his clerical collar on—is 30. He looks younger when bicycling to work or, clad in a sweatshirt, tossing a football with the teen-agers. He recently grew a hippie-style beard.

He heads the Neighborhood Advisory Council, directs the summer day camp program, fights for federal and city funds for his Teen Center, Odd Job Center and other causes, and teaches night classes in sociology at Southeastern University.

At the mission he assembles Negroes and whites from the opposite sides of the city for "dialogues" that run through dinner-time and evening, once a week for 15 weeks. Then a new series is begun, bringing together more strangers from his two worlds.

For St. Patrick's Episcopal church, miles away in a setting of handsome homes and shade trees, the Rev. Mr. Anderson is an answer to questions that bother many an all-white congregation: How can we help out? How do we get involved?

St. Patrick's raised $45,000 to launch and support for three years a one-man inner city mission.

It interviewed eight young white and Negro priests in 1966, then invited the Rev. Mr. Anderson to come from Philadelphia to man the mission, and to take his turn regularly in St. Patrick's pulpit.

One or two parishioners walked out the first time he appeared in the chancel. A few families canceled their pledges and left St. Patrick's. Now, says the Rev. Thomas D. Bowers, rector, some have come back, and membership and pledging have risen.

St. Patrick's members work with the Rev. Mr. Anderson, but he relies mainly on cooperation with other neighborhood agencies, including a Catholic mission.

Arrest of Truck Driver May Solve Three Murders

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — amputee, had been arrested a dozen times over a 13-year period on charges ranging from petty larceny to driving without a license. His wife was arrested twice in 1962 on traffic-violation charges and a third time that year on a forgery charge later reduced to disorderly conduct.

Gerald Egan was arrested three times — also in 1962 — and was convicted for disorderly conduct and violating terms of his probation. It originally was reported by police that the slayings were carried out by two persons. The Egan couple had three children. The brothers were not employed at the time of their deaths.

Arrested Saturday was James H. Pickett, 36, of Watertown, who was held on a felony charge of hindering prosecution. Pickett was ordered held at the Jefferson County Jail. No bail was set.

McCluskey, asked by a newsman to elaborate on the charge, said it involved "preventing of the apprehension and arrest of the actual people who committed the murders."

McCluskey also said other arrests were anticipated but added that he could not say "how imminent they are."

The Egan couple were shot twice in the head with .25 and .38 caliber pistols. The brothers' bodies were discovered in Gerald's parked station wagon. Mrs. Egan's body was sprawled near the vehicle.

Police said Peter Egan, an

Faces Murder Charge

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A 28-year-old man was held on a murder charge today in the shooting of his fiancée — a 27-year-old woman whose family was said to have objected to the pending marriage.

Peter W. Clancy, a trainee at a funeral home here, pleaded innocent Sunday before a justice of the peace and was ordered held at the Onondaga County Jail.

Sheriff's deputies said they found the body of Mrs. Jeanette Wood of Syracuse at Clancy's home Saturday night. The couple had planned to be married after Mrs. Wood's divorce.

HEART BOY? — Three-year-old Tim Wages may become Georgia's first heart transplant patient. Tim's mother, Mrs. Betty Wages of Lawrenceville, Ga., said she would willingly agree to a heart transplant on her son if he survives delicate surgery in May. Tim was born with three holes in his heart and has undergone surgery three times. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

U.N. Condemns Israel

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council unanimously condemned Israel Sunday night for last week's attack on Arab guerrilla bases in Jordan. But Israel brushed aside the rebuke and insisted it acted in self defense.

The 15-nation council voted as the guns of Israel and Jordan opened up anew along the Jordan River frontier.

Deplores Incident

The council resolution also deplored "all violent incidents in violation" of the 1967 Arab-Israeli cease-fire. But Arab delegates challenged the U.S. view that those words applied to Arab terrorist raids into Israel.

The resolution further deplored loss of life and property from the attack. It declared that such actions could not be tolerated and that the council "would have to consider further and more effective steps as envisaged" in the U.N. charter to prevent their repetition—a hint at economic and military sanctions. It called on Israel to "desist from mistreating Arabs in occupied territory."

The council acted at its eighth meeting in four days on complaints filed by Jordan and Israel against each other.

The compromise resulted from negotiations between the meetings. Ambassadors Arthur J. Goldberg of the United States and Muhammad H. El-Farra of Jordan nailed it down shortly before the vote.

The agreement to deplore "violent incidents" made possible passage of the resolution.

India Suggests Compromise

Because of this, their resolution was sure of getting only seven of the nine votes necessary for adoption—those of the sponsors plus the Soviet Union, Hungary, Algeria and France.

India then suggested a compromise formula—deplored "all violent incidents in violation of the cease-fire."

Arabs insist that individual Palestine Arabs setting bombs in Israel do not violate the cease-fire because the council's cease-fire resolutions for last June's Arab-Israeli war are addressed not to individuals but to governments.

El-Farra and Goldberg accepted the compromise formula and the pending resolution was revised.

Tekoah said that if the Arabs failed to fulfill the cease-fire, Israel would "maintain its right and duty to take all measures necessary for the security of the territory and population under its responsibility."

Goldberg said he voted for the resolution because it "takes into account all types of violence in violation of the cease-fire—acts of terrorism as well as 'military counteractions.'"

But El-Farra said, "no power has the right to inject something which is not in the draft."

By condemning Israel, he said, "the council has in effect rejected all its allegations and claims against so-called individual incidents of terrorism."

And Soviet Ambassador Jacob

Prison Adds Color

HONOLULU (AP) — State Prison inmates in Hawaii will no longer have to wear the traditional blue denim clothes used in institutions across the country, but will have a choice of colors.

Ray Belnap, state corrections administrator, said the inmates will be able to choose clothing from four colors: palmetto, charcoal, olive and ivory.

"The freedom of choice is extremely important," he said. "It's an innovation. They should have a choice instead of wearing drab blue in drab surroundings."

Belnap said the new clothing is in keeping with the color plan for the prison. He said the depressing gray walls will be converted to soothing pastels as the prison goes into a painting and fix-up program.

They Went on West

HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii acquired 38,155 new residents in 1967 with males outnumbering females by 40 per cent.

The influx was the largest since 1950 when the state began compiling data on the number and nature of new residents.

Half of the new residents were under 24 years old and less than 2 per cent were 60 or older.

Most of the intended residents—33 per cent—were from California, Oregon or Washington.

Grant's Day in Court Not Like His Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In those wonderfully wacky comedies of the 1930s, Cary Grant and Irene Dunne always seemed to end up in a divorce court in the final reel.

Despite the charms of the other man—Randolph Scott or Ralph Bellamy—Irene chose to reconcile with Cary, much to the exasperation of the judge, usually Edgar Buchanan.

Thirty years later, Grant starred in a different divorce story—but he never appeared. One wonders if he doesn't feel that his New York auto accident was a blessing though well disguised. At least he was spared face-to-face confrontation with his wife's accusations.

Dyan Cannon Grant testified that her husband repeatedly used LSD, raged against her, constantly criticized her behavior. The trial was no comedy.

Some Humor

Yet there were moments of humor. A psychiatrist who had briefly examined Grant was asked if he was aware that Grant was "one of the world's greatest actors." The reply: "I know that he is one of the world's most famous actors."

The underscoring of "famous" brought laughter from spectators.

There was also humor in an exchange between the same psychiatrist and Mrs. Grant's attorney, Frank Belcher, who questioned him about Grant's alleged expounding of Freudian symbolism. The use of explicit terms evoked laughter, as did the doctor's comment that he saw nothing unusual in such beliefs—"It merely indicates that the subject has been exposed to a lot of psychiatric talk."

Another laugh came when

Belcher inquired: "Do you think it unusual that when a man's beloved 'Los Angeles Dodgers lose a game he comments, 'It wasn't the players' fault; it was their wives'?"

Aside from such bits of levity, the Grant trial bore no resemblance to the star's courtroom comedies. There were tears plenty as Miss Cannon told of life with Cary. There was bitter wrangling between opposing lawyers over matters from dentist bills to attorney fees.

Type-Cast Lawyers

The lawyers themselves seemed type-cast: Belcher, a folksy fellow full of outrage over Grant's conduct toward his client; three defense attorneys, ever vigilant for the interests of the millionaire star. Judge Robert A. Wenke, a recent appointee of Gov. Ronald Reagan and as young and handsome as a leading man.

Wenke said in his decision that dividing the Grants' young daughter Jennifer between her mother and father "would require the wisdom of Solomon, which the court does not profess to have." But he came up with a complicated formula by which Grant would be allowed to have his daughter visit him 60 days per year.

Such was the ending of the latest marital chapter of the achieved fatherhood at 62. Somehow it isn't the same as the ending of a Cary Grant movie.

Arrest of Truck Driver May Solve Three Murders

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A Dist. Atty. William McCuskey says the arrest of a truck driver over the weekend represents the "first major break" in the gangland-style slayings of three persons with police records on New Year's Eve of 1964.

Peter Egan, 28, of nearby Sacketts Harbor, his wife, Barbara, 24, and Egan's brother, Gerald, 19, were found shot to death at a rest area along Interstate Route 81 about two miles north of here.

State Police indicated at the time that the deaths may have been related to trafficking in narcotics.

Arrested Saturday was James H. Pickett, 36, of Watertown, who was held on a felony charge of hindering prosecution.

Pickett was ordered held at the Jefferson County Jail. No bail was set.

McCuskey, asked by a newsman to elaborate on the charge, said it involved "preventing of the apprehension and arrest of the actual people who committed the murders."

McCuskey also said other arrests were anticipated but added that he could not say "how imminent they are."

The Egan's all were shot twice in the head with .25 and .38 caliber pistols. The brothers' bodies were discovered in Gerald's parked station wagon. Mrs. Egan's body was sprawled near the vehicle.

Police said Peter Egan, an amputee, had been arrested a dozen times over a 13-year period on charges ranging from petty larceny to driving without a license. His wife was arrested twice in 1962 on traffic-violation charges and a third time that year on a forgery charge later reduced to disorderly conduct.

Gerald Egan was arrested three times — also in 1962 — and was convicted for disorderly conduct and violating terms of his probation.

It originally was reported by police that the slayings were carried out by two persons.

The Egan couple had three children. The brothers were not employed at the time of their deaths.

Faces Murder Charge

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A 28-year-old man was held on a murder charge today in the shooting of his fiancée — a 27-year-old woman whose family was said to have objected to the pending marriage.

Peter W. Clancy, a trainee at a funeral home here, pleaded innocent Sunday before a justice of the peace and was ordered held at the Onondaga County Jail.

Sheriff's deputies said they found the body of Mrs. Jeanette Wood of Syracuse at Clancy's home Saturday night. The couple had planned to be married after Mrs. Wood's divorce.

HEART BOY? — Three-year-old Tim Wages may become Georgia's first heart transplant patient. Tim's mother, Mrs. Betty Wages of Lawrenceville, Ga., said she would willingly agree to a heart transplant on her son if he survives delicate surgery in May. Tim was born with three holes in his heart and has undergone surgery three times. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

U.N. Condemns Israel

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council unanimously condemned Israel Sunday night for last week's attack on Arab guerrilla bases in Jordan. But Israel brushed aside the rebuke and insisted it acted in self defense.

The 15-nation council voted as the guns of Israel and Jordan opened up anew along the Jordan River frontier.

Deplores Incident
The council resolution also deplored "all violent incidents in violation of the 1967 Arab-Israeli cease-fire. But Arab delegates challenged the U.S. view that those words applied to Arab terrorist raids into Israel."

The resolution further deplored loss of life and property from the attack. It declared that such actions could not be tolerated and that the council "would have to consider further and more effective steps as envisaged in the U.N. charter to prevent their repetition—a hint at economic and military sanctions. It called on Israel to "desist from mistreating Arabs in occupied territory."

The council acted at its eighth meeting in four days on complaints filed by Jordan and Israel against each other.

The compromise resulted from negotiations between the meetings. Ambassadors Arthur J. Goldberg of the United States and Muhammad H. El-Farra of Jordan nailed it down shortly before the vote.

The agreement to deplore "violent incidents" made possible passage of the resolution.

India Suggests Compromise
Because of this, their resolution was sure of getting only seven of the nine votes necessary for adoption—those of the sponsors plus the Soviet Union, Hungary, Algeria and France.

India then suggested a compromise formula—deplored "all violent incidents in violation of the cease-fire."

Arabs insist that individual Palestine Arabs setting bombs in Israel do not violate the cease-fire because the council's cease-fire resolutions for last June's Arab-Israeli war are addressed not to individuals but to governments.

El-Farra and Goldberg accepted the compromise formula and the pending resolution was revised.

Tekoah said that if the Arabs failed to fulfill the cease-fire, Israel would "maintain its right and duty to take all measures necessary for the security of the territory and population under its responsibility."

Goldberg said he voted for the resolution because it "takes into account all types of violence in violation of the cease-fire—acts of terrorism as well as military counteractions."

But El-Farra said, "no power has the right to inject something which is not in the draft."

By condemning Israel, he said, "the council has in effect rejected all its allegations and claims against so-called individual incidents of terrorism."

And Soviet Ambassador Jacob

Malik said the council "can't force the Arab people who are under the heels of the occupier to bow their heads."

Another laugh came when

Grant's Day in Court Not Like His Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In those wonderfully wacky comedies of the 1930s, Cary Grant and Irene Dunne always seemed to end up in a divorce court in the final reel.

Despite the charms of the other man—Randolph Scott or Ralph Bellamy—Irene chose to reconcile with Cary, much to the exasperation of the judge, usually Edgar Buchanan.

Thirty years later, Grant starred in a different divorce story—but he never appeared. One wonders if he doesn't feel that his New York auto accident was a blessing though well disguised. At least he was spared face-to-face confrontation with his wife's accusations.

Dyan Cannon Grant testified that her husband repeatedly used LSD, raged against her, constantly criticized her behavior. The trial was no comedy.

Some Humor
Yet there were moments of humor. A psychiatrist who had briefly examined Grant was asked if he was aware that Grant was "one of the world's greatest actors." The reply: "I know that he is one of the world's most famous actors."

The underscoring of "famous" brought laughter from spectators.

There was also humor in an exchange between the same psychiatrist and Mrs. Grant's attorney, Frank Belcher, who questioned him about Grant's alleged expounding of Freudian symbolism. The use of explicit terms evoked laughter, as did the doctor's comment that he saw nothing unusual in such beliefs—"It merely indicates that the subject has been exposed to a lot of psychiatric talk."

Another laugh came when

Belcher inquired: "Do you think it unusual that when a man's beloved Los Angeles Dodgers lose a game he comments, 'It wasn't the players' fault; it was their wives'?"

Aside from such bits of levity, the Grant trial bore no resemblance to the star's courtroom comedies. There were tears as Mrs. Cannon told of life with Cary. There was bitter wrangling between opposing lawyers over matters from dentist bills to attorney fees.

Type-Cast Lawyers
The lawyers themselves seemed type-cast; Belcher, a folksy fellow full of outrage over Grant's conduct toward his client; three defense attorneys, ever vigilant for the interests of the millionaire star; Judge Robert A. Wenke, a recent appointee of Gov. Ronald Reagan and as young and handsome as a leading man.

Wenke said in his decision that dividing the Grants' young daughter Jennifer between her mother and father "would require the wisdom of Solomon, which the court does not profess to have." But he came up with a complicated formula by which Grant would be allowed to have his daughter visit him 60 days per year.

Such was the ending of the latest marital chapter of the achieved fatherhood at 62. Somehow it isn't the same as the ending of a Cary Grant movie.

Dem Hopefuls Seeking California's 174 Votes

BY BILL BOYARSKY
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — You'll need a political road map and an experienced guide to find your way through the tangled jungle of tenuous friendships and bitter feuds among Johnson, Kennedy and McCarthy forces in California's Democratic presidential primary.

The main landmarks are easy to see. They are the national convention delegations backing the President, and two rivals battling for the anti-administration vote—Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

But behind each of the three are supporters who have been at each others' throats for years. And despite the good intentions of campaign leaders, warfare could break out any day.

The three are competing in the June 4 primary for 174 votes in the national convention and the prestige and impetus that comes from winning the last major primary before party leaders convene in Chicago Aug. 26.

All are convinced the stakes are high. They are prepared to spend millions to win the presidential primary.

"If the President loses the California primary, I don't know how the Democratic convention could, in good conscience, renominate him," said Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, the state's most influential Democrat, who heads the Kennedy campaign.

"I think it would be very difficult" for Kennedy to be nominated without winning in California, he added.

Many party leaders, however, fear that the feuding of past years will fracture the party again—and deliver the state to the Republicans in November no matter which Democrat wins the primary in June. Even today, Kennedy forces are quietly recruiting defectors from the McCarthy and Johnson slates.

"I am very worried," said Assembly Majority Leader George N. Zenovich of Fresno, a member of the delegation supporting Johnson and his Vietnam policy. Zenovich fears that Democratic fighting could cost the party control of the state legislature.

Unruh, who has been in fights before, promises political peace.

"I can assure you that we are not going to wage an anti-McCarthy campaign," he said. "Neither are we going to wage a name calling campaign."

But party discipline is weak in California and Democrats are still angrily blaming each other for Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's victory in 1966.

"There is no Democratic party in California," Unruh once said. He referred to the fact that election laws and political tradition have resulted in a weak state party organization.

There is no political boss here. Politicians build their organizations on shifting personal loyalties. As a result, Democrats, now without a single dyamic leader, are divided into factions and held together by flimsy alliances that are broken easily.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller, citing findings of a survey he had ordered last December, says "additional efforts are required" to train members of minority groups for better jobs in the state government.

The survey was prompted by complaints from Negro and Puerto Rican organizations that the state hired too few persons from minority groups.

Its contents were made public Friday.

The study showed that most Negroes employed by the state hold service jobs, principally in the Mental Hygiene Department. About 20 per cent of all Negroes working for the state are paid less than $4,768, it said, and only 2.1 per cent of the Negroes are administrators or professional employees receiving more than $17,957.

The report, covering 124,292 workers in 54 departments, also noted that Negroes make up 12.4 per cent of the state's work force and 8.4 per cent of the state's population.

Of all state workers, 26.6 per cent hold service jobs. Comparatively, Puerto Ricans account for 56.1 per cent of service workers, and 60.3 per cent of Negro employees are service workers.

The Mental Hygiene Department employs 38.2 per cent of all state workers, and 65.4 per cent of Negro and 76.3 per cent of Puerto Rican state employees are in the department.

The report was prepared by C. Julian Parrish of the Equal Opportunity branch of the Civil Service Department.

Rockefeller said the survey should be conducted annually and called for expanded in-service training to help members of minority groups to advance more rapidly.

Auxiliary Police
The Kingston-Ulster CD Auxiliary Police will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Moose Hall, 82 Prince Street.

Several important matters will be discussed and a full attendance of members is requested.

In 1634, colonists led by Lord Baltimore reached Maryland. In 1776, the first Congressional Medal was awarded to George Washington for his leadership in the capture of Boston.

In 1865, Confederate forces captured Ft. Stedman, Va. In 1883, revolution broke out in Haiti.

In 1900, the Socialist party of the United States was organized at Indianapolis.

In 1947, an explosion in a mine in Centralia, Ill. left 111 miners dead.

Ten years ago — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld was in Moscow discussing possible disarmament talks with Soviet leaders.

Five years ago — The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, Adlai E. Stevenson, said in Paris that U.S. determination to defend Europe cannot be questioned.

One year ago — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned from a European tour and suggested that President Johnson visit Europe to bolster what Nixon called a sagging tradition have resulted in a

Liddy: GOP Primary Now A Certainty

According to G. Gordon Liddy, seeking the Republican nomination for the 28th district congressional seat now held by Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, "The dye is cast—there will be a congressional primary."

The 37-year-old assistant district attorney for Dutchess County declared that Hamilton Fish Jr.'s endorsement by the five-county Republican congressional and executive committees on March 21 demonstrated "that my opponent was selected without once receiving an invitation to appear before any of the executive committees."

Liddy said, "many persons feel that (Fish) is being forced down their throats by a small, select group of machine politicians. These people are simply tired of having their candidates picked for them by these same men year after year."

"I am committed to offer them a choice," said the former FBI agent.

"The machine made up its mind months ago. The good Lord wouldn't have stood a chance for consideration before these men."

Liddy stated that he was confident of winning a primary. "The people are behind me. I can't lose with their support."

Planting Forecasts
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Increased plantings of corn, barley, dry beans and soybeans are planned by farmers in New York State this year, but decreased acreages of oats, potatoes and hay are forecast.

The prospective acreages of major crops for 1968 were reported Saturday by the New York Crop Reporting Service.

The figures:
Corn, 769,000; oats, 471,000; barley, 14,000; potatoes, Long Island, 36,500; potatoes, upstate, 37,500; beans, 96,000; soybeans, 5,000; hay, 2,744,000.

Democrats Still Outnumber Republicans

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Democrats still outnumber Republicans by a wide margin among enrolled voters in New York State, although GOP enrollment increased in 1967 and the Democratic total declined.

The Democrats' edge last year was 658,555, Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo announced Sunday.

Republicans gained 79,996 enrolled voters for a total of 2,874,316. Democrats lost 83,904, for a total of 3,532,871.

The sharpest percentage gain was recorded by the Conservative party, which grew from 54,027 in 1966 to 71,477. Liberal party enrollment dropped by 4,704, to a total of 82,889.

The Democrats retained their hold on New York City, with an enrollment of 2,090,938 against 592,075 Republicans.

In the rest of the state, the GOP held a two-to-one lead — 2,282,241 to the Democrats' 1,441,933.

Conservative enrollment was almost evenly divided — 33,747 in New York City and 37,730 outside the city.

Liberals enrolled 56,740 in New York City and 26,149 in the rest of the state.

Only voters enrolled in a recognized political party may vote in the primary election June 18, when nominees for statewide office will be determined.

"If the President loses the California primary, I don't know how the Democratic convention could, in good conscience, renominate him," said Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, the state's most influential Democrat, who heads the Kennedy campaign.

"I think it would be very difficult" for Kennedy to be nominated without winning in California, he added.

Many party leaders, however, fear that the feuding of past years will fracture the party again—and deliver the state to the Republicans in November no matter which Democrat wins the primary in June. Even today, Kennedy forces are quietly recruiting defectors from the McCarthy and Johnson Slates.

"I am very worried," said Assembly Majority Leader George N. Zenovich of Fresno, a member of the delegation supporting Johnson and his Vietnam policy. Zenovich fears that Democratic fighting could cost the party control of the state legislature.

Unruh, who has been in fights before, promises political peace. "I can assure you that we are not going to wage an anti-McCarthy campaign," he said.

"Neither are we going to wage a name calling campaign."

But party discipline is weak in California and Democrats are still angrily blaming each other for Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan's victory in 1966.

"There is no Democratic party in California," Unruh once said. He referred to the fact that election laws and political tradition have resulted in a weak state party organization. There is no political boss here. Politicians build their organizations on shifting personal loyalties. As a result, Democrats, now without a single dynamic leader, are divided into factions and held together by flimsy alliances that are broken easily.

Rocky Sees Training as Key To Minority Gains in State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller, citing findings of a survey he had ordered last December, says "additional efforts are required" to train members of minority groups for better jobs in the state government.

The survey was prompted by complaints from Negro and Puerto Rican organizations that the state hired too few persons from minority groups.

Its contents were made public Friday.

The study showed that most Negroes employed by the state hold service jobs, principally in the Mental Hygiene Department. About 20 per cent of all Negroes working for the state are paid less than $4,768, it said, and only 2.1 per cent of the Negroes are administrators or professional employees receiving more than $17,957.

The report, covering 124,292 workers in 54 departments, also noted that Negroes make up 12.4 per cent of the state's work force and 8.4 per cent of the state's population.

Of all state workers, 26.6 per cent hold service jobs. Comparatively, Puerto Ricans account for 56.1 per cent of service workers, and 60.3 per cent of Negro employees are service workers.

The Mental Hygiene Department employs 38.2 per cent of all state workers, and 65.4 per cent of Negro and 76.3 per cent of Puerto Rican state employees are in the department.

The report was prepared by C. Julian Parrish of the Equal Opportunity branch of the Civil Service Department.

Rockefeller said the survey should be conducted annually and called for expanded in-service training to help members of minority groups to advance more rapidly.

Liddy: GOP Primary Now A Certainty

According to G. Gordon Liddy, seeking the Republican nomination for the 28th district congressional seat now held by Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick, "The dye is cast—there will be a congressional primary."

The 37-year-old assistant district attorney for Dutchess County declared that Hamilton Fish Jr.'s endorsement by the five-county Republican congressional and executive committees on March 21 demonstrated "that my opponent was selected without once receiving an invitation to appear before any of the executive committees."

Liddy said, "Many persons feel that (Fish) is being forced down their throats by a small, select group of machine politicians. These people are simply tired of having their candidates picked for them by these same men year after year."

"I am committed to offer them a choice," said the former FBI agent.

"The machine made up its mind months ago. The good Lord wouldn't have stood a chance for consideration before these men."

Liddy stated that he was confident of winning a primary. "The people are behind me. I can't lose with their support."

Democrats Still Outnumber Republicans

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Democrats still outnumber Republicans by a wide margin among enrolled voters in New York State, although GOP enrollment increased in 1967 and the Democratic total declined.

The Democrats' edge last year was 658,555. Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo announced Sunday.

Republicans gained 79,996 enrolled voters for a total of 2,874,316. Democrats lost 83,904 for a total of 3,532,871.

The sharpest percentage gain was recorded by the Conservative party, which grew from 54,141 in 1966 to 71,477. Liberal party enrollment dropped by 4,704, to a total of 82,889.

The Democrats retained their hold on New York City, with an enrollment of 2,090,938 against 592,075 Republicans.

In the rest of the state, the GOP held a two-to-one lead — 2,282,241 to the Democrats' 1,441,933.

Conservative enrollment was almost evenly divided — 33,747 in New York City and 37,730 outside the city.

Liberals enrolled 56,740 in New York City and 26,149 in the rest of the state.

ROAST RACK OF LAMB

ROAST LEG OF LAMB

LAMB FOR EASTER

Roast leg of lamb is a delicacy served on festival occasions by people of many religious traditions. Accompaniments are selected to suit the season. Hence, gaily decorated hard-cooked eggs are part of the Easter finery for a holiday dinner. Fruits and spices are often served with lamb. Sometimes several slits are cut into the surface of the meat before roasting and a clove of garlic tucked into each slit. The garlic is removed before the lamb is carved for serving.

If you are expecting only two or three guests for Easter a delicate rack of rib roast of lamb is perfect. The rack is usually cut into single or double rib chops in the market and so you may have to order the roast in advance. Plan to serve two to three ribs per person. The lamb leg roast is suitable for a few or many. The whole leg of lamb will weigh from 6 to 8 pounds. Nowadays it is often cut in half so that small families may enjoy this flavorful roast. Plan on two servings per pound but remember that lamb fanciers may want 2 servings each.

meringue onto pears. Bake in a moderate oven (350 F) 15 to 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Served hot with roast leg of lamb. Garnish with watercress.

The day after Easter, you may find you have leftover lamb. If yours was a Swift's Premium Lamb, you may try this kitchen-tested recipe:

Spicy Lamb Pilaf

3 cups cooked, cubed lamb 1 cup chopped green pepper
1 stock (1/2 cup margarine) 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 cup crushed fine 1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper noodles 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped onion 2 cups hot beef bouillon
4 1/2 ounce can mushroom slices
1 cup rice

Melt 3 tablespoons margarine in large skillet. Brown noodles. Add onion and green pepper. Saute until the onion is transparent. Combine seasonings. Add seasonings, bouillon, mushrooms and liquid, rice and lamb cubes. Stir to blend mixture. Cover tightly. Simmer 25 to 30 minutes until rice is tender and liquid absorbed. Add remaining margarine and cover until the margarine is melted. Stir well. Serve hot with Fresh Vegetable Chutney.

Fresh Vegetable Chutney: Combine 1 cup dairy sour cream and 1 cup yoghurt. Cut a large unpared cucumber lengthwise into 8 wedges, then cut into 1/2-inch chunks. Cut a tomato into 1-inch chunks. Prepare 1 cup diagonally-sliced celery and 1/4 cup each chopped onion and chives. Fold vegetables into sour cream and yoghurt mixture. Chill. Excellent served with Lamb Pilaf.

If your family follows the "traditional ham" custom for your Easter celebration, you might try a peach-chutney garnish and reap compliments for your culinary artistry.

Ham With Peach-Chutney Garnish

one fully cooked ham 1 tablespoon cornstarch 1 pound, 13 ounce can 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves cling-peach halves 1 teaspoon lemon juice
1/4 cup chopped chutney

Place unwrapped ham on a rack in an open pan. Place in slow oven (325 F) to heat. Allow about 2 1/2 hours for an 8 pound ham. Drain peaches, reserving liquid. Mix cornstarch and cloves in saucepan. Gradually add peach syrup to cornstarch mixture. Cook and stir over medium heat until clear and thick, 7 to 10 minutes. Mix in lemon juice and chutney. Spread about a cup of the glaze over ham during the last 15 minutes of the heating time. Garnish the ham platter with broiled chutney-filled peach halves.

Broiled Peach Half Garnish: Place drained peaches in a shallow pan. Fill each peach half with 1 tablespoon of peach chutney glaze mixture. Brush with melted margarine or butter. Place on broiler rack and broil until bubbly, approximately 5 minutes. Serve hot with ham.

Roast Rack of Lamb With Honey-Lamb Glaze

1 teaspoon salt About 2 teaspoons grated
1/4 cup honey lime rind
3-4 pounds Lamb Rack Juice of 2 limes
Fresh mint leaves

Rub lamb roast with salt. Place roast rib side down in an open pan. Do not add water or cover. Roast in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) from 3 1/4 to 3 3/4 hours for medium well-done roast. While the roast cooks, prepare the glaze. Add lime rind and juice to honey. Blend well. Heat in saucepan. Spoon honey-lime mixture over surface of roasted lamb rack to glaze during the last 30 minutes of the cooking time. Serve remaining glaze as a hot sauce with roast lamb. Garnish with fresh mint leaves and lime twists.

Roast Leg of Lamb With Mint Meringue Pears

Lamb Leg 2 egg whites
1 pound, 13 ounce can 1/4 teaspoon salt pear halves 1/4 cup mint jelly
8 drops food coloring

Place lamb leg roast on rack in open roasting pan. Place in slow oven (325F). Allow 3 hours for a medium-done roast and 4 hours for an 8 pound roast. To serve well done, roast 1/2 hour longer.

To Make Mint Meringue Pears: Drain syrup from canned pears. Add food coloring to syrup and blend well. Add pear halves to syrup and let stand for 3 to 4 hours, until pears turn a light green color. Drain well. Beat egg whites and salt until stiff. Slowly add jelly and continue beating until meringue stands in stiff peaks. Spoon fluffy

Table-Center Cookery With Meat Fondue

Americans are a food-curious lot. We are anxious to try unfamiliar foods and quick to adapt and adjust dishes from other countries to suit our ways. Once upon a time pizza pie was a regional dish, most popular in southern Italy, according to Martha Logan of Swift's. But many Americans heard about pizza pie from GI's returning from service in Italy during World War II and since then, pizza has become so American that folks back in Italy might not recognize it. There are big and little pizzas with many flavor combinations. The mixtures may go on a yeast dough base, refrigerator biscuits, English muffins or crackers. Pizza may be made from scratch or with a mix in the home kitchen, purchased already prepared from the frozen food case of the food market, or ordered from a commercial kitchen to be delivered hot for immediate service.

Gaining popularity for some of the same reasons is meat fondue. The forerunner from France was Beef Fondue Bourguignonne. In Germany, not only beef but cured ham and lamb are cooked in the same way. In America, we have simplified the name to fondue.

Meat fondue is easy to describe and easy to prepare. Tender cuts of meat speared on sharp-tined forks are placed in bubbly hot fat to cook. One or many sauces that complement the meat are used as dips for the meat. Meat fondue should not be confused with cheese fondue. Cheese fondue is a mixture of melted cheese and wine into which one dips crusty chunks of French or Italian bread.

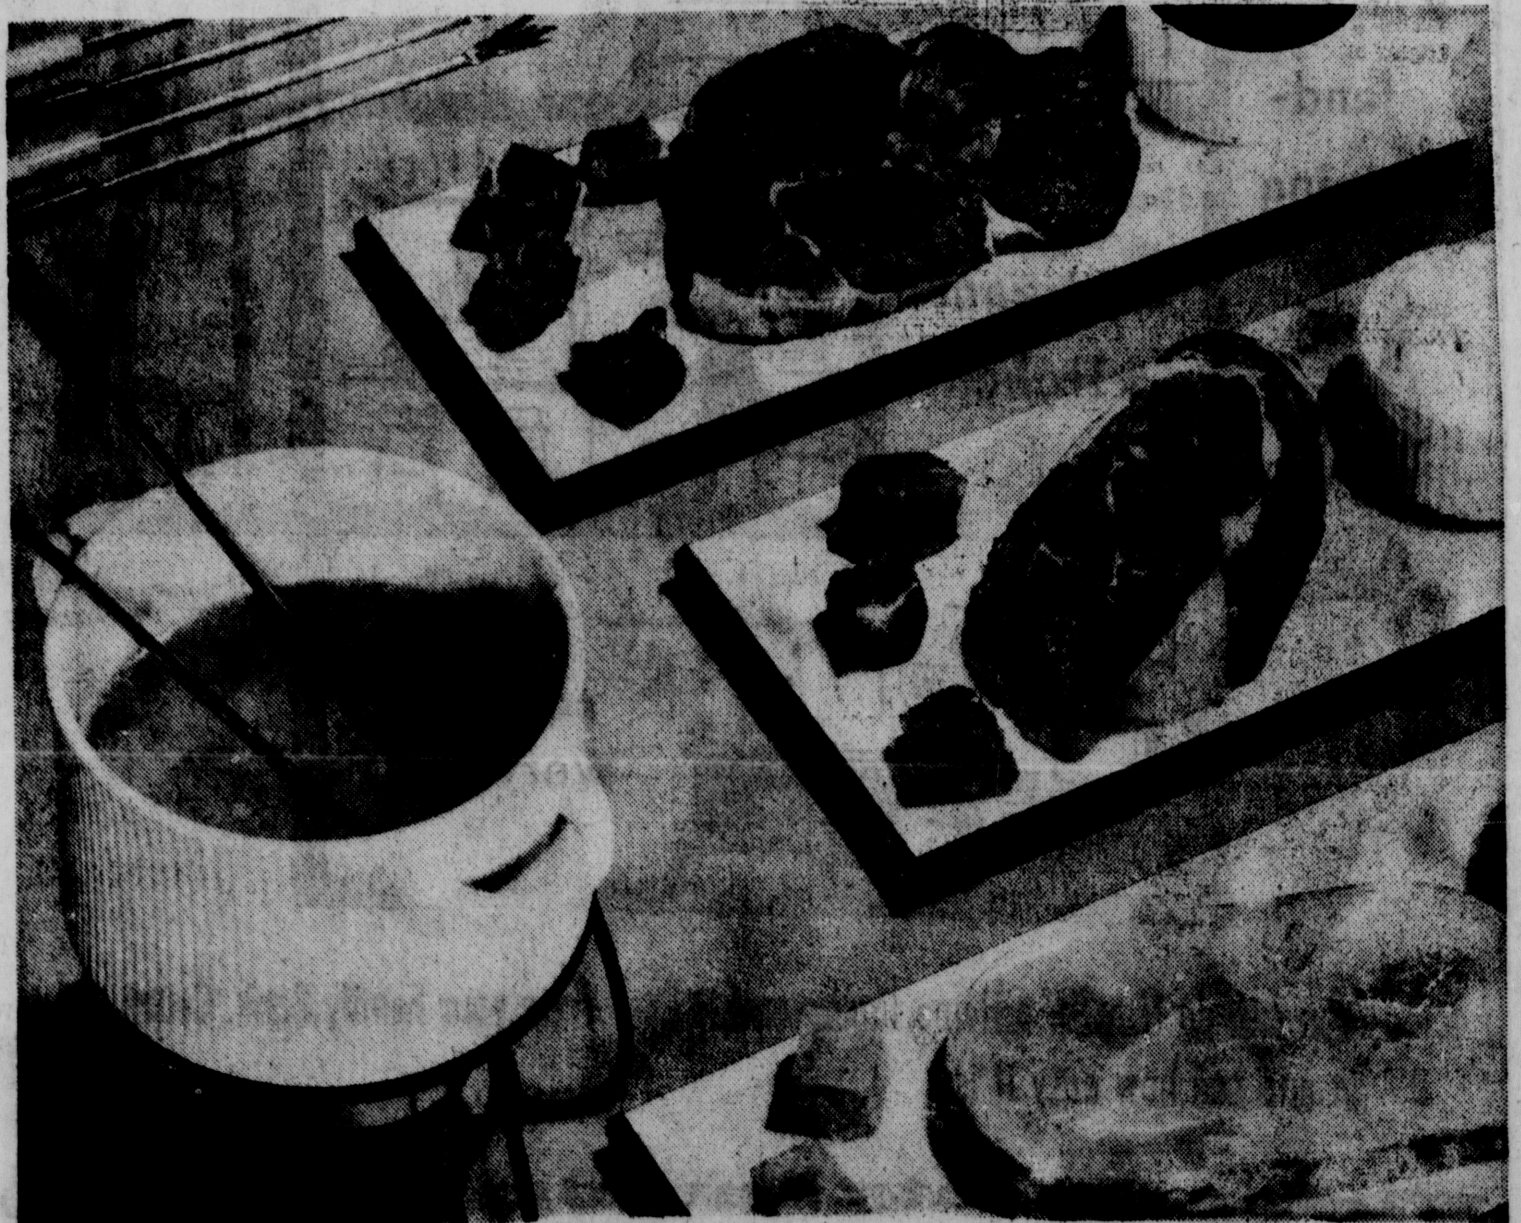

The fat in the fondue pot should be a high quality oil. Adding butter to the oil adds richness to the flavor. It is important to heat the butter and oil together in a saucepan in the kitchen and then pour it into the fondue pot, leaving any solids in the saucepan.

One or more sauces may be served as dips for the cooked meat. To complete the menu, serve a casserole of rice pilaf or barley, tossed green salad, and hot buttered bread.

For Creamy Dill and Horseradish Sauce, combine 1 cup dairy sour cream, 2 teaspoons horseradish, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 12 to 15 drops dill weed. Chill it and then serve with lamb, ham or beef fondue.

For Curry Chutney Sauce, combine 1 cup chopped chutney, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/4 cup sugar and 1/2 teaspoon curry powder. Blend 1/2 cup water and 4 teaspoons cornstarch and add to the chutney. Simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve with lamb or ham fondue.

Mustard Cream Sauce may be made by whipping 1/2 cup of whipping cream and folding into it the following: 1/4 teaspoon sugar, 1/4 teaspoon lemon juice and 1 tablespoon prepared mustard. This sauce is especially good with ham.

Mrs. Charles Madigan of River Road, Valley Falls, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Mary Ellen to David Schroder of 12 Massachusetts Avenue, Colonie. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schroder, 140 Wrentham Street, Kingston.

Miss Madigan is a graduate of Hoosic Valley Central School and State University of New York at Albany. She is employed at Cambridge Central School as a high school teacher.

Schroder is a graduate of Kingston High School and Westchester College and is a designer for Allstates Design and Development Company, Loudenville.

The wedding will take place April 27, 1968.

Auxiliary Sets Awards Dinner For April 8

The Ellenville Community Hospital Auxiliary will honor its volunteers at a buffet dinner and awards program scheduled for Monday, April 8, at 7 p.m. The event is open, without charge, to all hospital auxiliary members and all those who wish to join, according to Mrs. Alfred Feldshuh, president of the hospital service organization.

Awards will be presented to those who have accumulated 100 hours, 500 hours, and 1,000 hours of service.

The buffet will be under the supervision of Mrs. Bernard

Each year more and more families are spending their longer vacations traveling. The actual transportation cost for five driving in a car is no more than for one. Consequently, more and more children are enjoying the educational pleasure of visiting far-away places.

Anticipation of such a break in the regular household routine helps mom through the hectic days of careful planning on which much of her own pleasure is going to depend. Tips other travelers have learned from experience can be of untold help in making these weeks away from home a long-remembered pleasure for all the family. These have been selected from the many appearing in POLLY'S HOME MAKING POINTERS, now issued in paperback by Berkley Publishing Co.

"While traveling last summer we stopped at a roadside table for our picnic lunch. A family at a nearby table was using a narrow contour sheet instead of a tablecloth. The wind was blowing but the corners of their cloth didn't need weights or flap up in their food."

"When a family is going on a vacation trip by car, pack suitcases for the children in layers, a complete change of clothing in each layer. I allow two days' wear for a pair of blue jeans. The clean clothes are never messed up as everything for one change is together. Put all soiled clothing in another suitcase or a laundry bag."

Italian Menswear Fashions Tend Toward Buccaneer Style

ROME (AP) — A bloodless revolution has just taken place in Rome. Overnight, male attire for evening has undergone a radical change.

The boiled shirt and the bow tie have been dealt a knockout blow by top Italian menswear stylists and Rome's smart set and celebrities have accepted the new regime of roll necks and Guru jackets with unbridled enthusiasm.

In fact any male guest showing up at a Rome party wearing a traditional tux and necktie these days feels like a rank outsider.

The men are stealing the scene in their new plumage and the women couldn't be more pleased. After all, the girls were tired of escorts who always looked like a cross between waiters and penguins.

The new finery that the Italian males are parading in is pretty fancy, but there's nothing effeminate about it. It's dandified yes, but in the buccaneering style of the blades of the 19th century.

Mrs. America Contest Begins

Mrs. America of 1969 — who will be chosen at the paget's national finals in the Minnesota Twin Cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul next August 14 through 23 — can figure on being the most traveled winner in the 30-year history of the popular competition.

And the honor can easily befall a woman from this state. Pageant officials, in announcing that entries are still being accepted, also disclosed that the most imposing prize list that will accrue to the nation's now No. 1 homemaker since the contest's inception will include a bonanza of exciting travel.

First, there's the trip to the national finals for each of the state and District of Columbia winners, accompanied by her husband. The lady who then emerges from the deciding series of tests as Mrs. America will have awaiting her a three-week tour of South America on the Chilean national airline, Lan; more than 50 personal appearances in various cities and the newest announced award—a week's vacation with her husband at the fabulous Water Isle Colony Club on Water Island in St. Thomas Harbor, U. S. Virgin Islands.

Among other prizes, she also will receive $4,000 in cash and a $500 wardrobe.

Any married woman in this state between the ages of 21 and 55 is eligible to enter at no cost. A postcard to Mrs. America Pageant, 333 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., 60601, will bring full information immediately.

Furs for Men

A fur coat with matching cap like those worn by early motorists hangs on a coat stand. "It's the only one left," says Palazzi. "Fur coats are also part of the menswear fashion revolution. I've sold them in leopard, wolfskin and opossum and I'm making even more for next winter."

A conservatively dressed youth slips silently through the door. "See that boy," says Palazzi. "He's a cabinet minister's son and he's just started coming here in secret."

The buffet will be under the supervision of Mrs. Bernard Wenig, chairman of the hospitality committee. Mrs. Donald Downs is auxiliary program chairman.

Mrs. Feldshuh urged auxiliaries to reserve the date and attend the program. "We have every right to be proud of the work our volunteers are doing. They have earned not only the awards which recognize their service to the community through the hospital, but also a great deal of respect. I hope that we will have a large turnout as a tribute to our volunteers, and that others will follow their example."

The starched white evening shirt and the black butterfly necktie of yesterday never got around to any variations. They just went on looking the same for years. But no sooner did the new roll necks appear in Rome than fashion-conscious males got busy dreaming up their own interpretations.

The makers of most of these new shirts can be traced back to a narrow, near-dingy street right in the center of Rome. The little street is called Via Borgognona, and it is packed from end to end with unobtrusive-looking boutiques.

At No. 7, the name Carlo Palazzi, is hacked in the stone slab over the door. The name belongs to a tall Italian who is as blond and blue-eyed as a Dane although he was born in the central Italian town of Urbino and has lived in Rome for the past 20 years.

Palazzi greets you at a counter strewn with shirts—turtlenecks in paisley patterned fine wool, a Byronic beauty with a big floppy bow knotted under the high arched collar, an "in tern" style in soft white silk side-buttoned in pearl gray.

Over on one side, rolls of expensive Swiss cottons, hemstitched and hand-embroidered, wait to catch some passing male's fancy.

The Swing Is to the Stripe

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) —

Stripes are big news in the world of fashion and the young folks love them, too. The kids are all for a more spirited look — something with dash, clash and lots of practicality.

The colorful striped look shows up all over. Big, bold or neat and tidy it's the most exciting fashion scoop this spring.

Sharp bands of color are excitingly blended with subdued colors in girls' fashions for this season. And the stripes are vibrant and vivid.

Stepped-up stripes put super-dash into the boys' world, too. There's one stripe job on cotton duck that's sensational. Brightly colored, varied-sized stripes look sleek and snappy on a seaworthy set of trunks with matching windbreaker. And any old salt will tell you how important it is to look shipshape while building a sand castle.

There are stripes on jackets, pants, walk shorts and practically anything pertaining to boyswear.

Boys and girls together are enjoying the stripe swing. It's newsy, natty and handsome.

Either wild and woolly in shocking color combinations or soft, smooth and melting, there's no doubt about it, spring '68 is definitely a striped season.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My family loves those little Vienna sausages that I buy in the aluminum zip-top cans. The cans I buy are coated on the inside and are easy to clean and don't turn dark.

They hold exactly three-fourths of a cup and are real handy for measuring sugar, rice, flour and other dry products.

So I keep one in each of these canisters now and find it great for measuring and pouring.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I have a great way to clean bathroom tile. I just take my father's shaving cream and squirt it on the tile, then wipe it up with a damp cloth.

But be sure to put the shaving cream back so you don't get caught.

REMAINS IMPORTANT

Women's fashions change from year to year and it would be ridiculous to try to make rules about styles. Mini-skirts may have their turn now—tomorrow the ankle-length skirt may be reincarnated from the first part of the century. But through all the changes, certain accepted rules survive because adherence to them indicates to all who notice that the wearer is appropriately dressed.

If you answer eight or more of the following questions correctly, you will be considered well-dressed in any circumstances. Six to eight correct answers indicate a fair knowledge of dress, but below six, you'll never be one of the "ten best dressed women."

1. Is it still considered incorrect to wear a fur stole before 5 P.M.? Yes—No.
2. Women keep on the hats they wear to a church wedding when they arrive at the reception? Yes—No.
3. May a mink stole be worn with a cocktail suit? Yes—No.
4. Must one wear long gloves with an evening gown? Yes—No.
5. Must pins or corsages always be placed on the left shoulder? Yes—No.
6. Does a lady remove her glove to shake hands? Yes—No.
7. May one wear gold jewelry in the evening? Yes—No.
8. May a hostess wear "hostess slacks" at an informal party even though her guests do not? Yes—No.
9. Is it incorrect to wear patent leather shoes in the winter? Yes—No.
10. May a guest at a wedding wear black? Yes—No.

Here are the correct answers:
1. No. It is permissible to wear a stole to any "dressy" affair—a tea, a luncheon, the theater.
2. Yes, unless they feel uncomfortable in a hat, in which case they may remove it.
3. Yes, although if it is a bulky wool suit it will look "heavy."
4. No. They look lovely with a sleeveless gown but it is not required.
5. No. They may be placed wherever they look best.
6. No. In fact, in receiving lines, she should definitely keep them on.
7. Yes. With a long evening gown, gems are most appropriate, but gold is perfectly acceptable with cocktail and dinner dresses.
8. Yes. She may also suggest that her guests wear evening slacks.
9. No. I am delighted that it has been accepted as stylish wear this winter.
10. No. Wedding guests should choose gay and pretty colors—befitting the occasion—rather try for a "chic" effect.

Harper-Stoutenburg Nuptials Announced

Miss Marlene Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Harper, 62 Hurley Avenue, Kingston, was married Saturday, Mar. 8, to Lauren L. Stoutenburg Jr., son of Lauren L. Stoutenburg Sr. of RR 2, Box 14B, Kingston, at Old Dutch Church, this city.

The Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore an A-line empire style dress of bridal satin fashioned with lace applique roses in triangles on the skirt and featured a detachable train. The bell sleeves and the bodice were covered with matching lace roses. Her headpiece was a waist-length veil fastened by three satin roses. Throughout the veil was scattered roses matching the lace on the dress. The dress and headpiece was designed and made by the bride's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Messamore of Knox, Tenn. The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations with a center corsage of white roses.

Kathleen Harper was maid of honor for her sister. She wore an A-line empire dress of two-tone blue. The skirt was velvet and the bodice was lace over satin. A blue satin pillbox accented with a satin rose holding a veil, served as her headpiece. She carried a blue tinted carnation bouquet.

Attendants were Jeanette Stoutenburg, sister of the bridegroom, and Sharon Bonestell. They wore green and yellow dresses fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant.

Headpieces were yellow pillboxes and they carried bouquets of yellow tinted carnations. The three attendants made their dresses and headpieces. The bride is employed by the New York Telephone Company. Her husband is an apprentice electrician employed by Glenville, Tenn. The bride carried non Electric.

The Swing Is to the Stripe

By HELEN HENNESSY

NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) —

Stripes are big news in the world of fashion and the young folks love them, too. The kids are all for a more spirited look — something with dash, clash and lots of practicality.

The colorful striped look shows up all over. Big, bold or neat and tidy it's the most exciting fashion scoop this spring.

Sharp bands of color are excitingly blended with subdued colors in girls' fashions for this season. And the stripes are vibrant and vivid.

Stepped-up stripes put super-dash into the boys' world, too. There's one stripe job on cotton duck that's sensational.

Brightly colored, varied-sized stripes look sleek and snappy on a seafaring set of trunks with matching windbreaker. And any old salt will tell you how important it is to look shipshape while building a sand castle.

There are stripes on jackets, pants, walk shorts and practically anything pertaining to boyswear.

Boys and girls together are enjoying the stripe swing. It's new, natty and handsome.

Either wild and wooly in shocking color combinations or soft, smooth and melting, there's no doubt about it, spring '68 is definitely a striped season.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My family loves those little Vienna sausages that I buy in the aluminum zip-top cans. The cans I buy are coated on the inside and are easy to clean and don't turn dark.

They hold exactly three-fourths of a cup and are real handy for measuring sugar, rice, flour and other dry products.

So I keep one in each of these canisters now and find it great for measuring and pouring.

But be sure to put the shaving cream back so you don't get caught.

game with a couple of minutes to go. The Bruins became NCAA champions with a win over North Carolina. The finger in the air is their No. 1 sign. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Alcindor--The Best Again In UCLA's Romp to Title

LOS ANGELES AP — Toward the end of the game, the Bruins' star player, Lew Alcindor, was named today as the outstanding player in the national collegiate basketball championships after leading UCLA to its fourth title in five years.

The Bruins crushed previously unbeaten Houston, 101-69, Friday night and then came back for a 78-55 triumph over North Carolina in the title game Saturday. The 7-foot-1½ Alcindor scored 53 points and hauled down 34 rebounds in the two games.

He is the fourth player in history to be voted the honor two years in succession. The others are Bob Kurland, Oklahoma State 1945-46; Alex Groza, Kentucky, 1948-49; and Gerry Lucas, Ohio State, 1960-61.

Three other Bruins were named to the all-tournament team. With Alcindor on the select five were Mike Warren, Lucius Allen and Lynn Shackelford. The fifth man was North Carolina's Larry Miller. Player of the year Elvin Hayes of Houston failed to make it.

Named Shackelford — Shackelford was accorded the honor on the basis of his 17 points and great defensive play in the victory over Houston.

Allen and Warren set the tempo of the game early in the finale. Allen wound up with 30 points for the two games and was all over the court against the Tar Heels, stealing passes on the Bruins' full court zone press.

Warren was the court general, guiding the offense and keeping North Carolina's fine sophomore Charlie Scott fairly well bottled up.

But Alcindor was the real story. He tossed in 34 points. He blocked nine Tar Heel shots, five of them off the hand of 6-foot-10 Rusty Clark. And Lew even stole the ball at midcourt

And most of them will be back next year.

"We are going to have a fine team," UCLA coach John Wooden said. "I hope we will be back to defend our title. I wouldn't trade our chances with any one."

In the game for third place, fired up Ohio State came from behind in the second half to beat Houston, 89-85, as burly Steve Howell scored 26 points.

Spring Shutouts Are Nightmare for Rigney

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the kind of exhibition baseball season it's been for Manager Bill Rigney—about the only thing he's had to comment on lately is what pitcher has looked best in shutting out his California Angels.

So far, it's been San Francisco southpaw Ray Sadecki.

"That's the best we've seen this spring," Rigney said of Sadecki's pitching Sunday in the Giants' 4-0 victory over the Angels, who have been blanked in three of their last four games.

"I can see why they were excited about him last year," Rigney said after Sadecki scattered four hits over nine innings. "He must have pitched that way toward the end of the season."

Sadecki finished strongly for a 12-6 record in 1967.

Three of San Francisco's runs Sunday came on Willie McCovey's homer off George Brunet in the fourth inning.

In other games, Houston

drubbed Oakland 11-4 for its eighth straight victory, Cincinnati edged St. Louis 6-5, Washington overcame Philadelphia 4-2, Cleveland nipped the Chicago Cubs 5-4, Detroit blanked the New York Yankees 2-0, Baltimore stopped the New York Mets 3-0, the Chicago White Sox beat Minnesota 6-5, Los Angeles downed Pittsburgh 4-0 and Boston whipped Atlanta 6-2.

Throws Marbles — While Sadecki was making a baseball look like a marble to the Angels, it continued to appear the size of a grapefruit to Sal Bando and Don Pavletich.

Bando hit his eighth homer of the spring for Oakland, and Pavletich belted his fourth and fifth for Cincinnati.

The two-run shot by Bando, who didn't hit any homers in 47 games with the Athletics last year, couldn't compensate for a sour fielding performance by his teammates. They committed four errors, two in the seventh inning when Houston scored five runs.

Pavletich, who socked six homers for Cincinnati last season, drove in the Reds' first four runs with a single and his two blasts, and they won it in the ninth on Bob Rauman's triple.

Fred Whitfield's pinch double and Tony Perez' single.

Washington beat Philadelphia

by scoring three runs with two out in the ninth inning. Bernie Allen's two-run double brought in two, and the third scored when shortstop Don Money lost a pop fly in the sun.

Overcome 4-0 Deficit — Cleveland overcame a 4-0 Cub lead by scoring five times in the seventh on a double, two singles, four walks and a hit batsman.

Denny McLain pitched the first seven innings and rookie Daryl Patterson finished up in Detroit's shutout of the Yankees. Willie Horton drove in both Detroit runs.

Eddie Watt yielded two Mets hits in the first inning, then he and Pete Richert, who took over in the sixth, pitched hitless ball the rest of the way for Baltimore.

Larry Haney batted in Dave Johnson for all three Baltimore runs.

Pete Ward paced the White Sox, who overcame a 4-1 Minnesota lead, with a home run and two doubles.

Don Drysdale and Jim "Mudcat" Grant combined for a four-hitter against Pittsburgh at Nassau in The Bahamas. Bob Bailey batted in two Los Angeles runs.

Boston was shut out by Atlanta for five innings, but got going in the sixth when Mike Andrews homered.

Dayton Is Tops When It Counts

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP — Dayton only made it into the National Invitation Tournament by a 10th of a 10-game winning streak, but the tourney-wise Flyers certainly knew what to do when they got there.

"We had the worst record in the tournament," said Flyer Coach Don Donohue, "and we had to sweat it out getting into the field. We had to win the last game of the season."

The Flyers, who won their last 10 regular season basketball games for a 17-9 record, stretched the string to 14 Saturday by beating Kansas 6-48 for the NIT championship.

Last year, the Flyers surprisingly finished second to UCLA in the NCAA tournament that UCLA won again Saturday night in Los Angeles. The Bruins clobbered North Carolina 78-55 as Lew Alcindor scored 53 points. Ohio State upset Houston 89-85 for third place.

With sparkling Don May and three other starters back, Dayton was poised for another great year.

"When we were 7-9 in January," Donohue said, "I thought we needed a new coach, although seven of those defeats were by less than six points. This team definitely was as good as last year's team."

But everything seemed to fall into place in Dayton's last loss, at Louisville, Jan. 23.

"We were down by 16 when we started Dan Obrovac at center the second half, and lost by one," Donohue said. "Obrovac was a new kid after that. We're bigger and stronger at center with him than we were last year."

May, who won the Most Valuable Player award, hit 17 of his 22 points in the second half when the Flyers broke a 25-all halftime tie and pulled away to their second NIT title in 12 tries. Dayton won in its last appearance in 1962 after five second place finishes.

May, a 6-foot-4 second-team All-American, who became Dayton's all-time high scorer in the victory, also topped The Associated Press All-Tournament team.

Kansas, which finished with a 22-8 record after its first NIT, placed Jo Jo White on the first five. Others were Larry Newbold of Long Island U., Elrnado Webster of St. Peter's and Bob Whitmore of Notre Dame, which beat St. Peter's 81-78 for third place.

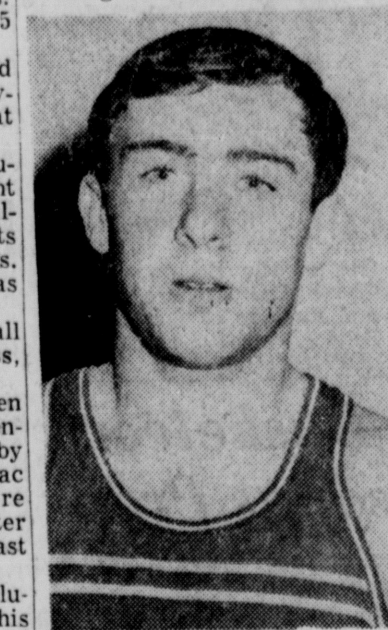

Sub Leads DeMicco To KBT Opener Win

Just as predicted, the Kingston Basketball Tournament came up with some surprises in its opening round last night.

In the first scheduled game, a contest between the Donnie Vans of Kingston and the Arlington Friars, Arlington picked up a forfeit.

The nightcap, pitting DeMicco Motors and Felicello Pipers, went as figured with DeMicco's taking a 126-89 win. Surprisingly, DeMicco's was led by a player who was a substitute all year long.

DeMicco's, the second seed in the tourney, romped over Felicello's. It took a strong second half effort by the team composed entirely of UCCC players, to pull it out after building a 59-50 halftime lead.

MIKE DERRENBACHER

Mike Derrenbacher, 5-foot-9, and the last man on UCCC this past season, led the first half charge with 14 points, plunking in seven field goals.

A scrub all year, the little fireball kept the Motormen's attack humming with key baskets throughout. Derrenbacher's fine shooting provided the offense.

and Leon Hanna provided the defense with strong rebounding, swiping 17 cars in the first half alone.

Carries Offense — Derrenbacher carried the offense, offsetting Felicello's trio of Ralph Cook, Jim Fraley and Jim Fino, who accounted for 48 on Felicello's 50-point first half.

The second half was a different story.

The remainder of the Motormen began to hit, quickly putting the Pipers out of it. The Felicello trio couldn't keep pace and within the first few minutes, the issue was decided.

Fraley would up high for the out-classed Pipers with 35 markers. There was a big gap down to the Pipers second scorer, Jim Fino, who netted 19 and Cook had 18.

For DeMicco's, who's fine team effort, balanced scoring and fast break swept by the Pipers, Derrenbacher was top point getter with 30.

All Double Figures

The rest of the squad all hit double figures. Trailing Derrenbacher was Frank Roselli, who had 24. Following was Rod Chando's 19 Bill Zilliox (17). Hanna tossed in 15 along with his 29 rebounds, Stan Henderson 11 and Dick Schaeffer 10.

The tourney continued Sunday with the last pair of quarter-final games. Those games find Dunham Tunnel (composed of the rest of the UCCC squad) going against the defending champs, top seeded Aero Lake Airport (formerly Whitman Electric), and third seed Stewart Air Force Base taking Guernsey's Realtors of Poughkeepsie.

Donnie Vans, composed entirely of high school players, forfeited rather than have the players lose any eligibility.

The score:

DeMicco Motors (126)	Felicello Pipers (89)
FG FT	FG FT
Zilliox 8 17 Cook 8 21	Derbacher 15 30 Fraley 4 7
Chando 9 18 Cerone 0 0	Roselli 10 4 24 Benevento 3 2
Hanna 6 15 Felicello 1 0	Schaeffer 5 11 J. Fino 2 1
Henderson 5 11 J. Fino 2 1	Cook 18 19
Totals 38 10 126	Totals 38 13 89

Scoring by halves:

DeMicco Motors 59 67-126

Felicello Pipers 50 39-89

Guernsey, Aero-Lake Quarter-finalists

Aero-Lake's Airport Bombers square off against IBEW of Rockland County in the quarter-final round of the 25th annual Poughkeepsie YMCA basketball tournament at 8:15 tonight.

Guernsey's Realtors will meet Wiley's Flying Aces in the first game, starting at 7:15 p.m.

Aero-Lake knocked off Jeb's Sportsmen, 94-90, to gain the quarter-final slot, and Guernsey's notched a 94-63 over Peeling's Motor Service. Charlie Brown paced Aero-Lake with 44 tallies in their first contest. Hank Brown led the way for Guernsey's with 31 markers.

What's the catch?

There isn't any.

$1699 is the suggested retail price at the port of entry for the VW sedan.

The price includes Federal excise tax and import duty.

It also includes the built-in heater/defroster, windshield washer, electric windshield wipers, outside rear view mirror, and seat belts front and back.

Not to mention the padded dash and front seat headrests.

It's the price of the real thing, not a stripped-down economy model.

What else do you have to pay?

The charge for transporting the car from the port of entry. The dealer delivery charge. And local sales tax.

There is one optional that makes a lot of sense. The matching leatherette upholstery. For $30.00 extra. (Nearly everybody gets it because it eliminates the need for slipcovers.)

Well, that's it.

Unless, of course, you count the cost of gas and oil it takes you to get here in your present car.

HAIL CONQUERING BRUINS — UCLA's Mike Warren (L) Lew Alcindor and his mother greet the team coming in from the floor at the end of the game after leaving the game with a couple of minutes to go. The Bruins became NCAA champions with a win over North Carolina. The finger in the air is their No. 1 sign. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Alcindor--The Best Again In UCLA's Romp to Title

LOS ANGELES AP — Towering Lew Alcindor was named today as the outstanding player in the national collegiate basketball championships after leading UCLA to its fourth title in five years.

The Bruins crushed previously unbeaten Houston, 101-69, Friday night and then came back for a 78-55 triumph over North Carolina in the title game Saturday. The 7-foot-1½ Alcindor scored 53 points and hauled down 34 rebounds in the two games.

He is the fourth player in history to be voted the honor two years in succession. The others are Bob Kurland, Oklahoma State 1945-46; Alex Groza, Kentucky, 1948-49; and Gerry Lucas, Ohio State, 1960-61.

Three other Bruins were named to the all-tournament team. With Alcindor on the select five were Mike Warren, Lucius Allen and Lynn Shackelford. The fifth man was North Carolina's Larry Miller. Player of the year Elvin Hayes of Houston failed to make it.

Named Shackelford
Shackelford was accorded the honor on the basis of his 17 points and great defensive play in the victory over Houston.

Allen and Warren set the tempo of the game early in the finale. Allen wound up with 30 points for the two games and was all over the court against the Tar Heels, stealing passes on the Bruins' full court zone press.

Warren was the court general, guiding the offense and keeping North Carolina's fine sophomore Charlie Scott fairly well bottled up.

But Alcindor was the real story. He tossed in 34 points. He blocked nine Tar Heel shots, five of them off the hand of 6-foot-10 Rusty Clark. And Lew even stole the ball at midcourt.

And dribbled in to score a crowd-raiser early in the second half.

"They are by far the greatest basketball team I've ever seen," North Carolina coach Dean Smith said.

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the kind of exhibition baseball season it's been for Manager Bill Rigney—about the only thing he's had to comment on lately is what pitcher has looked best in shutting out his California Angels.

So far, it's been San Francisco southpaw Ray Sadecki.

"That's the best we've seen this spring," Rigney said of Sadecki's pitching Sunday in the Giants' 4-0 victory over the Angels, who have been blanked in three of their last four games.

"I can see why they were excited about him last year," Rigney said after Sadecki scattered four hits over nine innings. "He must have pitched that way to ward the end of the season."

Sadecki finished strongly for a 12-6 record in 1967.

Three of San Francisco's runs Sunday came on Willie McCovey's homer off George Brunet in the fourth inning.

In other games, Houston

trade our chances with any one."

In the game for third place, fired up Ohio State came from behind in the second half to beat Houston, 89-85, as burly Steve Howell scored 26 points.

Spring Shutouts Are Nightmare for Rigney

drubbed Oakland 11-4 for its eighth straight victory, Cincinnati edged St. Louis 6-5, Washington overcame Philadelphia 4-2, Cleveland nipped the Chicago Cubs 5-4, Detroit blanked the New York Yankees 2-0, Baltimore stopped the New York Mets 3-0, the Chicago White Sox beat Minnesota 6-5, Los Angeles downed Pittsburgh 4-0 and Boston whipped Atlanta 6-2.

Throws Marbles
While Sadecki was making a baseball look like a marble to the Angels, it continued to appear the size of a grapefruit to Sal Bando and Don Pavletich.

Bando hit his eighth homer of the spring for Oakland, and Pavletich belted his fourth and fifth for Cincinnati.

The two-run shot by Bando, who didn't hit any homers in 47 games with the Athletics last year, couldn't compensate for a sour fielding performance by his teammates. They committed four errors, two in the seventh inning when Houston scored five runs.

Pavletich, who socked six homers for Cincinnati last season, drove in the Reds' first four runs with a single and his two blasts, and they won it in the ninth on Bob Rauman's triple, Fred Whitfield's pinch double and Tony Perez' single. Washington beat Philadelphia 4-0.

Dayton Is Tops When It Counts

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP — Dayton only made it into the National Invitation Tournament by a 10th of a 10-game winning streak, but the tourney-wise Flyers certainly knew what to do when they got there.

"We had the worst record in the tournament," said Flyer Coach Don Donohue, "and we had to sweat it out getting into the field. We had to win the last game of the season."

The Flyers, who won their last 10 regular season basketball games for a 17-9 record, stretched the string to 14 Saturday by beating Kansas 6-48 for the NIT championship.

Last year, the Flyers surprisingly finished second to UCLA in the NCAA tournament that UCLA won again Saturday night in Los Angeles. The Bruins clobbered North Carolina 78-55 as Lew Alcindor scored 34 points. Ohio State upset Houston 89-85 for third place.

With sparkling Don May and three other starters back, Dayton was poised for another great year.

"When we were 7-9 in January," Donohue said, "I thought we needed a new coach, although seven of those defeats were by less than six points. This team definitely was as good as last year's team."

But everything seemed to fall into place in Dayton's last loss, at Louisville, Jan. 23.

"We were down by 16 when we started Dan Obrovac at center the second half, and lost by one," Donohue said. "Obrovac was a new kid after that. We're bigger and stronger at center with him than we were last year."

May, who won the Most Valuable Player award, hit 17 of his 22 points in the second half when the Flyers broke a 25-all halftime tie and pulled away to their second NIT title in 12 tries. Dayton won in its last appearance in 1952 after five second place finishes.

May, a 6-foot-4 second-team All-American, who became Dayton's all-time high scorer in the victory, also topped The Associated Press All-Tournament team.

Kansas, which finished with a 22-8 record after its first NIT, placed Jo Jo White on the first five. Others were Larry Newbold of Long Island U., Elnard Webster of St. Peter's and Bob Whitmore of Notre Dame, which beat St. Peter's 81-78 for third place.

Sub Leads DeMicco To KBT Opener Win

Just as predicted, the Kingston Basketball Tournament came up with some surprises in its opening round last night.

In the first scheduled game, a contest between the Donnie Vans of Kingston and the Arlington Friars, Arlington picked up a forfeit.

The nightcap, pitting DeMicco Motors and Felicello Pipers, went as figured with DeMicco's taking a 126-89 win. Surprisingly, DeMicco's was led by a player who was a substitute all year long.

DeMicco's, the second seed in the tourney, romped over Felicello's. It took a strong second half effort by the team composed entirely of UCCC players, to pull it out after building a 59-50 halftime lead.

MIKE DERRENBACHER

Mike Derrenbacher, 5-foot-9, and the last man on UCCC this past season, led the first half charge with 14 points, plunking in seven field goals.

A scrub all year, the little fireball kept the Motormen's attack humming with key baskets throughout. Derrenbacher's fine shooting provided the offense, and Leon Hanna provided the defense with strong rebounding, swiping 17 caroms in the first half alone.

Carries Offense

Derrenbacher carried the offense, offsetting Felicello's trio of Ralph Cook, Jim Fraley and

Donnie Vans, composed entirely of high school players, forfeited rather than have the players lose any eligibility.

Felicello Pipers 50 39-89

For DeMicco's, who's fine team effort, balanced scoring and fast break swept by the Pipers, Derrenbacher was top point getter with 30.

All Double Figures
The rest of the squad all hit double figures. Trailing Derrenbacher was Frank Roselli, who had 24. Following was Rod Chando's 19. Bill Zilliox (17), Hanna tossed in 15 along with his 29 rebounds, Stan Henderson 11 and Dick Schaeffer 10.

The tourney continued Sunday with the last pair of quarter-final games. Those games find Dunham Tunnel (composed of the rest of the UCCC squad) going against the defending champs, top-seeded Aero Lake Airport (formerly Whitman Electric), and third seed Stewart Air Force Base taking

$1699

What's the catch?

There isn't any.

$1699 is the suggested retail price at the port of entry for the VW sedan.

The price includes Federal excise tax and import duty.

It also includes the built-in heater/defroster, windshield washer, electric windshield wipers, outside rear view mirror, and seat belts front and back.

Not to mention the padded dash and front seat headrests.

It's the price of the real thing, not a stripped-down economy model.

What else do you have to pay?

The charge for transporting the car from the port of entry. The dealer delivery charge. And local sales tax.

There is one optional that makes a lot of sense. The matching leatherette upholstery. For $30.00 extra. (Nearly everybody gets it because it eliminates the need for slipcovers.)

Well, that's it.

Unless, of course, you count the cost of gas and oil it takes you to get here in your present car.

Games of Reaction; Not Scores in NBA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Russell said he didn't have a good game. Jerry West said he hadn't realized he shot so well. Elgin Baylor didn't say a word.

Baylor didn't have to. His coach, Bill van Breda Kolff of the Los Angeles Lakers, said it all after the Lakers downed the Chicago Bulls 108-101 in the opening game of the best-of-7 Western Division playoff series.

"I played Baylor all the way because we needed his outside shooting. He was also playing so well. I hated to take him out," Van Breda Kolff said after the game in Los Angeles Sunday night.

All Elgin did was score 32 points, grab 23 rebounds and chip in with eight assists. West, returning after missing the final three regular season games with a groin injury, added a game-high 33 points.

In the opening game of the Eastern Division playoff in Boston, the Celtics topped Detroit Sunday 123-116 on the fine all-around play of Russell and the scoring of John Havlicek and Larry Siegfried.

Knicks Even Up

In playoff action Saturday night, the New York Knicks and St. Louis Hawks each evened their series at 1-1. The Knicks beat the Eastern Division champs, Philadelphia, 128-117 in New York and at St. Louis, the Western Division champion Hawks topped San Francisco, 111-103.

In the American Basketball Association Sunday, Anaheim tripped Oakland 147-135 to close the regular season. Both clubs failed to make the playoffs. In postseason play at Minnesota, the Muskies defeated Kentucky, 115-102 in the first game of a best-of-5 playoff in the Eastern Division.

West Is Hot

West hit on 13 of 24 shots from the field and a perfect 7-7 at the charity line. "The groin injury I have is the most aggravating I've ever had. I got tired in the third period and started throwing some sloppy passes but I didn't realize I had shot so well," Jerry said.

The playoffs continue tonight with Boston in Detroit, St. Louis at San Francisco and Chicago at Los Angeles. The Hawks face the Warriors on the West Coast again Tuesday and the 76ers and Knicks play Wednesday in Philadelphia.

Six New Leaders In Women's Pins

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Six new leaders have emerged in the 11-week-long championship tournament of the New York State Women's Bowling Association.

Competition began three weeks ago and continues through June 2. At the close of play Sunday, the Federsteel Sheet Metal Co. of Niagara Falls held top spot in Class B team competition with a three-game score of 2,469.

Marlene Mattison of Barbara Passamonte of Warsaw became the leaders in B doubles by bowling 1016. Ann Matuszak of Buffalo rolled a 582 to top the B singles competition.

Leaders in other classes, after three weekends, were: Class A: Team—Lindauer Co. of Buffalo, 2577. Doubles—Dorothy Shannon and Patricia McCabe of Rochester, 1040. Singles—Eleanor Mosk of Albany, 578 (new lead).

Class C: Team—Eddies Flying A of Auburn, 2339. Doubles—Marcia Kimball and Velma Nettin of Albion, 680 (new lead). Singles—Carol Michaelovich of Mt. Kisco, 577.

Class D: Team—Benevento Brothers of Watertown, 2136. Doubles—Beverly Donlon and Karl Schreck of Hornell, 936. Singles—Norma Green of Scottsville, 546 (new leader).

Mercer Quintet Loses in Finals

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — San Jacinto of Pasadena, Tex.; runner-up last year, won the National Junior College Basketball Tournament Championship Saturday by edging Mercer County of Trenton, N. J., 66-64. Two free throws by Terry Mullen with 28 seconds left provided the victory margin.

San Jacinto's season record was 44-2, Mercer's 30-3. Murray College of Oklahoma placed third; Northeastern of Sterling, Colo., fourth; Iowa Central fifth; Vincennes, Ind., sixth; Miami-Dade, Fla., seventh, and Robert Morris of Carthage, Ill., eighth.

In completing the loser's bracket, Murray defeated Vincennes 67-58; Northeastern beat Miami-Dade 99-60 and Iowa Central defeated Robert Morris 75-62.

All-Winning Basketeers Honored at Esopus Prep

Esopus Prep's championship basketball team members and other athletes were honored in the first annual Esopus Prep sports awards dinner at the Hedges Restaurant in West Park. A gathering of 250 students, athletes, directors and friends were on hand to see the awards given out.

William K. Banks, Esopus director, presided as master of ceremonies, and three pro-football players from the American Football league were on hand as guest speakers. Jim Harris, defensive tackle with the New York Jets; Marvin Kindricks, defensive back with the New Orleans Saints and Seth Cartwright, lineman with the Kansas City Chiefs, addressed the gathering of athletes and coaches on the importance of education in professional athletics.

Coach Lonnie T. Wilmore recapitulated the accomplishments of the season. Esopus Prep was the champion of three different leagues, the Poughkeepsie summer league, the Neighborhood Service Organization and the Tri-County NSO. In addition, the team won tournaments in Masonville, at the Liberty Park (NJ) Job Corps center, and its own invitational tournament.

Basketball letters were awarded to 18 players. Five graduated Jan. 28 and are now attending college — Donald Jenkins is at Rutgers, Michael Greene, Maryland State, and a trio of performers, Walter Davis, Bernard Bolar and Curtis Giles, went to St. Paul's in Lawrenceville, Va.

Other letters were given to Johnny Johnson, Bernard Carter, Barry Baldwin, James Howard, Carl Murdough, James Davis, Richard Webb, Lorenzo Glenn, Douglas Cole.

Rate Ferraro's Chances Good

"There is no question at this time that Mike Ferraro will make the Yankee team. Right now, he looks like he will be Yankees' regular third baseman."

This quote came from a long-time Yankee observer, now in Fort Lauderdale, watching the Yankees in spring training. He asked not to have his name used.

In addition to the first observation, the Yankeeophile added, "He is the leading candidate for the job, and at this point, I believe he will be the starting third baseman. He is having his best spring, hitting and fielding well, and looks like a shoo-in for the starter's spot. He's pretty much moved out front in the race with Bobby Cox for the job."

Makes Spectacular Play

The observer relayed manager Ralph Houk's quote on Mike's spectacular fielding play during the four-day trip to Mexico City.

Ferraro speared a hard line drive, diving to his left to stop it, and threw from the ground to second to double a man off base. The sparkling play drew a standing ovation from the crowd of nearly 30,000, and prompted Houk to say, "It was the single best play of the trip."

Ferraro, according to the observer, has regained the confidence that was so badly needed. The confidence disappeared with the unfortunate accident to Chi Chi Oliva—but now that Oliva is well and in training, Mike is over the emotional problems that revolved around the incident.

The reports on Mike are that he has been hitting the ball with power—smacking out line drives with authority. Mike's batting average in the spring training sessions is a sparkling 10-26, for a .417 average, putting him high on the batting list.

Weak at Shortstop
"Mike's bat will help the Yankees considerably," the observer felt. "Because it allows the team to carry a defensive short stop."

The two leading short stop candidates, Reuben Amaro and Gene Michael, both are weak hitters. Had Ferraro not come around at the plate, the Yankees might have had to trade either of the two third-sackers or both short stops to get a good hitting combo.

"Mike's free mind (the Oliva trouble forgotten) and confidence are important. He's made some very big contributions this spring and looks quite impressive. I believe he will make the team and will be the regular third sacker," the observer concluded.

Floyd's Gamble: It Paid Off Big

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Ray Floyd is trying to erase his image as a golfing playboy, but the 25-year-old Texan still likes to gamble.

The chunky bachelor took a one-shot lead into today's final round of the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament because of a gamble that paid off Sunday.

Floyd, who wiped out an eight-stroke deficit with a blazing 64, eagled the eighth hole after driving into the woods. He was 235 yards from the green, but he saw a six-foot opening between the trees and went for the hole with a three-wood.

The ball stopped 30 feet from the cup, and Floyd knocked in the putt for an eagle 3 on the par five hole.

"I guess it was a good gamble," said Floyd, who turned in a 54-hole total of 202, 14 strokes under par and a shot in front of George Archer and Tony Jacklin. Tom Shaw, the affable young man who led the first two rounds with scores of 63 and 67, was at 204 after a 74.

Dave Marr, who fired a 68 and was tied at 204 with Shaw, hasn't been victorious since 1965.

MELBOURNE, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Wright of Dallas headed down the long line of ladies Professional Golf Association tournaments today.

The 5-foot-9 blonde won $1,500 Sunday for first place in the Port Malabar Invitational Golf Tournament as she moved from two strokes off the pace to a three-stroke lead.

The swinging Texan opened the Malabar tournament two strokes off the three-under-par pace set by Marilyn Smith on Friday.

On Sunday she used a birdie of her own and a bogey from Miss Smith to pull even and then moved ahead by three strokes to leave Miss Smith second place and $1,200.

UCCC Bowling Team Is Second at Utica

John Schatzel ripped off series of 582 and 508, a 1,090 six game string to pace the Ulster County Community College Bowling team to a second-place finish in the Utica College Invitational Bowling Tournament Saturday.

The Senators were the top two-year school entrant, tossing a 5,218 six-game, team total. Alfred nosed out UCCC by 39 pins, compiling a 5,257 for the win. Canisius was third and Genesee State fourth.

Schatzel, bowling with consistency, had best single games of 203 and 204. Lou Kolano and Joe Manello each had 210's, which were good for high single among UCCC's quintet.

Right behind Schatzel (1,090) was Don Gregorius with a 1,075, built on games of 525 and 548. Kolano was third with 1,043 (506-537). Joe Manello next at 1,009 off 475-534 and Jack Whitaker 500-501 for 1,001.

UCCC, which finished second in the NJCAA's Region XV tourney a month ago, beat out four year schools like Syracuse, Buffalo, Cortland, Siena, Niagara and several others, including four junior colleges.

NEW YORK (AP) — High-scoring Jean Ratelle and Rod Gilbert have been selected as the most popular New York Rangers by a poll.

New York's Catholic Youth Organization, The Linemates will receive their awards before Sunday night's Ranger-Toronto National Hockey League game at Madison Square Garden.

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — A field of nine will compete in the $25,000 Adios Pace Festival at Yonkers Raceway next Thursday. The nine are Frank T. Ace, Harry's Bride, daho Sampson Night, Sharon Irishman, Van Rebeck, Brian's Way, Pocomoonshine and Neshoba Littleline.

For the locals, Bob Thornton of Stone Ridge was the stand-out with a win in the Class II cross country race for boys aged 14 and 15. He tied his teammate Ed Hunlock of Rosendale for second in the Class II jumping tournament and won first place in the Nordic Combined.

Susan Karlson of Rosendale continued her winning ways and took a first place in the girls Class I cross country race with her team mate Linda Coogan close behind. Suzanne Claus of the Rosendale club took a third in the girls Class III cross country contest.

Other locals who scored were John Mills and Bill Johnson of Stone Ridge and Bob Swehla, Allen Arnold and Peter Claus of Rosendale.

Killy, France Near World Cup

SUNVALLEY, Idaho (AP) — Jean-Claude Killy pulled France past annual challenger Austria in the American International team ski meet and had the World Cup all but locked up today.

But the flying Frenchman had to share the spotlight with Nancy Greene of Canada, who completed a three-event sweep Sunday by capturing the women's giant slalom.

Killy won the men's giant slalom Sunday by two-tenths of a second over Rick Chaffee of Rutland, Vt., covering the nine-tenths of a mile with 52 gates in one minute 31.38 seconds.

The victory, along with a first in the slalom and a second in the downhill earlier in the three-day meet, gave the French 58 points and 234 for the competition. Austria, which led after two days, fell to its usual second with 210. The U.S. squad was well back with 137.

Miss Greene, who now leads France's Isabelle Mir and Annie Famose in World Cup competition, turned in a time of 1:40.49 Sunday to add the giant slalom to her downhill and slalom victories here.

Marielle Goitschell of France was second in 1:41.19 and Karen Budge of Jackson, Wyo., third in 1:42.71.

KHS Keglers Take Section "A" Crown

Paul DeCicco, a 165-average bowler, fired a 605 series for a 202 average Saturday, and led Kingston High School to the Section Nine Class A Bowling crown at Campi-Tarsio Lanes in Newburgh.

DeCicco, bowling fourth, opened with a 174, followed with a trophy-winning 237 and closed out at 194 to help KHS compile 2,601 pins. That score just posed out Spring Valley, second-place finisher at 2,345 and Middletown, who had a 2,522 after taking the first game lead.

DeCicco's 237 won him the high single trophy. Kingston had the runner-up in that category, Bruce Bollin. The Maroon second bowler, Bollin started slowly, throwing a low 124. He bounced back with a 175 before finishing with a 217 to give him a 516 series.

Kingston carried an 814 team average, which did not accord it the favorite's role. Spring Valley, favored to win, fell way back with a 769 opener. Middletown grabbed the early lead with an 858 while KHS was second at 821.

The Maroon gained the lead with an 886 as Middletown faded to 803 and Spring Valley came in with an 872 in the middle game.

Blame Talent Gap On Inferior Tests

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The discovery that poorly conceived, mass produced employment tests can deprive corporations of valuable talent is leading some companies to place more reliance today on personal examination of applicants.

This reaction is good news not just to the geniuses who fail to conform to the pattern demanded by the tests but to those who, because of background and environment, cannot fully understand the meaning of questions.

In this latter category, says the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, are numerous minority group members, especially Negroes, Spanish Americans and the foreign born.

The commission, in a report just released, noted that "the personnel procedures of many employers screen out rather than screen in people."

With good workers in scarce supply, this could be damaging to both company and job applicant.

Standardized tests, said William Taylor, staff director of the commission, have been designed to test the white middle class.

To illustrate, he draws this question from a widely used test: "Does R.S.V.P. mean 'reply not necessary'?"

Although it is entirely possible that the white applicant would fail the question, it isn't difficult to imagine a much higher failure rate for those from environments where such niceties have little meaning.

Would the white applicant do well on this question:

"Cheap chittlings taste rubbery unless they are cooked long enough. How soon can you quit cooking them to eat and enjoy them? 1. 15 minutes. 2. Two hours. 3. One day. 4. One week on a low flame. 5. One hour."

The answer: It would take one day or 24 hours to properly cook cheap chittlings.

The report, called Employment Testing: Guide Signs, Not Stop Signs, was prepared by Myron Kandel, editor of the New York Law Journal on assignment from the commission, a temporary, bipartisan, independent agency set up by Congress.

One of the major themes of the report is that employers must remember that the applicant who cannot perform well on a test might perform well on the job. To overlook this may be to ignore a potentially productive employee.

Among the several other ways in which employers deprive themselves of good workers and retard the future of applicants:

—Setting standards unnecessarily high.

—Using tests as the sole indication of whether to hire or reject.

—Confusing social acceptability with the capability of doing the job.

—Failing to recruit from among minority groups.

—Using unskilled personnel interviewers.

—Failing to train potential employees, even though government funds are available to assist employers in training the unemployed.

19-year-old youths Sunday by

Windham.

Troopers said cars driven by

Martha Snyder of Windham, and Jamie Shanahan, of New York City, were involved in the mishap. Shanahan and a companion, Colin Williams, also of

New York City, were picked up an hour later at the residence of Ann Lubjel at Windham, who was not home at the time.

Shanahan was charged with reckless driving and three other traffic violations. He pleaded guilty before a local justice and was fined $75.

Shanahan and Williams both were committed to the Greene County jail to await grand jury action on the burglary charges, troopers reported.

Four Copper Producers Reach Tentative Pacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — All four of the nation's giant copper producers have now reached tentative wage-hike agreements with their unions but it still is not known when thousands of workers will return to their jobs, ending an eight-month strike.

Anaconda Co. and American Smelting & Refining Co., announced Sunday tentative settlements covering more than 15,000 strikers. But they said local issues still must be ironed out at their 28 mines and factories spread over a 14-state area.

In addition, ratification of the new pacts has yet to be voted upon by 15,000 Anaconda-American Smelting workers or by 10,000 others at Kennecott Copper Corp.

Contributing to the uncertainty of when production will be resumed on a wide scale, settlements also must be reached covering another 10,000 workers at Kennecott and Anaconda plants.

A total of 26 unions a wide variety of skilled jobs are involved in the complex strike.

"I don't know when they're going back to work," said an industry spokesman after the new agreements were announced.

The fourth big producer, Phelps Dodge, reached agreement last week with 6,500 workers and they are the only strikers back on the job at major plants. Several smaller firms settled earlier with a total of about 10,000 employees.

The Phelps Dodge pact provides a 54-cent hourly pay hike over 40 months plus fringe benefits which bring the hourly hike to $1.13. The new agreements are in this range.

President Johnson summoned both sides to Washington three weeks ago for White House talks aimed at settling the prolonged dispute. He said it was threatening the nation's economy as well as its defense effort.

Wages before the strike averaged $3.28 hourly for copper miners, $3.16 for smelting and refining workers and $2.71 for wire and cable-fabricating workers.

The White House declined comment on Sunday's tentative settlements.

Negotiations are to continue on the unresolved local issues.

County's Enrollment Figures

Ulster County enrollment figures, taken in the fall of 1967 for use in the 1968 primaries, give the Republicans 30,003, the Democrats 14,006, Conservatives 862, with 291 Liberals.

There was a total enrollment figure of 61,996 in the county with blank, void, or missing enrollees numbering 16,834. This figure would also include independent voters not wishing to be affiliated with any party.

The enrollment figures were announced today by Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo and they indicated little change in the statewide balance between the two major parties compared to 1966 as Democrats continue to outnumber Republicans by 658,555.

The figures show an increase of 79,996 in Republican enrollment, while the Democratic enrollment decreased by 83,904. There are 3,332,871 enrolled Democrats and 2,874,316 Republicans.

The greatest percentage change occurred in the Conservative Party column with a total of 71,577 compared with 54,027 in 1966.

Liberal Party enrollment is $2,889, a decrease of 4,707.

Only voters who are enrolled in a recognized political party are eligible to vote in the primary election of June 18, which this year will include the selection of nominees for statewide office.

The Democrats have maintained their traditional party strength in New York City, and Republicans continue to hold the edge upstate.

Howard U. Protestors
Return to Classes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Howard University students, partially victorious in demands for more black orientation on their predominantly Negro campus, return to classrooms today after a five-day takeover of the administration building.

The protest by some 1,200 chanting, singing students ended late Saturday when leaders accepted a board of trustees compromise and demonstrators left the administration building.

Trustees agreed to let the student government discipline 39 students accused of disrupting May 1 Charter Day ceremonies and promised not to press charges against the protestors.

The trustees also announced student demands for more black orientation of the university would be worked out by a committee of board members, students and faculty members.

The demands included establishment of a Black Awareness Institute, formation of a student judiciary and convening of an all-black college student convention at Howard on student roles.

Student demands for the resignation of university President James M. Nabrit Jr., 67, were not mentioned in the compromise agreement.

There were reports Nabrit, who has said he would not permit Howard to become a black oriented university, plans to retire.

Protest leaders said in interviews they want more Negro history and culture courses at Howard—and programs to develop Negroes as leaders.

"We think this university should prepare us to be leaders in the black community," said Joseph Middlebrooks, president of the engineering and architecture students association.

"Instead, what it's doing," he said, "is preparing us to fit into the white man's world—and not in leadership roles."

Administration officials said the university will be back to normal operation Wednesday following two days of reading periods. They said all buildings would be open today and some classes would resume immediately.

Both students and trustees said the agreement reached Saturday should not be interpreted as victory or defeat for either side.

Nonviolent from beginning to end, the protest started late Tuesday afternoon when about 200 students invaded the administration building to protest charges against the 39 students.

The administration closed the university the next day and ordered all other buildings closed.
By Thursday, 1,200 protestors were encamped in the administration building.

Howard, with 8,200 students, is a private school and gets 56 per cent of its funds from the federal government.

Dial O For Oil

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) —

Now they're pumping oil in the Midwest by telephone. By means of sophisticated controls

each day more than 11 million

are delivered through a 210,000-mile network of pipelines.

By dialing a series of numbers on the telephone, Leon

Myres, operator and dispatcher at the Whiting station of American Oil Company, can turn on a pumping station. This local station, together with others at

Moorhead, Minn., and Sugar

Creek, Mo., operates by remote control the firm's pipeline network in nine Midwest states.

start specific pumps, or open or

explains.

"We punch buttons on a control console to program mea-

along the line, from a few barrels to thousands of barrels. An automatic typewriter link-up constantly is called on to "read" meters at all terminals and then print out cumulative totals of

Help Wanted — Female

Dear Abby

Some Guys Don't Grow Up

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to Meyer for three years. He's short, fat, and bald, but he thinks he's God gift to women. This is my second marriage and his fourth. I am 55 and Meyer claims he's 63, but I'm sure he's closer to 70.

For the last year Meyer has been chasing young girls. Believe me, he is no lady-killer, but he has plenty of money which explains why he can get a different young girl every night. He goes around in public with his girl friends and has even brought them to our apartment, knowing I will come home and catch him. He came right out and asked me to divorce him, but he is not getting rid of me so easy.

I am too old to work and I don't want to get married again. I told him I made a bad deal but I'm willing to sit with it. Am I wrong? I am really satisfied with things as they are, as I don't bother him and he don't bother me. TELL MEYER TO STAND PAT IN MANHATTAN.

DEAR STANDING: Yours is a very strange marriage, but to each his own. Tell Meyer to quit chasing young girls before he drops dead. And if he wants a divorce in New York, he'll have to catch YOU.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in our twenties, have been married over a year, and are expecting our first child soon.

My husband works out of town six nights a week, and Sunday is our only day together, and we like to spend it alone.

Here's our problem: We have two friends, a young engaged couple, who come to visit us EVERY Sunday. If we aren't home when they arrive, they wait for us outside in their car.

We have hinted and tried to tell them in every polite way we know that they have worn out their welcome, but they don't seem to understand. Last Sunday when they came, I was lying down as I didn't feel well.

My husband told them this at the door, but they just said, "That's too bad," and they barged in anyway, took off coats, and stayed all day visiting with my husband.

Abby, we are at the end of our rope with these people. We hate to hurt their feelings, but what do we do now? They say we are the only friends they have.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Don't worry about hurting the feelings of those who show such an appalling lack of consideration for yours. "Polite" talk, and hints won't help. TELL them in plain language that when you want company, you will call them—and to please discontinue their visits until then. If you lose their "friendship" (this is a friendship?) you haven't lost much.

My father has taught music for 35 years, and here are a few of his ideas on the subject: Never force music on a child who has no interest in it. Music should be enjoyed; don't spoil a child's pleasure as a potential member of an audience. Listening is an art, too.

Trying to teach your child to play the instrument you yourself play is like trying to teach your own wife to drive a car. Ask the school music teacher if he gives private lessons. If not, he will be able to recommend someone who does.

If you love the violin and your child wants to play the sax, rent him a sax. Most music stores rent instruments, and some schools lend them. (Don't invest good money in an expensive instrument "hoping" your child will learn to like it. Find out first.)

Give him privacy to practice, and never laugh at his mistakes or ridicule him.

And last, but most important, encourage him by attending any recitals he happens to be in.

A home full of music can't be all bad. The family that plays together stays together.

BARBARA

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars —

("The wise man controls his destiny... astrology points the way.")

Forecast for Tuesday, March 26, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Much of what occurs today appears clouded—issues are not clear. There are behind-the-scenes activities. You want to leave a project—but realize it has not been completed. Be mature.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your ability to let others know what you feel, desire is emphasized. Fine new contract proves beneficial. Your hopes and wishes come closer to reality. Have talk with friend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Public attention comes your way. Know this: Guard against carelessness. Be sure, positive and direct. People ask questions. Answer with sincerity. Then you win.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Travel may be necessary. Important to outline objectives. Some who profess to know answers may, in fact, be puzzled. Find out who, what where and why. Then proceed accordingly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Avoid extravagance. Temptation is to cooie yourself where finances are concerned. Wise path sees you counting pennies. Those who care are not impressed by foolish spending.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Don't be in too much of a hurry. Mate, partner may express viewpoint opposite your own. Defer final decision. Wait and observe—dilemma is due to be solved.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 22): Best to stick to familiar ground. Gain confidence, co-operation of co-workers. Not wise to change routine. You are at your best today when you write, speak about special job.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Social contacts important today.

General Tendencies: Lunar position favorable for fishing. Cycle high for PISCES. ARIES, TAURUS, Special word to LIBRA: remember resolutions concerning health and work.

To find out more about yourself and astrology, order Sydney Omarr's 50-page booklet, The Truth About Astrology. Send 50 cents to Omarr Booklet, The Kingston Daily Freeman, Box 3240 Grand Central Station, New York, N. Y. 10017.

Bridge West's Signal Aids South

By Oswald and James Jacoby
Jim: "You have an interesting match point hand for today's article."

Oswald: "Any rubber bridge player sitting South would surely have bid spades and almost surely have insisted on spades as the final contract."

Jim: "He would score 150 points for honors and would have no trouble making his spade game."

Oswald: "Most duplicate players would wind up at four spades also. This South player believe him. East believed his partner also and thought that he would play to beat the contract in case West had been signaling that he held the ace of clubs. Therefore, he discarded two clubs, a diamond, and two hearts on the spades."

Jim: "Then all South had to do was cash his ace of clubs and play the ace and another diamond."

Oswald: "Exactly. East was on lead and forced to play ace and another heart, whereupon dummy made the last two tricks with the queen of hearts and 10 of diamonds."

Q—Who was the only apostle who did not suffer martyrdom?
A—St. John. He was exiled on the island of Patmos for a time, and is supposed to have written the Revelation there about A.D. 95.

Q—What were the names of the three wise men who worshipped the Infant Jesus in Bethlehem?
A—According to tradition, their names appeared in Latin literature as Gaspar, Melchior, and Balthasar.

Q—Where was the Atlantic Charter signed?
A—It was signed Aug. 14, 1941, by President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill at a meeting in Argentina Bay, off Newfoundland.

Q—What is the fastest-growing tree?
A—Discounting bamboo, which is not botanically classified as a tree, it is the Eucalyptus saligna which, in central Africa, has been measured to grow 45 feet in two years.

Q—When blue, white and red bunting is used for decoration, what color should appear on top?

After the death of his infant son, the unhappy father, his heart effusive with grief, attended church every day. An effusive crowd of shouting spectators ran onto the soccer field to personally praise the home team for winning the national championship. During the recent heat wave an effusive group of tired, hot workers jammed into the municipal swimming pool.

The Traditionals on Tube

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television, young as it is, already has built some traditions. One of them is the "highlights" program.

Sunday night TV presented the annual highlights of an ice show that plays around the country. Next Friday there will be highlights of a circus making its tour.

If you've seen one ice show or one circus, you have pretty well seen them all, yet there is a fascination to both that time cannot dim—which comes through on the tube.

Usually Same Form

NBC's hour-long ice special had nothing unusual to present Sunday but was graceful, tuneful and colorful, with here and there the required touch of broad comedy.

As the seasons roll by, the only thing that seems to change in ice shows is the music, the costumes and the hosts. The music is more likely to be from the latest Broadway hits than "The Skater's Waltz."

Over the seasons and on all three networks, the ice shows have all taken much the same form, and even the hosts at the same—they arrive gingerly on skates and make jokes about how badly they skate.

NBC's "Highlights from the Ice Capades of '68" was really not much different from "Highlights from the Ice Capades of '67," except that the comedy team of Rowan and Martin, wobbly in the feet, were around in place of past hosts. In an effort to add a little more spice to the proceedings, Joanne Sommers was on hand for a couple of songs.

The special was one of only two midweeking network programs that were not reruns. There was a repeat showing of ABC's movie, and on CBS The Smothers Brothers show and "Mission Impossible" were both around for a second time.

The other fresh show, NBC's "High Chaparral," was of interest primarily because of the appearance of Ramon Novarro, once an important silent movie star, playing a priest.

'Kate' Tonight

NBC has added two comedians as regulars to the summer series replacing the Dean Martin show. They are Paul Lynd and Sheeky Greene. Stars of the show will be Frank Sinatra Jr. and Joey Heatherton.

The next CBS National Geographic special, on April 16, will be a story of Portuguese cod fishermen whose work takes them out to the seas for six months at a time. The show is called "The Lonely Drymen."

Recommended tonight: "Kiss Me Kate," ABC, 9:30-11 EST, Robert Goulet and Carol Lawrence in an adaptation of Cole Porter's 20-year-old musical comedy hit.

Average citizen: one who isn't afraid to bawl out the President, but is always polite to a policeman.

Betty—Why is a clock like a vain, pretty young lady? Peggy—I fail to see any resemblance. Why? Betty—Because it's all face and figure, has no head to speak of, is very hard to stop after it is wound up, and has a striking way of calling attention to itself every hour of the day.

From Pittsburgh comes the report that Herbert Gibbs, a night-club doorman, was given a jail sentence for taking a patron's car on his first day on the job. He didn't park the car until he reached Cleveland.

A candidate for the police force was being given a verbal examination. Officer Gray—if you were by yourself in a police car and were pursued by a desperate gang of criminals in another car doing forty miles an hour along a lonely road, what would you do?

The candidate looked puzzled for a moment. Then he replied: Candidate Long—Fifty.

Spirit is the thing that awakens Ambition. Purpose is the Driving Force and Attainment is the goal where you find Satisfaction.

In Washington they tell the story of a clergyman who had been badly beaten on the links by a parishioner 30 years his senior and had returned to the clubhouse rather disgruntled. Mr. Jones (his opponent)—Cheer up, remember, you win at the finish. You'll probably be burying me some day.

Rev. Brown—Even then, it will be your hole.

What other people think of you depends entirely on what you make them think. No person can afford idleness without first having earned it. Intuition is what enables a woman to contradict her husband before he opens his mouth.

At another preliminary hearing, the justice of the peace glared at the defendant. Judge Hill—You're charged with forgery, Horace? How do you plead?

Horace—Not guilty. You know, Judge, I can't even write my own name.

Judge Hill—That doesn't enter into it, Horace. You're held for the grand jury. You're not charged with writing your own name.

An agent was trying to sell Sam Goldwyn a prominent actor. Goldwyn told the agent that he wasn't interested in established stars, that he wanted to build his own actors. Sam Goldwyn—Look how I developed Jon Hall. He's a better leading man than a Robert Taylor will ever be—some day.

He (at the movies)—Can you see all right? She—Yes. He—Is there a draft on you? She—No. He—Is your seat comfortable? She—Yes. He—Will you change places with me?

When a man has a rip on his coat and only three buttons on his vest, he should do one of two things—either get married or get divorced.

The only son announced his engagement. Mrs. Blank (his mother)—What? She is much too old for you. Aunt Jane—Has she red hair? Grandma Bell—I understand she is fond of pleasure. Uncle Joe—She has no money. John (the son)—But she has one important quality. The Family—What is that? John (the son)—She has no relatives.

You can never produce a sunny disposition with artificial sunlight.

A man who was a golfing bug married a woman who loved to attend auction sales. Both of them talked in their sleep. One night the husband yelled: Mr. Jackson—Fore! The wife promptly shouted: Mrs. Jackson—$4.25!

Budget Fight Brews, Travia Eyes Slices

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A battle over Gov. Rockefeller's budget was brewing in the legislature today as Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia said he would try to scale down Rockefeller's $494-million tax-increase package to "between $300 million and $400 million."

"I'm serious about cutting this budget," the Democratic leader said. "I'm going to fight this budget and fight it as much as I can."

Among other things, Travia said he intended to slash the $100-million state employee pay raise package that the Rockefeller administration negotiated earlier this month.

Whole $100 Million Out

"I'm not going to give them the whole $100 million," he told newsmen.

He said he did not approve of Rockefeller's plan to give all workers the same 10 per cent pay boost, across the board, but was considering an adjustment that would give more money to employees in the lower and middle wage brackets.

"They're not going to strike to give their bosses more pay," he said with a grin.

Travia said he also was prepared to carry his budget fight beyond the April 1 start of the new fiscal year, if necessary.

He revealed that he had drafted legislation that would authorize the state to continue functioning on the spending level of old budget and to continue paying its employees on that basis, until a new budget was approved.

"Everybody wonders about how you can go on without a budget — well I'll show them, if I have to," he said.

Travia threw down the budget challenge to Rockefeller and the Senate's Republican leadership as the politically split legislature approached the showdown phase of its annual budget-cutting exercise.

The Republicans would like to bring a revised budget to a vote by mid-week or by Friday at the latest.

The objective of the leaders of both parties is to pare enough from Rockefeller's $5.5-billion spending plan to cut back the $494 million in tax increases he feller's proposal to raise the liquor tax by 10 cents a fifth, a $15-million proposition.

In addition, Rockefeller has recommended a cent-a-gallon boost in the gasoline tax, to raise an estimated $21 million, plus a variety of business-tax increases totaling $182 million and a $6-million increase in the tax on pari-mutuel horse racing.

Travia said he had been considering adjustments in the business taxes but indicated that he would prefer not to entangle himself in that area.

The Democratic leader said his view at this point — without bargaining seriously with the Republicans — was that between $300 million and $400 million in higher taxes would be needed to finance the budget.

The impetus for voting such tax increases, he said, will have to come from the Senate because it is controlled by Rockefeller's party.

For his part, Travia said, he is going to insist on cutting the budget to the maximum and thus minimize the need for higher taxes.

Looking ahead to the possibility that a budget would not be adopted by April 1, Travia recalled that the legislature went several weeks beyond that deadline in 1965, when both houses were under Democratic control. State employees were paid through a loan system volunteered by the banks.

Travia said there would be no need to resort to such an arrangement this time if his stop-gap legislation were adopted.

Grant to Marist

Marist College in Poughkeepsie has been granted $176,918 under the Federal Office of Economic Opportunity Upward Bound Program for 130 high school students in Ulster and Dutchess Counties.

According to the office of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick the money will be used in the 1968-69 academic year. The program will start with an on-campus residential phase this summer.

High schoolers in the 10th and 11th grades who are judged as not reaching their potential will be recruited by community action groups, social agencies and school officials. They will come from both the ghetto and rural areas of the two counties.

Burns and Resnick Swap Verbal Blows

NEW YORK (AP) — Sharp verbal infighting characterized the looming Johnson-Kennedy presidential nomination battle in New York State Sunday.

President Johnson's supporters chastized New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for waging what they said was a "ruthless . . . full-scale political war," charging that Kennedy forces had threatened to destroy state Democratic leaders who refused to support him.

From the other side, State Democratic Chairman John J. Burns, a leader of the Kennedy forces, accused Rep. Joseph Y. Resnick of Ellenville, who is pro-Johnson, of "trying to buy" the Democratic nomination of U.S. Senate.

Resnick is one of four declared candidates for the nomination to oppose Republican Sen. Jacob K. Javits in November's election.

Talking of Resnick, the state chairman remarked: "He's said in a very brash way he's willing to spend $3 million" on his campaign.

Resnick shot back: "Burns is supposed to be a state chairman. If he had a shred of political decency he would resign and go on Kennedy's payroll."

The congressman said Burns had been "bought and paid for" by Kennedy forces, explaining that he meant payment "in goodies—in prestige of being part of Kennedy's organization."

Frank D. O'Connor, New York's City Council president and chairman of the Johnson committee, said Kennedy was waging a "ruthless" effort to roll up support for his presidential candidacy.

O'Connor said Kennedy's "full-scale political war" could jeopardize chances for peace in Vietnam, of business."

Said Chairman Burns: "The blood bath is a way of life in the Democratic party."

Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal of Queens, a Kennedy backer, predicted that the senator would win all 12 Queens delegates to the Democratic National Convention, despite a 49-11 pro-Johnson vote by the country's district leaders Saturday. Rosenthal said the vote was "not an accurate reflection of the people."

Rep. Otis Pike of Suffolk County, also a would-be ballot opponent of Sen. Javits, said Kennedy could not succeed in his presidential effort, and the "most that he can possibly accomplish is the election of Richard Nixon," the former vice president who is the Republican contender.

In Manhattan's 20th Congressional District, residents chose 18 proposed delegates pledged to support Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's presidential aspirations at the Democratic National Convention. Of the 18, a screening committee of the Coalition of the Democratic AL-

Budget Fight Brews, Travia Eyes Slices

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A battle over Gov. Rockefeller's budget was brewing in the legislature today as Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia said he would try to scale down Rockefeller's $494-million tax increase package to "between $300 million and $400 million."

"I'm serious about cutting this budget," the Democratic leader said. "I'm going to fight this budget and fight it as much as I can."

Among other things, Travia said he intended to slash the $100-million state employee pay raise package that the Rockefeller administration negotiated earlier this month.

Whole $100 Million Out

"I'm not going to give them the whole $100 million," he told newsmen.

He said he did not approve of Rockefeller's plan to give all workers the same 10 per cent pay boost, across the board, but was considering an adjustment that would give more money to employees in the lower and middle wage brackets.

"They're not going to strike to give their bosses more pay," he said with a grin.

He revealed that he had drafted legislation that would authorize the state to continue functioning on the spending level of old budget and to continue paying its employees on that basis, until a new budget was approved.

"Everybody wonders about how you can go on without a budget — well I'll show them, if I have to," he said.

Travia threw down the budget challenge to Rockefeller and the Senate's Republican leadership as the politically split legislature approached the showdown phase of its annual budget-cutting exercise.

The Republicans would like to bring a revised budget to a vote by mid-week or by Friday at the latest.

The objective of the leaders of both parties is to pare enough from Rockefeller's $5.5-billion spending plan to cut back the $494 million in tax increases he says he needs to help balance the budget.

Both Travia and the Senate's Republican majority leader, Earl W. Brydges, have said they are particularly eager to reduce the 20 per cent income-tax surcharge that Rockefeller proposed as the major element in his tax package. It would yield an estimated $270 million in the new fiscal year.

Travia said he had been "trying out" other percentages — 15, 10 or 7 per cent — to see how they would affect the revenue situation.

Fiscal sources in both the Democratic and Republican camps have agreed, however, that it is unlikely the legislature could find enough economies in the spending column to reduce the figure below 10 per cent. Fifteen per cent is regarded as more realistic.

A deeper cut in the surcharge becomes even less likely if the leaders should pursue their hope of eliminating other tax increases in the package.

The Republicans, for example, would like to delete Rockefeller's proposal to raise the liquor tax by 10 cents a fifth, a $15-million proposition.

In addition, Rockefeller has recommended a cent-a-gallon boost in the gasoline tax, to raise an estimated $21 million, plus a variety of business-tax increases totaling $182 million and a $6-million increase in the tax on pari-mutuel horse racing.

Travia said he had been considering adjustments in the business taxes but indicated that he would prefer not to entangle himself in that area.
